JAPANESE MOVE TO TRAP FOE IN SHANGHAI WAR

Chinese Forces Rush to Stop Drive.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 7.—(AP)—A Japanese column crossed the Whangpoo river today near Sungkiang, 22 miles southwest of here, in a drive which threatened to envelop or isolate all Chinese armies in the Shanghai area.

Gen. Chang Fah-kwei.

This column was the vanguard of a Japanese force estimated at 25,000 which landed Friday on the sea coast south of Shanghai and has driven steadily northward. A rice ferry just south of Sungkiang afforded means of crossing.

The Japanese announced they were preparing to attack Sungkiang, keypoint in the Chinese defense system. Gen. Chang Fah-kwei, "Ironsides" commander of Chinese forces in the Shanghai area, was said to be rushing his best troops toward Sungkiang, practically deserting Pootung, just across the Whangpoo from Shanghai's famous bund.

Only small forces to fight rearguard actions were believed left in Pootung, once rich industrial and farming area which the Chinese have held since the beginning of the battle for Shanghai and which has formed one of the thorniest problems for the Japanese strategists. Chinese batteries there have constantly attacked the Japanese naval flotilla on the river.

For days fleets of junks and sampans have been ferrying frightened Chinese civilians from Pootung to the Shanghai side of the river.

Japan's Sungkiang thrust threatened all communications between the Chinese forces still holding positions in Shanghai's fringes with important bases to the southeast, notably Hangchow, capital of Chekiang province.

Land Reinforcements.

Chinese military authorities at Sungkiang said the Japanese were approaching, but had only been able to throw about 100 shock troops across the river and that those soon would be driven back or annihilated.

A fleet of Japanese troopships was reported landing reinforcements for the forces moving north from Hangchow bay. Three avenues of Japanese advance were evident. A central column thrust at Sungkiang. The right wing was reported moving along the Shanghai-Hangchow motor road toward Minhang, fifteen miles south of Shanghai, where a major battle appeared in prospect.

The left wing appeared to be swerving southward into Chekiang, apparently aiming at Kashing, 55 miles southwest of Shanghai, to cut the network of communications lines between Shanghai and Hangchow, including railway, auto road, a branch railway to Soochow, and the ancient Grand canal.

Menace Shanghai Defenders.

In addition to Pootung, the new Japanese advances endangered Chinese positions south of Soochow creek along the western edge of Shanghai's international areas. Japanese reported minor advances there, but the real threat came from the south. It was believed the Japanese were trying to compel the Chinese to withdraw without further fighting to their "winter line" some 20 miles west of Shanghai.

Chinese Still Hold City.

PEIPING, Nov. 7.—(AP)—A fast moving Japanese column today was reported to have reached a point 30 miles south of Taiyuanfu, capital of Shansi province, but behind the 40

N. Y. Detective Dies After Being Bitten by Prisoner

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Detective Arthur J. De Marrais of Brooklyn, who had been cited several times for valor, died tonight in a Brooklyn hospital after having been bitten on the cheek by a colored prisoner. He was taken to the hospital after he had shot and seriously wounded John Brown, 37, when the latter resisted arrest.

KELLY PROGRAM WOULD DOUBLE RAPID SERVICE

Negotiations Will Be Next Step.

Map of Traction Plan

On the back page today is a map giving a comprehensive view of the elevated lines, superhighways, and a downtown subway under Mayor Kelly's traction program.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

More than twice as many passengers as are now carried on the elevated lines will have rapid transportation if the traction rehabilitation program proposed by Mayor Kelly becomes a fact.

This is the announcement of engineers who under the direction of Philip Harrington, engineer for the city council's local transportation committee, are nearing completion of their detailed report which will approve the mayor's plan. This report is to be ready within two weeks and will be followed by negotiations between traction companies and the city to work out an ordinance embracing the 157 million dollar improvement and unification program.

Elevated Roads to Help.

The average daily number of revenue passengers carried on Chicago's elevated system is now about 472,000. Under Mayor Kelly's plan at least 1,096,000 persons could be carried daily on rapid transit rail lines and twenty miles of elevated superhighways which would be constructed chiefly through conversion to motor use of all of the west side elevated lines except the Garfield park branch.

The practical capacity [capacity based on peak use during rush hours and normal use during the rest of the day] is, therefore, 132 per cent greater than present use.

One of the outstanding facts revealed by the mayor's engineers is that the Garfield park branch of the elevated, which would be retained as an "L" line, would be more than able to carry all of the passengers now using all existing west side lines.

Able to Use Single Line.

The Garfield park branch, according to estimates made by city experts, would have a capacity of 210,000 passengers a day. The average week-day volume on the west side lines is now 189,000.

The following tabulation gives the figures on the present daily use of the "L" lines and the carrying capacity under Mayor Kelly's plan:

	No. now riding.	Capacity under Kelly plan
North side division	178,000	380,000
South side division	105,000	206,000
West side:
Lake street	47,000	*106,000
Douglas	49,000	*105,000
Logan Square	40,000	*95,000
Garfield park	53,000	210,000
Totals	472,000	1,096,000

*Superhighways to replace elevated lines.

The estimates of the number who would be accommodated on superhighways include approximately the same number of passengers in express buses operating over the highways as now patronize the elevated rail lines which would be discontinued. In addition, the engineers say that 96,000 private automobiles would use the highways. Based on an average of 1.7 riders per private car, 163,000 persons would be so accommodated.

Adapted to Bigger Load.

The engineers in computing figures on anticipated revenues and earnings of a unified system are assuming a 10 per cent increase in the use of mass transportation vehicles. If the persons who ride in private cars on the superhighways be included, it is stated that at least 45 per cent more people will use the system than do now.

A ten per cent increase in the 472,000 daily average now using the elevated would bring that figure to 519,200. Adding 163,000 riders in private cars gives a total of 682,200.

The big factor in increasing the capacity of the present elevated rail lines would be the two track subway to be built in State street to carry north and south side elevated trains beneath the central business district.

The practical capacity of the present Union Loop, which actually fixes the capacity of the elevated system, is 630,000 passengers a day, engineers say. About 420,000 now use it each day.

The capacity of the downtown rapid

Races Train in Vain to Halt Suicide

THE SHADOW ACROSS ENGLAND

Motorist Sees Pianist Fall at 60 Mile Speed

Motorists on a road west of Galesburg, Mich., looked on in horror yesterday as a Chicago pianist, hanging by his finger tips to the sill of a car window of a swiftly moving train, battled vainly to draw himself back to safety.

W. F. Erlandson, killed in plunge from train, and [below] route of auto's race with train.

The train, the Wolverine Limited of the Michigan Central, was speeding at a mile a minute rate toward Chicago on tracks that parallel U. S. highway 12, on which the motorists, Carl Solomon of Kalamazoo, Mich., and John Miller of Cleveland, O., were riding.

Solomon, going in the same direction, spied Erlandson as the train left Galesburg. The motorist sped up and tried to attract the attention of persons on the train. He was unsuccessful and the swinging man, his grip suddenly giving away, fell to death beside the tracks a mile and a half west of Galesburg.

Competes for Recital.

The victim was identified as William F. Erlandson, 30 years old, 3324 Belden avenue, a concert pianist and music teacher. Police at Kalamazoo, a short distance west of Galesburg, believed he had climbed out with the intention of killing himself and then attempted to crawl back to the car.

At his home it was learned that Erlandson, who has been enthusiastic about a musical career since he was 14 years old, left last week for New York to compete in the MacDowell club's annual contest for young pianists. The prize for the winner was a public recital.

His hopes were blasted. Mrs. Lillian Barth, secretary of the MacDowell club, said that 57 musicians competed and that Erlandson was not one of the four chosen as finalists. "He was visibly disappointed at having failed," she said.

Noticed by None on Train.

No one on the train knew of the tragedy until a telegram from Kalamazoo was delivered to the conductor at Michigan City. The porter on the car, Chris Caufey, had noticed Erlandson's nervous condition and pulled down his window when he opened it at Battle Creek.

A brakeman closed the window after the train had reached Kalamazoo and no one noticed that Erlandson was missing.

MIXED FEELINGS GRIP CAPITAL IN WINDSOR FIASCO

High Society Shows Most Regret.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Whether it be, as many thoughtful persons suggest, the persistence of our colonial attitude toward the British monarchy, the episode of the Windsors continues to hold the all-absorbing interest of official Washington to the exclusion of the approaching extraordinary session of congress, the business recession, and the virtues and vices of the Roosevelt régime.

With mingled disappointment and satisfaction the official set and the upper crust of Washington society learned today that it will be a long time before the duke and duchess of Windsor will venture to these shores if, in fact, they ever should condescend to favor us with their presence. The word from Paris is that not until America is prepared to exhibit a proper degree of deference to the demi-royal couple will the Windsors be disposed to rescind their determination not to visit us.

Embassy Invitations a Factor.

The disappointment at the sudden turn of events was noted chiefly among the ultra-ultra socially elect who had received invitations from the British embassy to dine with the Windsors next Thursday. In addition to the satisfaction of knowing that they were rated tops socially in Washington by the British embassy, these persons had been given reason to believe that they would be permitted to rub elbows with the royal Edward and the woman for whom he renounced the British throne.

With inexpressible relief, however, the news of the cancelation of the Windsors' visit was heard by the socially ambitious who had failed to receive recognition from the British embassy by officials of the Roosevelt administration to whom the political and protocolary problems of the reception of British royalty had brought nothing but headaches, and, 'tis said, by the British embassy itself.

Some Continue to Hope.

Those who "dearly love a lord," however, have not given up hope of inducing the duke and duchess to come to America some time during the approaching social season. They feel that some of the most important obstacles have been removed by the withdrawal of Charles Bedaux, originator of a labor speed-up system, from any connection with the Windsors and with the public declaration of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that if the duke comes unsponsored by Bedaux union labor will receive him cordially and coöperate with him in his exploration of social betterment.

If in addition the White House can be induced to accord the Windsors royal honors, another important obstacle will be removed. Among diplomats here the attitude of the White House is regarded as one of the prime reasons the Windsors canceled their visit. Instead of giving them a state dinner, the highest mark of honor, the President at first put the Windsors down for a luncheon, and a luncheon, at that, at which Mrs. Roosevelt would not be present.

Reported Offended by Tea Plans.

Later not only did Mrs. Roosevelt refuse to alter her speaking engagements in order to entertain the Windsors but the President changed the luncheon to the lower social rating of a tea. At that the Windsors are reported to have taken great offense. To royalty, the refusal of Mrs. Roosevelt to accommodate herself to royal command appeared particularly incomprehensible.

Those who are confident the Windsors will come to America at no distant date are relying chiefly on Duchess Wally to bring the expedition about. It is now pretty well established that the projected visit originated with the duchess.

QUEEN MARIE STRICKEN AGAIN; 8 SPECIALISTS CALLED TO BEDSIDE

BUCHAREST, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania tonight suffered a severe recurrence of the intestinal bleeding which doctors said she experienced last March.

Eight noted specialists were summoned to fly to her bedside in Zotrozeni castle for a consultation tomorrow noon. The doctors were the same consulted in June when Marie, who is 61 years old, was ill with a serious liver ailment. The queen's internal hemorrhage was so severe that her daughter, Queen Marie of Jugo-Slavia, also was summoned. She was expected to arrive tomorrow morning.

King Carol, just returned from a trip to Czechoslovakia, canceled plans for a hunting excursion in Transylvania to be near his mother.

FIRE DESTROYS 'SUPERHEAVEN'; 'ANGELS' ESCAPE

Kingston, N. Y., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Greenkill Park Inn, Father Divine's "super-super heaven" near Kingston, was burned to the ground at noon today by fire of unknown origin which started in the attic.

The inn containing about 80 rooms was of frame construction and burned so rapidly that a number of "angels" in the building had to leap out of the windows to escape.

Greenkill park for many years was a popular summer resort. It was purchased about a year ago by the Negro cult leader who announced it was to be a super-super heaven. He spent a large sum in improvements to the inn.

HOTTER IT GETS LESS IT BURNS: A NEW WONDER

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—A chemical process which is retarded by increasing heat was described today by the American Chemical society. Such a thing, the society declared, is as remarkable as "a fire which quenches itself as it grows hotter."

The process was reported to the society by Prof. D. B. Keyes and H. D. Foster of the University of Illinois. It was described as a phenomenon which "is believed to mark the first time that any one has been able to slow up burning of an organic material by raising the temperature."

Two Visitors Ignore Warnings; Are Felled at Doors by Gunfire

Georgia Governor's Mother Arrested.

Nashville, Ark., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Deputy sheriffs spoke respectfully but firmly today when they called at the home of Mrs. R. C. Kelly in nearby Mineral Springs. Mrs. Kelly is the mother of Georgia's governor, E. D. Rivers. One of the deputies, J. G. Reese, announced to her that he had a warant charging Mrs. Kelly with shooting and seriously wounding J. R. Page, 68 years old, a former Nashville alderman.

Where Shooting Occurred.

Tells of Shooting.

The story of the shooting, as related by Deputy Reeves, was this: Page called last Wednesday at the Kelly home, although Mrs. Kelly had warned him not to come there. When he didn't leave quickly enough she fired a pistol bullet through the front door. It struck Page in the abdomen. The cause of the disagreement between Mrs. Kelly, who is 65 years old, and her caller was not disclosed. Page is now in a hospital at Hope, Ark., in what is described as a critical condition.

Mrs. Kelly received the deputies' call politely, however, posted $500 bond, and waived an examining trial. Then she secluded herself in her home and refused to be interviewed. Her case is scheduled to come up at the February term of court.

Another Son on Way.

The Rivers family has long been prominent in this part of Arkansas, and the Georgia governor was born and reared here. It was reported tonight that James S. Rivers, another son, who is head of the Georgia office of the federal bureau of unemployment compensation, was on his way from Atlanta. The governor himself said that his brother would render any assistance needed.

Chicagoan Wounded Over Mortgage.

Henry Hammarquist, 41 years old, a real estate dealer, was shot and seriously wounded yesterday when he went into a bungalow at 7246 South Morgan street in disregard of signs on the doors which read: "No one to enter under penalty of death."

Ackerson Hessler.

Ackerson C. Hessler, 67 years old, owner of the bungalow, was seized by police and identified by Hammarquist as his assailant. Hessler denied the shooting. Englewood police learned that the property was in foreclosure proceedings brought by Hammarquist and that Hessler had refused to vacate.

Mortgaged for $500.

Hessler has been occupying the attic and renting the first floor. Several years ago he mortgaged the property for $500 and this was eventually taken up by Hammarquist, who has offices at 349 East 75th street and lives at 7504 Colfax avenue.

The real estate man appeared at Hessler's house before noon yesterday as the first floor tenants, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Buck, were moving. Hammarquist tore down one of the warning signs and, according to Mrs. Buck, before he left pushed Hessler against a wall.

Returns with Workmen.

An hour or so later Hammarquist reappeared. With him were two plasterers, Julius Larsen, 619 East 71st street, and Henry Hendrickson, 7021 South Bishop street, who were to do repair work, and a friend, Vincent Vogt, 7504 Colfax avenue.

Hammarquist opened the rear door. There was a shot. He fell wounded. Neither Larsen, Hendrickson, nor Vogt saw the shooting. Hammarquist was taken to the Jackson Park hospital.

Open Franklin Street with Ceremony Today

Mayor Kelly and merchants in Chicago's wholesale market district will participate in dedication ceremonies at noon today when Franklin street, which has been widened, is formally opened to traffic.

Ships Pass Through Canal for Japan with War Cargo

NEXT MOVE UNDECIDED

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 7.—The duke and duchess of Windsor, stunned by the dramatic turn of events which caused cancelation of their trip to America, have not considered their next move, it was learned today.

They mean to stay in Paris until after Armistice day at least. They will visit the Paris exposition once more and on Armistice day it is understood the duke will "do something"—possibly take part in the services at the British church, lay a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, or review a parade with President Albert Lebrun of France.

Reaction in Favor of Duke.

Sentiment in Paris took a turn today in favor of the Windsors, who called off their trip to America because of labor criticism of their friend Charles E. Bedaux, who was managing the duke's "social appeasement" study tour. Also telephoned information from London indicates there is a growing sentiment among ordinary Britishers that the Windsors are being badly treated.

The duke and duchess were driven by their chauffeur out to Versailles and Saint Cyr this afternoon. After a stroll in Versailles park the couple took tea at the Versailles estate of Sir Charles and Lady Mendl—the American Elsie de Wolfe.

Wally's Title Discussed Again.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 8 [Monday]—This morning's Daily Express headlined a story saying that the duke and duchess of Windsor may pay a purely private visit to America next spring or summer. The Express also raised the question of the possibility of the British government sanctioning their return to England.

"The possibility of the duke and duchess visiting England is believed to have been a subject of discussion between the royal family and the government recently," the Daily Express announced. "But even if other considerations could be overcome, there is the major difficulty of the duchess' status in Britain."

Compromise Suggested.

The newspaper recalls how a royal proclamation of last May granted Edward the title of "royal highness" but accorded Wally only that of "her grace."

"It is known that the duke holds strongly that his wife should share his title in full if they are to return," says the newspaper, "but it is not likely that this condition would be granted. A compromise has been suggested. It is that the duchess should be 'received' by the royal family but continue to be known as 'her grace.' Whether the duke would agree to this, however, is equally doubtful."

TWO RESCUED AS THEY CLING TO UPSET BOAT

Two young men, clinging to their 15 foot sailing boat after it had been overturned in the lake off 18th street, were rescued by coast guardsmen yesterday after a chilly half hour in the water.

The pair, Thomas Bingesshein, 23 years old, 4937 North Ada street, and George Wajakiewicz, 22 years old, 5224 Fullerton avenue, had been out for a short time when the craft toppled over. Helpless, they were drifting when persons on the shore saw their plight and called the coast guard.

A detachment commanded by Chief Boatswain's Mate Ludwig Wedemayer set out at once in a picket boat. They found the two men little the worse for the ducking, and they were allowed to go home after their craft had been righted and towed in.

These three graphs show vividly the upward trend in population in Chicago and the surrounding portions of Illinois since 1917. The figures for 1920 and 1930 are from the United States census. Those for 1917, 1918, and 1919, for the years 1921 to 1929, inclusive, and for 1931, 1932, and 1933 are estimates of the census bureau. Estimates for 1934 to 1937, inclusive, and the forecasts for 1938 and 1940 were made by Fowler and Cushing, statisticians for various Illinois utility companies.

EXPECT NEARLY 5 MILLION BY '40 IN CHICAGO AREA

Population Race Since '17 Charted in 5 Counties.

The population of the five Illinois counties that are the heart of Chicagoland is now, according to the best estimates obtainable, 4,782,000. And, if forecasts on which business men rely are correct, it will reach 4,941,000 in 1940.

The accompanying charts show how these five counties, Cook, Lake, Kane, Du Page, and Will, which had a total estimated population of 3,183,664 in 1917, have fared in the race to absorb the additional hundreds of thousands who have come into this territory since 1917.

Show Steady Gains.

The figures on which they are based show that while the rate of growth has lessened since 1930, steady gains are being made yearly in every county. They also show that the rate of growth has been much more spectacular in some counties than in others. Lake and Du Page, for example, have had something like boom-town increases. Cook county has remained near the average for the five counties and Will and Kane have had less than the average percentage of growth.

The figures for 1920 and 1930 are from the United States census. Those for other years prior to 1934 are census bureau estimates. Estimates for 1934 to 1937, inclusive, and forecasts for 1938, 1939, and 1940 were made by Fowler and Cushing, public utility statisticians.

Gain Is 55 Per Cent.

For convenience the extension to 1940 has been used throughout on the charts. They show the percentage gains in the five counties—1917 to 1940—is 55 per cent [assuming, of course, that the forecasts are accurate]. In tabular form the increases, actual and by percentage, are:

Four counties [Cook not included]	297,459	491,000	65.1
Chicago	2,570,120	3,720,000	44.7

The estimates show that the four counties, exclusive of Cook, gained a total of 175,541 inhabitants between 1917 and 1937. In the same period Cook county's increase was 1,422,795. The forecasts indicate that in the next three years Chicago will gain 100,000 inhabitants, Cook county as a whole 141,000, and the other four counties a total of 18,000.

FRENCH TO FIGHT ITALY WITH RADIO IN COLONIAL ROW

PARIS, Nov. 7.—(AP)—A cabinet member today said France soon would be equipped for a radio counter-offensive against Italian Fascist propaganda in Frances' own colonies.

Jean Baptiste Lebas, Socialist minister of communications, made the declaration to the national council of the Socialist party.

"In a few weeks a colonial radio station will function to reach all French possessions," he said.

U. S. TO REJECT DE CHAMBRUN'S GUN ASSAILANT

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Immigration officials prepared tonight to meet the liner Normandie when it docks here tomorrow and send back to France one of its passengers, Magda de Fontagnes, self-styled former mistress of Benito Mussolini, who is under a year's suspended sentence for the attempted assassination of Count Charles de Chambrun.

Reports from the Normandie say she is confined to her tiny tourist class cabin by seasickness. Besides the ship's purser and Gen. Adelbert de Chambrun, brother of her erstwhile gun target, who also is a passenger, only a few persons know of her presence on the Normandie. She obtained her visa under her real name of Madeleine de la Ferriere, but she is traveling under the name of Corabeuf.

Gen. de Chambrun, who was informed of her identity yesterday, was reported to be considerably alarmed and has scarcely ventured from his cabin since he heard the news.

Griefstricken Widower Shoots Self at Wife's Bier

Grief stricken over the death of his wife, Edna, twelve hours earlier, George O. Paetzold, 45 years old, 6618 Yale avenue, a milk wagon driver, shot himself twice near the heart last night in the undertaking rooms at 7350 Cottage Grove avenue, where his wife's body lay. He was taken to the Billings Memorial hospital in a critical condition.

BOLSTER POSSIBILITY WINDSOR MAY SPEAK TO U. S. FROM EUROPE

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The possibility the duke of Windsor may address Americans by radio from Europe at the time he was originally to speak from Washington, Nov. 12, was strengthened today when Paul White, director of special events for the Columbia Broadcasting system, said the program has been scheduled for an estimated 300 stations for 6 to 6:15 p. m., Chicago time.

White said Columbia's foreign representative was instructed to inform the duke the time is available. The agent has delivered the message, White added, and thus far there had been no reply.

A press department spokesman at the National Broadcasting company said it was assumed there that the broadcast was canceled when the duke's trip was called off. He added, however, that NBC had made efforts to have the duke go on the air at once and personally clarify his decision for American listeners.

JOHN D. PIERCE TAKES OWN LIFE; ONCE WEALTHY

John D. Pierce, 64 years old, once well to do business man who served as a member of the Winnetka village board from 1919 to 1924, committed suicide last night by shooting himself in his room at the Ontario hotel, 620 North State street.

Pierce pinned a message stating, "Suicide in bathroom" on the door of his room. In the room were other notes, one addressed to his estranged wife, Alta, a teacher in the public schools. Another, to the coroner, disclosed that Pierce had been living in recent months on funds furnished by charity.

One time curator of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Pierce came to Chicago in 1907. From 1922 to 1929 he was president of the Combination Woodworking Machinery company.

MADRID BESIEGED A YEAR; CHEERS DEFENSE HEROES

Also Sends Good Wishes to Soviet Union.

MADRID, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Government Spain today celebrated a double anniversary—a year of Madrid's siege by rebels and twenty years since Russia's bolshevist revolution—with parades, massmeetings, and congratulatory messages to military and civil officials.

Memorial meetings in cemeteries honored those who died during November, 1936, when the city was saved from capture. Gen. José Miaja, chief of Madrid's defenders, was hailed as a hero and the savior of the city at every meeting.

Name Street for Soviet.

Newspaper articles praised Miaja, saying he had saved Spain from Fascism. Other articles praised 20 years of progress in the soviet union. Part of the Gran Via—Madrid's Broadway—was renamed "Avenue of the Soviet Union." Government officials sent congratulatory messages to Moscow.

It was just a year ago that the demoralized government army fell back to the western edge of Madrid and there, bolstered by freshly arrived international brigades, stood off the rebels. The city, however, has suffered heavily from artillery fire and plane bombings. Police estimate 3,000 persons have been killed in the city during the year, and 15,000 or 20,000 injured.

Fighting in Aragon Sector.

An expected rebel artillery attack on Madrid today failed to materialize. There was considerable military action on the upper Aragon front, far northeast of Madrid, but no important changes of positions. The rebels launched several attacks on the Boltana sector, north of Huesca, where heavy fighting resulted in considerable loss of life.

The government was reported moving men and munitions to reinforce both the Teruel front, in east central Spain, and the Almeria front on the southeastern coast. This supported the idea that the rebels would attempt a drive up the southern coast from Malaga toward Almeria and at the same time strike from Teruel to cut the coastal strip linking Valencia and Barcelona.

[Copyright, 1937: By the New York Times.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 7.—The police raided Jewish homes early today and took 503 Jewish men and women to headquarters for inspection of their identification papers. All but 29 were released. The raids were made because the police suspected hundreds of Polish Jews had immigrated to Hungary without permission.

SOVIET SHOWS ITS MIGHT IN PARADE ON 20TH BIRTHDAY

Million Reds March Past Tomb of Lenin.

MOSCOW, Nov. 7.—(AP)—With one of the greatest martial displays in its history the soviet union today celebrated the twentieth anniversary of the Bolshevist revolution that gave it birth.

Marshal Voroshilov.

More than a million persons joined with the army in the demonstration, marching past the tomb of Nikolai Lenin, whose coup of twenty years ago began a new régime in Russia.

Tanks, guns, and thousands of soldiers swept past that shrine under the eyes of Dictator Josef Stalin, displaying the union's backing for the declaration of its defense commissar, Marshal Klementi Voroshilov:

"The Red army is for peace, but we are ready to beat off any enemy attack."

Clouds Prevent Air Show.

Gray skies—heavy as the war clouds over Europe—prevented the customary massed display of air strength. Only a few dozen planes roared over Red square after the military review.

Voroshilov was the only speaker to address the troops that streamed before Lenin's tomb, where members of the government, foreign diplomats, and guests stood.

Joseph E. Davies, United States ambassador, saw the parade from the front row of the diplomatic stand with his daughter, Emlen Knight Davies. Interested spectators were the members of the military mission from Outer Mongolia, the buffer state between the soviet and Japan's fresh conquests in China.

On a sorrel horse, Voroshilov rode past the massed troops, halting before each unit.

Fascism, he said, was the direct result of capitalism, and the two together formed the cause of present wars in Spain and China. He outlined the progress of the soviet during the last twenty years and then referred indirectly to the purge of army leaders and other alleged enemies of the régime:

"Now it must be clear to every one that if it were not for our enemies at home and abroad our achievements would have been considerably greater."

Provincial newspapers brought reports of five more executions and four death sentences for disruption of the agricultural program.

Executions Now Total 1,100.

The known executions of farm and grain storage "wreckers" total 550 for the last three months, while the execution of 577 accused spies and saboteurs along with other shootings for anti-soviet activities has brought the total of victims since the year's purge began to well over 1,100.

As Voroshilov took his post for the review the battalions of green-helmeted troops began the march past with bayonets fixed and rifles thrust to the attack position.

FIGHTING POPPS TO VISIT CHICAGO IN OUTLAW HUNT

Four members of the fighting Popp family of Lake county, who used an iron pipe and shotgun to rout three hoodlums who tried to kidnap the eldest of their clan early Friday, are expected in Chicago today to view pictures of criminals at the detective bureau.

The man chosen as victim by the kidnapers is George Popp, 77 years old. Yesterday he said he dared the men to return so he could take stern vengeance.

Accompanying him here will be his daughter, Laura, and his son Frank, who have been in Chicago only twice in their lives, although the Popp farm is only about 40 miles out.

DOUBLE TRANSIT USEFULNESS BY MAYOR'S PLAN

transit rail facilities under the Kelly plan, including the subway and allowing for the removal of the Lake street and Wabash avenue sections of the Union Loop, would be 856,000 riders a day. This is nearly double the present use of the loop.

Equipped for 856,000.

If the modern facilities proposed by the mayor were built the subway would take care of 476,000 daily in both directions; the Van Buren street elevated [bringing in the Garfield park line] would handle 210,000 and the Wells street elevated 170,000 overflow from the north side, according to the city engineers.

Under the plan east-west street lines would be eliminated in the loop by constructing street car subways in Jackson boulevard and Washington street from Grant park to a point west of the river. The only street car lines in the loop would be on four north and south streets. East-west thoroughfares would be cleared for private cars and buses.

Street Car Lines Improved.

The street car lines which would be placed under ground now carry about 166,000 riders a day. The capacity of the two tunnels would be 213,000 riders a day. The engineers' figure is based on present equipment.

However, the Kelly proposal calls for the use of new street cars having a carrying capacity 30 per cent greater than old cars. This would bring the capacity of the tunnels to 263,000, even considering that the Madison street line already has the new equipment. Thus the new total capacity would be nearly 60 per cent greater than at present.

Mayor Kelly, in announcing his plan, declared that subways and superhighways should be constructed by public agencies. Of the total 157 million dollars to be spent for construction, extension and modernization, 58 million dollars is the estimated cost of publicly built facilities. They would be ready within six years.

Engineers Estimate Cost.

The cost of converting the west side elevated structures into superhighways and building an additional three miles of such highways to coordinate the system would be 28 million dollars. The cost of the subways, the engineers say, would be about 25 millions, and nearly 5 millions more is allowed for road repairs and repaving to permit operation of express and local bus lines on the surface in various parts of the city.

Financing the plan should offer no great obstacles, according to experts who have advised the mayor.

About 30 million dollars, or half of the total, they say, could be obtained through the sale of bonds, either to the public or to a federal governmental agency, which would be repaid from city revenues coming from the company operating the traction properties.

$2,000,000 Revenue Estimated.

The proposed ordinance unifying the traction companies would require the new company to pay 3 per cent of its gross revenues to the city as compensation for the use of superhighways, subways and city streets. This is estimated to produce more than 2 million dollars a year, enough to pay interest on and amortize a 30 million dollar 5 per cent bond issue in less than 25 years.

The county and state will be asked to aid in building the elevated highways. Each, it is proposed, will be asked to bear 25 per cent of the 28 million dollar cost, or a total of 14 million dollars for the two governments.

It is contemplated that the 5 million dollar cost of paving will be financed from revenue of the gasoline and vehicle tax funds. For other expenses and for the as yet unestimated cost ot acquiring from the rapid transit company the elevated structures for conversion, the traction fund would be available.

Although much of the 67 million dollar traction fund is invested in frozen tax anticipation warants purchased before 1933, the city financial officers say that 25 million dollars of the fund can be converted into cash immediately. In making up the total of $58,592,998 of public expenditure, it is planned to use $9,592,998 from the traction fund and from federal agency sources.

The Kelly plan provides for company expenditures of $98,728,100 in nine years, making the total public and company cost $157,321,098. Unlike previous traction plans, however, it does not require the public sale of company securities.

The company program would require only $25,503,274 in cash. The remainder of $73,224,826 would come from equipment trust financing and operating revenues. It is pointed out that the Chicago Surface Lines, the key company in any unification, now has cash reserves of approximately 30 million dollars.

Toll Question Remains.

Whether tolls are to be charged private users of the superhighways is a question yet to be determined. At present passenger car tolls are not being planned, as it is anticipated that the state and county will contribute from their highway funds for the project.

There are, however, many precedents for charging tolls on special highways. In New York, for example, users of the Holland tunnel, operated by the Port of New York authority, pay a 50 cent fee. The motorist finds the advantage more than offsets the cost. In Chicago, the motorist could use the existing surface highways with little extra distance to travel if he did not feel the time saving was worth the toll.

It is probable that out-of-town bus lines, if permitted to use the highways, would be required to pay a fee. The same applies to commercial vehicles which in special instances might be allowed to use the high speed arteries. As a rule, however, trucks would be prohibited from using the highways.

The west side, Mayor Kelly has pointed out, will be one of the chief beneficiaries of the modernization program. The plan provides a much needed modern transit service for the so-called blighted areas to the west, northwest and southwest of the downtown district and to sections further removed from the center.

The elevated railroads have not helped this territory, in which a substantial part of their system is operated. In fact, the claim is sometimes made that the noise of the trains and the condition of the structures have been contributing factors in the decline.

The conversion of the structures into superhighways for motor vehicles can be expected to make the territory more desirable for business and residence purposes, and the transit service, according to city engineers, will be as fast or faster than the present and it will be more frequent, comfortable and quiet.

Proposed Traction Expenditures

The following compilation shows proposed public and company expenditures and the cash outlays required to put Mayor Kelly's transit improvement program into effect over a nine year period:

Year.	Public investment.	Cash outlay required.	Company investment.	Cash outlay required.
First	$ 7,706,666	$ 7,706,666	$16,710,400	$ 1,238,541

*Credit. Excess of available cash over expenditure.

The tabulation shows that the plan requires a public expenditure of $58,592,998 in six years and a company investment of $98,728,100 in nine years, a total of $157,321,098.

CHINA'S DICTATOR OPPOSES PEACE TALK WITH JAPAN

Urges Collective Effort to Stop War.

NANKING, Nov. 8 [Monday].—(AP)—Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, dictator of China, today issued a formal statement opposing direct negotiations with Japan for settlement of the far eastern conflict.

He reaffirmed China's determination to continue the struggle until "justice is reëstablished in this part of the world," and expressed optimism concerning the military situation.

Even if the Brussels peace conference proposed direct Chinese-Japanese negotiations, Gen. Chiang said such a proposal would "serve no other purpose than to increase China's difficulties."

Suspicious of Japan.

Direct negotiations, he said, would merely provide Japan another opportunity to press terms which would be unacceptable not only to China but also unacceptable to the signatories of the nine-power treaty. The pact guarantees China's territorial and administrative integrity.

Gen. Chiang said that without effective guarantees any terms would be in danger of Japan's momentary violation, in view of past experience, and constitute neither an asset to Asian stability nor a worthy safeguard of China's integrity and independence.

He said three months of fighting had proved the efficacy of China's fundamental plan of resistance which is to conserve her own power while exhausting the enemy's.

Convinced that "the ultimate victory belongs to China," Chiang said China's position was based on unswerving adherence to the nine-power and other treaties and on coöperation in a collective effort to compose the far eastern situation.

Call Russia Peace Barrier.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The presence of soviet Russia at the Brussels conference on the Chinese-Japanese conflict loomed today as a likely barrier to peace talks between the conference and Japan.

Japanese circles said they believed Japan was ready to exchange information concerning the conflict in China with signatories of the nine power treaty of 1922—under which the Brussels conference was called—but not with nonsignatories like Russia.

The Japanese admitted their obligation under article seven of the treaty which calls for "full and frank" communication between the contracting powers in event of a crisis affecting China.

Seeks Direct Negotiations.

Japanese authorities said, however, that a willingness to discuss the crisis did not mean readiness to accept mediation of other nine power signatories in the conflict, which Japan believes should be settled only by direct Chinese-Japanese negotiations.

JAPS ATTEMPT TO ENCIRCLE SHANGHAI

Japanese troops yesterday began a new drive to encircle Chinese armies at Shanghai. Three columns struck from the south after 25,000 invaders landed near Chapoo, on Hangchow bay, last Friday. The right wing (1) was moving along Shanghai-Hangchow motor road toward Minhang. A central column (2) thrust at Sungkiang with its vanguard crossing the Whangpoo river at that point. The left wing (3) aimed at Kashing to cut Chinese communications lines. At Shanghai Japanese continued to smash at Chinese defenses north and west of the international settlement. The Japanese had pushed across Soochow creek in one or two spots.

Germany Suppresses Book of Nobel Prize Winner

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The official Reichsanzeiger announced today that "The Knights of the Cross," by Henryk Sienkiewicz, Polish novelist, had been banned in Germany on the ground it was anti-German. The book appeared in 1900. The author, who died in 1916, was awarded the Nobel prize for literature in 1905.

Greek Ruler in London as Guest of British King

LONDON, Nov. 7. — (AP) — King George of Greece came to London today for the first time since he left exile here two years ago to return to his throne. He went to Buckingham palace, where he will be a guest of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth during his private visit.

foot walls of that city desperate Chinese troops still were holding out.

A Japanese statement admitted that an unknown number of Chinese, armed with artillery and machine guns, were making a stand within Taiyuanfu although the city was virtually surrounded by Japanese troops pressing close to the walls under a protective bombardment.

A Japanese spokesman predicted Taiyuanfu's fall tomorrow. Yesterday the Japanese said the city was within their grasp, with the north gate already captured. Latest reports made even the gate's capture doubtful.

Advise Chinese to Surrender.

Japanese planes were flying over Taiyuanfu dropping leaflets advising the Chinese to surrender to avoid further bloodshed.

But south of the beleaguered city a Japanese column seeking to cut off the Chinese retreat reached Taiku. This force had swerved southward from the railway running into Shansi from the east before reaching the capital. The main Japanese force surrounding Taiyuanfu came from the north, having smashed the last Chinese defense line Friday.

Japanese dispatches said 2,000 retreating Chinese were slain near the Fen river northwest of Taiku.

BRITISH SUSPECT ANTI-RED PACT IS AIMED AT THEM

Believe It's Part of Drive for Nazi Colonies.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 7.—British government spokesmen today had few comments to make on the signature in Rome yesterday of the Italian protocol to the Berlin-Tokio anti-communist pact.

It is seen at its face value as a manifestation of ideological solidarity rather than an instrument of international significance. But the suspicion holds that it is aimed more at Great Britain than Russia, since the new group cannot easily attack the soviet, but can chisel away at the British empire.

Views are expressed that this step is a part of the campaign now being launched by Germany for the return of her former colonies. Here also Britain would have to pay the most heavily, since she got most of them.

Expect Japan to Add Voice.

Joachim von Ribbentrop, who combines his duties as ambassador accredited to this country with those of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's ambassador-at-large and personal adviser on foreign affairs, will, it is thought, take an increasingly prominent part in pressing the German colonial claims.

Premier Mussolini of Italy has been persuaded to voice his support of these demands and in Rome it is expected that Japan will now give equally vigorous support.

Hitler, some observers believe, is being advised to seek to become a successful mediator in the Chinese-Japanese conflict, possibly in association with Italy. He is represented as being in an exceptional position to act since he is in an ideological association with Japan, but in a military association with China. German generals for a long time have been helping China modernize its armies.

How Scheme Might Work.

An armistice once procured, China, advised by Germany, would make concessions to Japan, as the British see it, and join the "anti-communist front." Germany, whose commercial agents have been extremely active in China, would be granted trade concessions as her reward for bringing the Japanese invasion to a halt.

The rest of the world would be obliged to recognize Germany as a power exercising a great pacifying influence. With this addition of prestige, Germany would feel in a position to urge her colonial claims with greatly increased confidence.

Von Ribbentrop's part in the recent Berlin-Rome negotiations has revived the report that he will not remain much longer as ambassador to London, but will remain in Berlin as chief director of the "return the colonies campaign." It is agreed by all that Hitler is placing increasing confidence in Ribbentrop's advice.

State Legion Convention Will Be Held in Rockford

The executive committee of the American Legion, department of Illinois, at the semi-annual meeting in the Hotel Sherman yesterday selected Rockford as the place for the 1938 state convention. The date will be set at a later meeting, according to William E. Keith, assistant department adjutant, who made the announcement. The executive committee is composed of present and past commanders of the state's 25 Legion districts.

New Viaduct for Roosevelt Road

Sketch of grade separation on Roosevelt road over the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad on which the state highway department will start construction within the next month.

Kendrick Harger, district engineer of the Illinois highway department, yesterday described details of a grade separation at Roosevelt road and the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad on which construction is to be started within the next month.

A 44 foot roadway is to carry the heavy trafic of Roosevelt road over the busy tracks. On each side of the viaduct will be a 6 foot pedestrian walk. In addition, pavements are to be laid at grade to serve the property abutting the structure, which is one the boundary of the western suburbs of Westchester and Broadview.

The total cost will approximate $300,000.

JAP FLYERS BOMB U. S. MISSION AND DESTROY SCHOOL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 8.—[Monday.]—The Methodist Episcopal mission at Sungkiang, 22 miles southwest of Shanghai, was attacked by Japanese air raiders yesterday. The mission which houses a number of Chinese Christians flew an American flag.

Three Japanese planes circled the buildings and dropped two bombs. They returned later and dropped twelve incendiary bombs, which struck the girls' school. The building was destroyed by fire. The residence of the head of the mission, the Rev. W. B. Burke, was badly damaged. A family of Chinese Christians was killed.

The United States consulate protested the bombing to Japanese authorities.

Fresh Cranberry Sauce livens the appetite and adds color and flavor to everyday foods. Quickly made this way:

1 pound or 1quart (4 cups) cranberries — 2 cups water — 1½ to 2 cups sugar

Method: Boil sugar and water together 5 minutes; add cranberries and boil without stirring (5 minutes is usually sufficient) until all the skins pop open. Remove from the fire when the popping stops, and allow the sauce to remain in vessel undisturbed until cool.

WOMAN DRIVER GIVES OTHERS A BREAK; WINS $5

Surrenders Right of Way to Let Waiting Cars Pass

BY EDWIN KENNEDY.

Courtesy shown to other motorists in Sunday traffic yesterday won THE TRIBUNE'S weekly $5 politeness award for a woman driver. She is Mrs. Grace Soter, 1119 Darrow avenue, Evanston, a housewife.

Mrs. Grace Soter.

An observer who started in search of a courteous driver found himself in heavy Sunday traffic before noon. A sunny sky and warmer weather brought the majority of automobile owners out on the highways.

Jammed with Cars.

The outer drive and Sheridan road as far as Evanston was jammed with automobiles at an early hour. So were the paved county roads nearby. Few acts of motoring discourtesy were noticed during a two hours' drive, however, and in these instances it was more heedlessness than ugly manners.

The intersection of Milwaukee avenue and Waukegan road at Niles, however, caused considerable difficulty to the Sunday motor parade. Both roads carry much traffic. Milwaukee avenue is a through street at that point.

Wait for Long Time.

Drivers on Waukegan road must wait until Milwaukee avenue is clear in order to cross. Signal lights at Milwaukee and Touhy avenues a block away made breaks for the Waukegan road cross traffic, but yesterday these cars frequently waited for a long time.

Few motorists on the through street were willing to surrender the right of way. The observer waited at the intersection for nearly an hour watching drivers on Waukegan road squeeze through as best they could.

Sees Many Cars in Line.

Mrs. Soter, who was motoring with her mother, Mrs. Anna Claypool, and a daughter, Kathryn Anne, 5 years old, approached the intersection from the north. Many cars were waiting to cross Milwaukee avenue.

Seeing that there was no northbound traffic at the time Mrs. Soter stopped her car to allow automobiles on Waukegan road to cross.

She said that she had been driving for ten years and has had only one minor accident. Her husband is Joseph Soter, a bus driver.

DIES IN AUTO CRASH.

Vincennes, Ind., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Delema Louise Hulen, 20 years old, Edwardsport, was injured fatally today when an automobile in which she was riding overturned near Bicknell. A tire blowout was blamed for the accident.

MILTON MYERS, VETERAN OF CIVIL WAR, REACHES 96

Milton H. Myers, the only surviving civil war veteran in Maine township, celebrated his 96th birthday yesterday in his home at 918 West Crescent avenue, Park Ridge. Neighbors and relatives called at his home to congratulate the veteran. He said that he is enjoying good health. An old war wound bothers him only occasionally.

Myers served through the Wilderness campaign and was wounded at Cold Harbor, Va., in 1864. He is a former vice commander of the Illinois G. A. R. He and his wife, Mrs. Rose Cutler Myers, 84 years old, celebrated their 64th wedding anniversary last March.

Mrs. Azubah Elizabeth Perkins, a volunteer nurse in the civil war, celebrated her 93d birthday in her home at 511 Park place, Park Ridge, Saturday. She volunteered for emergency service from Keokuk, Ia. Myers was one of those who called at her home on her birthday.

THE GREATEST PRIVILEGE EVER GIVEN!

THE COMPLETE WORKS OF CHARLES DICKENS IN 20 SUPERB VOLUMES

The whole edition is lavishly illustrated throughout by the famous original artists whose sketches were personally approved by Dickens himself.

YOURS—almost a Gift!

To Every Reader of the Chicago Tribune

In your hands now is one of the greatest privileges ever given. Through the CHICAGO TRIBUNE you can secure, practically as a gift, the complete works of Charles Dickens, world-famed and loved author, whose magic genius has held millions in its spell.

Think of it! All of Dickens' famous novels and thrilling stories—complete and unabridged—in a magnificent 20-volume library. A thrilling pageant of drama, pathos, comedy, and tragedy. Stories so rich in their humor, so grim in their reality, so tender, so beautiful, so profound in their depth of human sympathy and understanding that they are even now listed among the outstanding productions on the stage, screen, and radio.

But to secure this wonder-library for your home—your family—you must act immediately. The huge response grows greater daily and the large though limited edition is rapidly being taken up. To lose time is to court disappointment—be sure you clip your qualifying certificates from the Chicago Tribune immediately. Clip your first one from page 6 today.

NEVER have you had such an opportunity to own, read and enjoy these priceless literary treasures. They are now yours—almost for the asking. Yours! To read. To treasure. To introduce to your children. To add a touch of beauty, dignity and distinction to your home. Few possessions that you can ever secure for your home will bring you and your family more permanent happiness. Nothing will give you such dependable companionship. Nothing will prove of finer educational value to your children.

Yes! Charles Dickens' Complete Works! Not a collection of extracts, but the original masterpieces in all their grandeur—authentic and unabridged! Not a word has been cut!

Twenty superb volumes! Splendidly printed from clear-faced type on specially selected opaque paper! Lavishly illustrated—containing the famous "Phiz" and Cruikshank drawings and etchings—the illustrations that the author himself approved!

This marvelous collection of literary treasures contains over 13,000 pages—more than 8,000,000 words, and the complete library weighs over 35 pounds! Look at the stirring list of titles! Picture to yourself the joys they present—a lifetime of pleasure and an impressive addition to your library.

And now here is further good news for you! This library is being specially produced in TWO SUPERB EDITIONS!

The Regular Edition is bound in stiff covers of lustrous pebble-grained maroon cloth and panel black stamping. The titles and decorative borders are embossed in gold, and every book is handsomely finished on the front with elegant embossing.

Two books will be distributed to Chicago Tribune readers every week, and all you are asked to pay if you wish to secure the Regular Edition is the very small sum of only 67 cents for each two-volume set, together with six differently numbered certificates clipped from page 6 of the Chicago Tribune. Not 67 cents for each volume—but 67 cents for BOTH BOOKS.

Superbly Beautiful De Luxe Edition!

The Special De Luxe Edition is one that any connoisseur would delight to call his own! Specially designed for those book-lovers who want and are satisfied only with finer materials and workmanship, they will distinguish any room—serve as a reflection of your discriminating taste. This edition is a triumph of modern book-craft—worthy indeed of the masterpieces it contains! Produced and finished in materials of durability and beauty—sturdily and artistically bound in three-quarter antique-blue art calfskin—the sides matching harmoniously in pastel blue—the lettering and the rich decorative design embossed on the backings in rich red and gold—specially woven head and tail bands—heavy end papers—stippled dust-proof top edges which match the covers! Never before have these desirable books been made available to Chicago Tribune readers at anywhere near the price at which you may secure them!

And you may obtain these grand books for just a few cents more than you pay for the Regular Edition! If you prefer the De Luxe binding, all you are asked to pay is $1.19 for each two-volume set, together with six differently numbered certificates clipped from the Chicago Tribune. Not $1.19 for each volume—but $1.19 for BOTH BOOKS. But—you must decide at once! The number of De Luxe Libraries is strictly limited! Read in the privilege voucher at the right the simple directions which govern this great good-will presentation. Start saving the certificates from the Chicago Tribune today! Don't miss this unprecedented opportunity!

FIVE MILES HIGH, SPEEDIER PLANE TRANSPORT NEAR

Liners to Cross Nation in 12 to 14 Hours.

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—High altitude flying in sealed, supercharged cabins, with speeds approaching 250 miles an hour, probably will be offered the traveler on American air transport lines in another 18 months.

A survey of the research work accomplished to date indicated that the air lines are satisfied with both motor performance and cabin experiments, the latter involving the use of equipment to maintain air pressure similar to that only a few thousand feet above sea level.

Air lines will cruise at 20,000 to 25,000 feet. Operating speeds will range from 235 to 250 miles an hour, as against the current 190 miles an hour.

Accommodations for 35.

Thirty-five passengers will be accommodated in seat planes and 20 in sleeper planes.

The coast-to-coast elapsed time bids fair to be cut from 17 hours to 14 hours or less westbound, and from 15 hours 30 minutes to 12 hours eastbound.

Meantime, fresh assaults on the dual problem of increased speed and increased safety are under way. The safety factor, in addition to improvements in airway aids and perfection of machine and instruments, involves the utilization of the rarer "overweather" air at high altitudes.

D. W. Tomlinson, upper air explorer for Transcontinental and Western Air, reports that weather conditions from 20,000 to 25,000 feet will be clear and visibility unlimited for transport operation 95 per cent of the time.

Gets Plane for Tests.

James Doolittle, speed flyer, last week took delivery on a plane designed to test the effect of altitude on fuels.

Much work has been done by the army air corps in altitude flying, but the commercial operators believe that economical operation will hold their machines to 25,000 feet or less, far below the heights explored by army flyers.

Pan American Airways, another pioneer in altitude work, and Pan American-Grace Airways are putting "high altitude type" transport machines in operation on certain of their Mexican and South American routes. Passengers and crew are supplied oxygen from cockpit and wing tanks, but the cabins are not supercharged.

REVIVED BY INHALATOR SQUAD.

Inhalator squad 10, under Lieut. Martin J. Carney, yesterday revived Carl Ecklund, 55 years old, a WPA worker, after he was overcome by leaking gas in his bungalow at the rear of 934 Fletcher street.

Love Plays Tricks

MARTHA CLARK.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Once again Dan Cupid has missed his mark and Martha Isabella Clark, 28 years old, for the fourth time has been prevented from marrying the man she loves. Two days before they were to have been married her fiancé, a sailor, was ordered to sail aboard his ship. Miss Clark says she will obtain marriage licenses and follow the ship.

ANNA'S LAWYERS MAP NEW FIGHT TO AVOID CHAIR

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Anna Marie Hahn prepared today in her solitary jail quarters to renew her fight for life after conviction of the poison murder of Jacob Wagner.

Jail officials reported the convicted woman was "not too cheerful, but calm enough." There was no apparent trace, they said, of the hysteria and excessive grief that gripped her yesterday afternoon after a jury of 11 women and one man returned a verdict making mandatory a sentence to the electric chair.

A close watch, however, was being kept over the woman to prevent any attempt at suicide. Warden Andrew H. Frank assigned three extra matrons to exercise all possible precautions.

Mrs. Hahn attended regular services in the women's quarters of the jail this morning. Later she conferred with Hiram C. Bolsinger, defense attorney, and talked briefly with her 11 year old son, Oscar.

It was expected tonight that Joseph Hoodin, chief counsel for Mrs. Hahn, would file a motion for a new trial tomorrow.

CLEVELAND 'TARZAN' FREED, BUT WARNED TO QUIT SCARING FOLKS

Cleveland, O., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Cleveland's "Tarzan" mystery has been cleared up. Karl Metz, 37, interviewed and released by police, is free to go right on practicing his Tarzan rôle in Brookside park—except that he has been warned not to jump out of bushes and frighten people.

Metz, a worker in a bakery, has the movie bug—and his tree work in the park and his Tarzan howl were just part of his training for the silver screen. He carried a knife—but only because Tarzan carries a knife.

Police prosecutors ruled that Karl's leopard skin trunks were just as modest as those seen on public beaches.

WOMAN HANGS SELF.

Miss Eleanor Staeger, 52 years old, who had been ill recently, was found hanging in her room at 1153 Grace street last night by her landlord, Gustave Larson.

FOUR SEIZED FOR INVESTIGATION OF AUTO THEFT RING

Two youths and two men, all living in the Waukegan district, were seized by Waukegan police yesterday for questioning about a suspected auto theft ring. They are Donald Zilisch, 19 years old; Herbert Robinson, 21 years old; Charles Price, 30 years old, and Carl Smith, 45 years old.

Young Zilisch cleared up the mystery of a burned automobile near Libertyville six weeks ago. The car, with an Indianapolis license, was thought to have been used in some criminal undertaking. Zilisch confessed, police said, that he and several companions stole it and burned it to avoid detection.

The arrest of the four was accomplished by Sergt. Lawrence Kelly and Patrolman Arvid Soderman. They saw a car with stolen plates in front of the Smith home at 622 North avenue, Waukegan. Zilisch was captured as he came out, but young Smith fled under gunfire, witnessed by scores of churchgoers.

Lace

in the Fabric Section

Today, Tuesday, Wednesday at 11

Eighteen charming garments will be modeled. Negligees . . . hostess gowns . . . daytime dresses . . . evening frocks. All use some lovely version of lace, the season's glamorous darling.

Lace—beautiful and versatile—is prominent in the Fall collections. Lace—in dress widths—is now in our Second Floor Section, in the gloriously varied collection you'd expect of Field's.

We're showing Angelskin, suede finish and wool laces for daytime, Chantilly type laces for both day and night. Net is part of the lace story, too.

Patterns by McCall

All these clothes are made from McCall patterns, smart and easy to use. The Show will be announced by Miss Charlotte Tonis, McCall stylist.

THE RIGHT TO THINK

By CALEB

TWO hundred years ago England, in her growing liberality, repealed her penal statutes against witchcraft. But numerous zealots in America were still going good. Witches were being ducked, tortured, frizzled, frazzled, and otherwise discommoded by punishments ranging up through death.

Meanwhile, to the time of the witch law repeals, superstitious England had put 30,000 individuals to death on the charge of riding through the air on broomsticks or otherwise indulging in witchcraft.

On the Continent, things were no better. Galileo, Copernicus, and all men of their forward-thinking, keenly perceptive type had had their troubles. If they were not ostracized or tortured or killed, they were forced to recant publicly and say that the truths they had uttered were lies, or that the honest conclusions to which their thinking had brought them were passing hallucinations.

Steam was declared to be a devil in the teapot. A skeleton was discovered in the possession of Vesalius, an anatomist, just two hundred years ago, and was nearly his undoing when it was discovered to have the same number of ribs on both sides. Surely only Satan could have replaced the rib which should be missing in a man's skeleton!

People did not arrive at superstitions through thought, but through the acceptance of tall tales and legends ready mixed and presented to them. For a long time there was no desire on the part of the privileged classes to have the common people learn anything. Those who "knew" let supposition and superstition serve them in keeping the uninformed under control.

Man has been on the earth for thousands of years, but he has been accorded the great and free privilege of thinking for less than two centuries! And in many parts of the world, under governments which wish to control the people instead of being controlled by the people, he has lost that privilege!

If a prohibition could be placed on thinking in the United States, we might suddenly appreciate how great is our privilege of thought.

You yourself argue both sides of any question. Mentally masticate and fletcherize the pro and con. Then enjoy the great and increasingly rare privilege on earth of arriving by thought at conclusions of your own. It is your right to think. Try it out.

CHARGES BIASED MIND TO BLACK IN SEIZURE REVIEW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Hugo L. Black, former Ku Klux Klansman, whom President Roosevelt appointed to the Supreme court as an outstanding liberal, again will be the center of interest when the court meets tomorrow to hand down decisions.

Justice Black.

The court is expected to rule upon a petition for rehearing of a Florida case involving a blanket subpena by the Securities and Exchange commission similar to the wholesale seizure of telegrams engineered by Black when he was directing the senate's lobby inquisition.

The re-hearing was asked by Frank J. Ryan and the Ryan Florida corporation on the grounds that Black with a biased mind participated in the refusal of the court to review the lower court ruling upholding the SEC.

STORES WILL OPEN CHRISTMAS SHOPPING SEASON ON NOV. 20

Expecting heavy buying, the Chicago Association of Commerce has set the opening of the Christmas shopping season for Saturday, Nov. 20, one week earlier than usual. The date is the start of Toy Opening week. Throughout the city complete lines of holiday goods will be on display in the stores.

"The early shopper," states the association, "will not only select with comfort but may expect the largest assortment of holiday goods offered locally in many years. Local merchants have invested in Christmas goods in box car proportions, the estimated value being in the neighborhood of 200 million dollars."

HOLD BIRTHDAY BALLS ON JAN. 30 FOR ROOSEVELT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt again has authorized the use of his birthday for the raising of funds to fight infantile paralysis. The funds will again be raised by a series of birthday balls throughout the country next Jan. 30.

The proceeds of the balls on the 55th birthday of the President will not go to the infantile paralysis resort he founded at Warm Springs, Ga., or to the communities in which they are raised but to the new National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the formation of which Mr. Roosevelt announced to the country Sept. 23.

The committee, which will handle the birthday celebration is to be named "The Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday for Fighting Infantile Paralysis." The personnel of the committee includes two Chicagoans, Walter J. Cummings and Marshall Field. Other members are Keith Morgan, director of the Georgia resort, chairman; George E. Allen, commissioner of the District of Columbia; W. Averill Harriman, New York banker; Fred J. Fisher and Edsel B. Ford of Detroit; and S. Clay Williams, tobacco executive of Winston Salem, N. C.

COMMUNITY FUND ADMINISTRATION COSTS ONLY 2.6%

Figures showing how each dollar contributed to the community fund is distributed were made public yesterday by Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of the campaign to raise $3,650,000 for the fund.

Administrative expense, it was disclosed, has taken only 2.6 per cent of the total in the past. For family service 38.4 per cent is allotted; to character building agencies, 18 per cent; to care of children, 17.7 per cent; to health services, 14.8 per cent; to the care of the aged and protective services, 6.7 per cent, and to the contingent fund, 1.8 per cent.

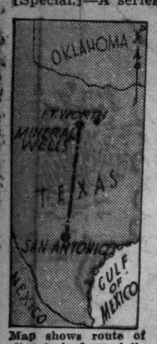
HUGE ARMY UNIT TO MAKE WEEK'S MOTORIZED TREK

Project to Climax Series of Texas Maneuvers.

Fort Sam Houston, Tex., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—A series of field exercises unique in American military history will reach a climax this week when 10,000 men in 1,100 motor vehicles make a "motorized march" from San Antonio to Mineral Wells, Tex., and return.



Map shows route of "motorized march."

From 7 a. m. tomorrow, when sixteen armored scout cars rumble northward from Fort Sam Houston, until late Saturday night, when the last of a sixty mile long column of vehicles returns from Mineral Wells after a one day 300 mile "march," the 10,000 regulars assembled here from many parts of the country will be on the move meeting the thrusts of a "red" enemy.

The week's exercises will end more than eight months of work in which the proposed new infantry division of some 13,500 men—war strength—has been tested on paper and in the field.

Twenty-eight field guns, including some new 75 mm. howitzers and eighteen 81 mm. mortars, will be truck towed or truck transported along with the "doughboys," now manning mechanical "horses" in the form of scout cars, and the other arms.

Parisian Singer in Chicago After Hollywood Film Test

Jeanne Manet, Parisian singer and dancer and friend of Tommy Farr, English fighter, was a brief visitor in Chicago yesterday as she changed trains en route from Hollywood to New York. Mlle. Manet, who is returning to Paris, announced she had completed a screen test and will be back in Hollywood in January to make her first picture. She was accompanied by her mother.

that's what they all say!

There is a research organization in Detroit with a very curious job. The job is to keep the automobile industry from making the kind of cars that people don't want. To do this job, the researchers find out the kind of cars that people do want—and the way they buy them!

EIGHT years and several million dollars have been spent in asking seven million people what they like and don't like in automobiles. The answers have disclosed some very significant facts about who buys cars—and how! For instance:

1. About 8,000,000 families, or less than one-third of the population, buy their cars new.

2. The new car buyer starts to think about his purchase nine weeks before he buys, seven weeks before he starts shopping.

3. He considers three cars, but as a rule asks for demonstration in only two.

4. And since most cars made today are good cars, and good values, the buyer's decision usually rests on three or four minor features—such as the door handles, large speedometer face, tone of the horn, wide rear seat. As there are 128 such minor features which may determine the decision—the salesman has only a 10,688,000 to 1 chance of guessing the right four!

Obviously, automobile advertising has a more difficult job than ever before. It must reach the third family buying the new cars; must register with the prospective buyer early enough to persuade him to ask for a demonstration; and must sell as many as possible of the important 128 minor features. And just as obviously, such a set of advertising requirements demands magazine advertising—makes the national magazine a more important automobile medium than ever before!

The magazines do reach the better able-to-buy families who buy the new cars; and can reach them well in advance. Automobile advertising in magazines gets an attentive, interested audience with the time and inclination to read.

But most of all, the 128 minor features require the best possible illustration of detail—color, surface, texture, accurate visualization. And no medium affords better presentation of these 128 features—or better reception than the magazines! No other advertising medium can better establish the all-important identification of a new model, or the dissemination of a new engineering idea.

Of the important 128 features, one feature can be best presented by a medium other than the magazine —the tone of the horn! But for selling the other 127, depend on magazine advertising—for less waste, for more resultful selling, at a lower selling cost!

And if you sell anything which needs a particular market, an informed prospect, a thoughtful selection, and careful pre-selling—the magazine is your first medium, too. Are you getting as much from your advertising—as more magazine advertising can give? Look into the matter!

THE COMMITTEE'S DECISION.

The Republican national committee has shown sound political judgment in its unanimous decision not to call a conference or midterm convention in 1938. This project, however well meant, is inseparable from the discredit which attaches in the minds of millions of voters to the ordinary processes of party machinery and to the political interests or ambitions of its personnel.

The effectiveness of parties for the development of policies and programs beneficial to the nation as well as for the ordinary needs of good government has been compromised in recent years by two facts. A large body of voters has allowed itself to be governed by hereditary affiliations and by prejudices surviving from past issues and conditions no longer existing. This has retarded and still retards a logical and useful alignment of voters on grounds of public interest and sincere conviction. It has prevented men and women of like principles and ideals from uniting for their defense and realization. The result has been the placing of political power in the hands of irresponsible leaders, unscrupulous opportunists, and forces bent upon the destruction of American institutions.

In this situation opposition to subversive measures has been confused and ineffectual. Republicanism has lost cohesion and direction and the Democratic party has lost its unity and been sold out to a radical adventure which is hostile to the principles of the party and to the interests of the mass of its membership. Loyal Democrats have watched with indignation and amazement an administration supposed to represent them ally itself with the radical ambitions of Lewis and the C. I. O., condoning and even giving aid and support to violence and contempt for law. A régime bearing the Democratic insignia has repudiated party pledges and fostered policies and measures inconsistent with and destructive of the principles cherished by the Democratic party throughout its existence.

The restoration of government responsible to the people, which is essential to the survival of the republic, must be achieved by the people through the instrumentality of parties representing their convictions. It cannot be achieved by the ordinary procedure of partisan self-interest founded on office or the struggle for office.

We believe that the time has come when citizens of like convictions must disregard past affiliations and rallying cries no longer relevant to the issues of the time and unite for the defense of the American order under which the American people have prospered and progressed for a century and a half. The political, economic, and social disintegration now under way can be checked only by an opposition united in conviction, free from the expediences arising from the competition for office, and using its organized strength loyally for the fulfillment of its patriotic purposes.

DUAL HIGHWAYS.

For some years past the various safety groups that are combating the automobile slaughter on our highways have used slogans that emphasize three e's—enforcement, education, and engineering. Occasionally there is a change in the order in which they are mentioned, but engineering always comes last. There is a general conviction that if an arrest followed every law infraction, and if we could impress upon our children the gravity of the situation, the trend of highway fatalities would be reversed—with the help of safer roads.

For very understandable reasons there is a widely held theory that most of the accidents result from excersive speed and violations of trafic signals such as stop and go lights, roadside warnings, and the like. Final analysis of accident causes, however, does not particularly emphasize lawlessness. In many cases it is extremely difficult to place responsibility, because accidents happen to the best of drivers.

There is also another substantial group of citizens that appears to believe that drunken driving, week-end sprees, roadhouses, etc., double and treble the number of fatal crashes. Gin and gasoline won't mix. The number of fatal accidents that can be directly attributed to drunken driving, however, is relatively small, and the week-end toll is not particularly impressive. In cases where careful studies have been made it has been quite easily proved that the victim, not the motorist, was the drunken person—a pedestrian who had overindulged and was "following the car tracks home." It seems certain that even if enforcement and education were brought down to perfection, the slaughter of American citizens in highway accidents would still remain a problem. "To pass a law against it" is not the proper method of attack.

But one of the trinity of e's remains, and that is engineering. Wherever it has been applied it has brought immediate relief. In our rush to meet the demands of the ever-growing number of automobiles we thought of nothing but two slabs of hard surfaced road wide enough to enable two vehicles to pass. In recent years we have built some improved "show sections," but the mileage is infinitesimal compared with the two and three lane death traps. Engineers now definitly recommend dual highways on all routes, with grade separations at all important intersections.

It is a huge undertaking, but so was the construction of our railway systems, our airways, and our present highways. The people of the country will simply eat it up once they get started, and the program is simple. Suspend all new construction and use the available moneys to go back over the present routes to build them into safety highways, selecting for first treatment those known to be outstanding death traps.

EDWARD ABDICATES AGAIN.

Ever since Leif Eriksen and Christopher Columbus people have been coming to America, even when it took a lot of nerve and when they didn't half know what to expect. Edward VIII. has suddenly decided not to. There are too many wild Indians.

If the duke has friends by whom he will be advised he might do well to consider now a life of retirement as a country gentleman. He gave up the one place in which he was a conspicuous figure. It was the place he was expected to fill and for which presumably he had been trained, if he had been trained for anything. It might or might not have been a life of usefulness. The search for a substitute has not revealed any qualifications.

Ever since 1918 the world has been familiar with royal unemployment. The kaiser has been sawing wood at Doorn to keep physically fit. Alfonso of Spain and his family have been roving obscurities making the news now and then but with no particular usefulness. Carol of Rumania has been in and out as a scandalous playboy. George of Greece has been on and off and on the throne, few caring where he was. Russian grand dukes have been all over the place, some of them making frugal livings in humble jobs. The crown prince of Germany is a forgotten man. Royalty off the job has been able to make few pretenses and none of them was for a life of usefulness.

The only one who was in a new situation wholly of his own decision was Edward VIII. If he had any purpose in mind at all it was to establish a place for himself as a man in a democratic scheme of life. He has flinched from the first difficulties which that manner of life and work must often present. Any public man accustomed to the habits of democracy would have regarded the American trip as nothing at all formidable.

The little preliminary criticism would have meant nothing to a politician who knew what to expect when he assumed to be a public character. He would rely upon his tact and intelligence in meeting people and situations. If he could not take such matters in hand he would regard himself as entirely unfit for any such enterprises and would withdraw from them.

When Edward decided on the American trip he was proposing to subject himself to a true measure for the first time in his life. As prince of Wales and as king he was the beneficiary of unlimited official publicity which attributed to him all good qualities and no bad ones. If he had remained as king that protection would have surrounded him until the day of his death. Criticism wouldn't have touched him except possibly when a radical Laborite ran wild in parliament. When he abdicated the publicity machinery of the British empire was put in reverse and he was made out to be a great deal less than he ought to be—dissolute, recreant to his duties, weak in character, and not enough of a man to put his personal desires in the background for the sake of the responsibility he inherited.

Democratic people sentimentally were inclined to regard these attempts to belittle the man because he was no longer monarch as malicious and unworthy of the government of the empire. The machinery which makes royalty more than it can be did not offer much that was admirable to the eye. It may be said for the British ministry, whether headed by Baldwin or Chamberlain, that it has made about every mistake that could be made in handling the situation created by the former king. He is, in effect, exiled, snubbed, put under censorship, and in general treated with poorly disguised contempt which ill suits any occasion and is always in violent contrast with the extraordinary respect he would have been accorded if he had remained in the place to which he had been born.

Most of this treatment operated in favor of Edward if he, in turn, had not made mistakes. Unless he actually thought some turn of events would return him to the throne at the demand of the average Briton there was no reason for undertaking to reappear in public life as a conspicuous and dominating figure. He had sought retirement and that was safely his.

His trip to Germany was one a democratic politician would have avoided at the time when he was a resident in France and when he was promised to the American trip. It would certainly provoke criticism and make him trouble in the immediate future. Nevertheless, if he could have arisen to the occasion, there was nothing awaiting him in America which need have daunted a man able to meet inquiring eyes and conduct himself as a contained and rationally behaved person. Here he would have encountered inquiring eyes as a world figure, some probably hostile, some skeptical, and some friendly. People might have shown that they were curious to see for themselves whether this was a feeble-minded man who had been dragged off the throne by a designing woman or a man for whom the throne of England was too small, a man who refused to be the inmate of Buckingham palace as a yes man to a government he could not influence, one big enough to face the world on democratic terms and make his own position without any benefit from a long line of ancestry.

Edward flinched at the very first problems presented to him and by refusing the test proved that he was unable to meet the small troubles offered by what had been announced as his search for a new career. There was no necessity for him seeking a career at all. At the outset it should have been known to all who were pretending to advise him that certain personal embarrassments must be encountered, certain difficulties smoothed over, and that he and time must work together if he were to find a place in which he could be a man on his own and respected for what was in him. He undertook new work naively, but seems to have abdicated again.

WISDOM COMES WITH AGE.

[Idaho Statesman, Boise.]

It may be a terrific shock to the New Deal but—

A Cœur d'Alêne Indian tribe has petitioned to get a new chief because Chief Joe Seltice, about 40, is too young.

"To handle the affairs of the tribe is a big job," Morris Antelope, tribal elder, told the Associated Press. "It requires a leader 60 years old or more. If we respect the counsel of a chief he must have lived long enough to have experience."

Apparently the poor redskins have never learned that the New Deal has decided age is a detriment to giving "wise counsel," and that judges should all be retired at 70.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

YOUR FINEST CHINA, and the long stemmed glasses you get out on special occasions only, are safe in the hands of the firemen in the red hats, whose story we'll tell you today. They're the Fire Insurance Patrol; their business isn't to fight the fire, but to hoodwink it by getting things it might damage into safe places, and they know the long stemmed glasses should be carried to safety first and the thick, stubby ones last.

Let's suppose you live on the second floor and there's a fire above you. Forty seconds after the alarm is sounded the Red Hats are on their way. The firefighters (they pretend they don't care, but like to be called smoke-eaters) can be distinguished by their black hats, which, like the red ones, weigh exactly two pounds. They'll be carrying hose and fire extinguishers and axes. The Red Hats will hurry past your door, too, each carrying two covers, sheets of canvas 14 by 18 feet that weigh 35 pounds. Since there likely won't be much they can do upstairs, the Red Hats will soon come trooping down to your place to stack their shovels and squeegees in the corner and go to work with their covers. You needn't worry about your great-grandmother's coverlids; the Red Hats' covers were scrubbed spotless after the last fire so that your things wouldn't get soiled.

With infinite care the Red Hats'll put your glasses where they won't get broken. They'll take your pictures off the wall, pick up the rugs, collect odds and ends, and lay everything carefully on the beds and tables. Then they'll spread their covers over your things and tuck them in—just as the water begins pouring in from the apartment above, bringing with it, sometimes, part of the ceiling. The Red Hats will seize their shovels, which are all wooden, and push the water over into one corner, where they'll take it up with clothes and the squeegees. If it's a business building that's burning, they work just the same way to save the stock, all available companies being called in.

There are seven companies in the city. It's a rare fire that doesn't bring at least one of them bong-bonging out. If you have fire insurance you help pay for the patrol, as two per cent of all the fire insurance premiums collected in the city go to its upkeep. If you haven't insurance the patrol will work just as hard and just as pleasantly to save your things. Chief Frank McAuliffe says the $300,000 the patrol costs a year isn't a drop in the bucket compared to what it saves, but there's no way of telling exactly how much good it does.

THE TRAGEDY OF DRUG ADDICTION.

I RECALL vividly some of the heroes of my boyhood—civil war veterans with armless sleeves or artificial legs. In so far as medical science of that day could rehabilitate them, it was done, but all too often they were crippled for life. But these men had been soldiers—survivors of a conflict that "tried men's souls."

Morphine addicts are disabled more completely than they would be if they were hobbling down a street or rolling along in wheel chairs. They are leaning upon a crutch to keep going—insufficient, in and of themselves, to face the world without it. They cannot throw away their support; the longer they use it the more abject will become their dependence.

Opium—from which morphine is obtained—was known to the early Arabian physicians and, in its place and when properly utilized, it is of unquestioned value. But when abused we know that it is as destructive to the mental and nervous tissues of man as to his physical well being. Katherine Cecil Thurston used a morphine habitué as one of the principal characters in her novel, "The Masquerader," the character played so brilliantly by Guy Bates Post.

There is no derivative of opium which is safe, that is, one that can be employed with impunity. Morphine, codeine, heroin all are likely to create a craving, and today every physician recognizes the dangers that beset the individual who continues taking one of those drugs for any length of time. The spread of this "disease" may be understood when it is stated that conservative estimates indicate that there are at least 150,000 morphine slaves in the United States.

Some acquire the habit deliberately. Fatigue or depression may come. Then suddenly the selfish decision is made to forget the whole business and drown one's sorrows. Alcohol is resorted to by many, but its success is doubtful. Opium may be substituted and with repetition comes oblivion—for a time at least—in a fanciful dream.

Probably 50 per cent of all habitual users are created by the desire for a thrill. Curiosity is aroused; then comes the first yielding to gratification. Carelessness on the part of physicians is another factor. Serious maladies may be masked by a dose of one of these narcotics, whereupon the patient is relieved. Later the medicine [?] is repeated and the quantity increased as time goes on.

Among the many methods of treatment, withdrawal appears to meet with the greatest success. This may be abrupt, rapid, or gradual—other soothing compounds being furnished to overcome the distress. Only those who wish to recover and who are willing to fight can be helped. Even then, after there is no further craving, 80 to 90 per cent of those from whom the shackles have been struck will resume the habit, because they are unable to resist the stress and strain of environment.

The insulin treatment presupposes complete discontinuance at the outset. Ten units of insulin are given to determine its effect in lowering the sugar level of the blood. Whenever discomfort occurs thereafter the hermone is given until the symptoms are no longer obvious. As much food as possible is supplied and other sedatives such as derivatives of barbituric acid are administered. Tub baths, lukewarm, also prove quieting. Insulin shock, that is, blood sugar that is too low, must be combated with glucose or orange juice and these materials should be immediately at hand.

Rarely will any plan of cure be helpful unless the subject is in a hospital under complete control. Few of us, in observing a confirmed user, will fail to realize that these unfortunates are sick mentally to the point of irresponsibility.

PROBLEM OF PSYCHOLOGY.

Mrs. B. G. writes: My 3 year old son has no appetite at all. For the last three months he aggravates me when it comes to eating. I have tried forcing him to eat solid foods, vegetable soup, etc., that would be good for him, but to no avail. Many a time I punish him, but that doesn't help. He is about the average height for his age. Weight around thirty-two pounds. He is skinny but strong. Just what can I do to make him hungry?

REPLY.

If a physical examination does not reveal any cause, such as indigestion or disease, your problem is one of child psychology. Above all things, do not let the child know that his refusal to eat bothers you. It may be his way of showing his power over you. Let him eat with other children if possible. Example is a strong teacher. Offer him nutritious food regularly, but do not compel him to eat it.

FEELING OF WEAKNESS.

J. W. writes: In 1924 I had encephalitis. I was unable to work for ten months, and since then am able to do only light work. I feel weak and faint and wish to lie down all the time. I am afraid to go out of the house. Do other encephalitis cases have fear, and what do they do to get over it?

REPLY.

Mental symptoms are common following attacks of encephalitis. Fear can be treated psychologically. It may be necessary for you to visit a skilled psychiatrist for advice on mental hygiene. Every public library has a number of good books on the subject. Your sense of weakness may be helped by carefully guarded doses of ephedrin or benzedrine—taken under the advice of your physician.

OPERATION BEST REMEDY.

C. D. writes: I developed an abscess in the rectum, which finally burst and expelled blood. This condition healed or was dormant until about four weeks ago. At that time I again had pain and swelling. The second abscess discharged and I was relieved. I changed doctors and the second physician advised me that a sinus was present, which should be operated upon. I would like to know if you think an operation necessary.

REPLY.

A rectal abscess nearly always develops into a rectal fistula such as you describe. Operation offers the best means of cure. It will not heal itself.

RESEMBLE BEADS.

J. S. writes: What is a streptococcus?

REPLY.

Streptococcus is the name given to a certain variety of bacteria. Under the microscope these organisms have the appearance of a string of beads. They are responsible for many virulent forms of infection.

HOW IS HE GOING TO CONTROL IT WITHOUT HIS MOUNT?

From Across the Sea

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—Scottish Nationalists are up in arms over proposed changes in Scotland's government. They say Scotland would be reduced to the status of a colony.

"Her position will be infinitely lower than that of the six counties of northern Ireland," says a statement issued by the Scottish National party after study of the Gilmour report on Scotland, published Oct. 15. "She will be ruled by civil servants obeying not the will of the people they govern but the instructions of the English treasury."

The parliamentary committee, headed by Sir John Gilmour, former secretary of state for Scotland, proposed transferring all administrative work for Scotland from the Scottish office and other government offices here to a group of four offices in Edinburgh. Each of those four would have a permanent secretary at its head and a liaison office in London through which to keep in touch with the secretary of state for Scotland, a cabinet member, and with a permanent secretary directly under him.

The four offices would be for health, agriculture, and education, and a Scottish home office for purely interior matters, including prison administration and fisheries.

The Nationalists announced that they noted with satisfaction that the committee indorsed, at least by implication, their theory that Scotland could not be administered properly from a center 400 miles away, but added "they regret that the logical conclusions have not been drawn from this premise."

The statement concludes with the rhetorical question: "If it is impossible to administer Scotland from London, is it not still more impossible to legislate Scotland from London?"

Scottish Nationalists are more fiery even than the Welsh Nationalists. They miss no opportunity of thundering demands for home rule. Every coin that appears with the Tudor rose and no Scottish thistle is enough to bring angry denunciations and charges that the British are violating the treaty of union.

Postage stamps, flags, or any other object in which they find Scottish heraldic emblems get insufficient prominence as compared with the English emblem frequently draw their fire.

Official circles had hoped the findings of the committee, giving Scotland home administration and a close link with parliament at the same time, would please them. Now they find that instead of making things better the Scots think it makes them worse.

WAGE CLAIMS.

Chicago, Nov 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I worked two weeks for a man without receiving any salary. After that time I left his service, being owed $34. This was in January, 1937. He promised to pay me, but in the meantime he has hired another secretary and is paying her more money than he ever paid me. Please advise if there is any way I can collect my past due salary. I. H. P.

The Illinois statute authorizes recovery of attorney fees on ware claims. Presumably it was the purpose of the legislature that the fees so allowed should be sufficient to enable the claimants to employ counsel, but in practice the courts have often allowed inadequate fees or none at all, so that many attorneys ask for pay in advance. The legal aid bureau of the United Charities, in deserving cases, assists those who are unable to employ an attorney.

FASTER TRANSPORTATION.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—Mr. Kelly's ambitious plan for improved traction facilities will no doubt prove a worthy and commendable accomplishment in the not too distant future. But how about the present? The traction problem might be tackled in stages, with the more urgent and obvious improvements being accorded preference. Greatly improved street car service should first come up for consideration.

Street car transportation in Chicago is too slow and outmoded for our present day. The fault lies in antiquated routes, facilities, and schedules. Since street car transportation will be relied upon to serve our city for some years to come, the time is ripe for a definite and complete revision and improvement of the service. A rerouting of the cars in certain of the highly congested areas, an alternate system of pickup and discharge stops, and the provision of subway crosslines, as suggested by our mayor, should be the first step in this direction.

The rerouting of Lincoln avenue cars through to Wells street, south on Wells to Grand avenue, Grand avenue to Wabash, and on to the south side—and in some instances through the river tunnel at La Salle street to a subway terminal at Madison or Jackson streets—would speed up Surface Lines transportation along North Clark street and serve to provide improved service without too great expense.

These improvements in local transportation are too obvious and simple to require extensive negotiations and financing. The fact remains that they will prove a welcome improvement and can be accomplished at a minimum of expense. Street car riders want and demand more accelerated street car service into and out of the loop—now—and not five or ten years hence. What are we doing about it? R. W. Danon.

THE BUILDER OF THE WATER TOWER.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—George S. Walker of Lemont, Ill., on Oct. 20 stated in your column that it was his belief his father was the man who built the water tower and pumping station at Michigan and Chicago avenues. In answer I will say my grandfather, John Wuertzler, was one of the members of the Wahlbaum company that built the tower and pumping station. A bronze name plate in the tower will verify the name of the company. It might be possible Mr. Walker either was one of the company or working for the concern.

John Wuertzler was a stone mason and resided on the near north side all his life, in the vicinity of Sedgwick street and Beethoven place.

DRED SCOTT.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—I do not always approve the tone of your editorials, but that's nothing. It's hard to suit every one. I want to compliment you on the sanity and fine logic of your editorial on the Dred Scott decision today. I wish this editorial could be reproduced in every newspaper in the land. P. K.

SHE ALREADY HAS.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—I note that Brazil is going out of the coffee business. I wonder if she is now going into raising cotton in a big way. Washington, D. C., and southern planters please take note.

C. J. S.

WHY SHE CHANGED HER MIND.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—Your correspondent, Mrs. Ann Pierce, says the President admits his mistakes. When did he ever do that? It is his doggedly pursuing a course which has proven to be wrong that turned me against him. It is human to err, but the sensible person changes his course when he sees it was mistakenly taken.

For example, the President termed the K. K. K. charges against Black very serious and was sure Black would refute them. When they were proven true, did he say, "That appointment was a mistake"? Did he say he made a mistake demanding control of the Supreme court, even after all his advisers told him he was licked and begged him to desist? His own financial advisers say business is stifled by excessive taxes and the goose that lays the golden eggs is being killed. Does he admit this mistake? What mistake did he ever admit?

At first I trusted him implicitly, but now I have lost all faith. It is very easy, this living like an industrial royalist himself, overprivileged from birth, and saying "How we love the poor." When he himself gives up his palatial estates and special privileges or shares his own oversupply of everything I shall believe he is sincerely interested in the poverty stricken group.

Dorothy Johnson.

THE FACTS OF LIFE.

East Chicago, Ind., Nov. 4.—I would suggest that Mrs. E. J. Frey, who complains of radio programs which discuss prospective motherhood, turn to some other station for her own brand of entertainment. After all, one doesn't have to tune in on just one station.

For my part, I see no harm in programs which discuss coming motherhood. I have two girls and I find it much better to discuss these things aloud in the home instead of allowing the child to get its information elsewhere in a distorted manner as presented by some of their associates. No one need think her child is in any way different in wanting to know the origin of life. When we mothers won't discuss this topic with our children they will seek their information elsewhere and, as a result, we will have lost the child's confidence when he or she needs us most.

Beatrice Bolton.

ANOTHER WOMAN COMMANDER.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—In The Tribune of Nov. 5 there was an article stating that Miss Helen Rowland, a world war nurse, was the only woman to be elected commander of a men's post of the American Legion in the United States.

Miss Mary Malloy of Gilmore City, Humboldt county, Iowa, also a world war nurse, was twice elected commander of the Gilmore City post of the American Legion. Her second term has just expired. It was thought that she was the only woman commander in the United States. Mrs. R. W. Cooper.

SPORT ON THE FARM.

Savanna, Ill., Nov. 4.—Corn picking contests are now rated with baseball and football as a national pastime, attracting thousands of city as well as farm folks. Walking more than half a mile, husking 1½ tons of corn, and throwing it into the wagon at the rate of more than 50 ears per minute for 80 minutes requires skill and speed unknown to any other kind of sport. Hats off to the farmer! C. T. Crofton.

HITCH-HIKERS GET A LIFT; 1 KILLED, 1 HURT IN CRASH

Driver Also Injured When Car Goes Into Ditch.

Mrs. Aloise Morstatter, 18 years old, of Decatur, Ill., a hitch-hiker, was killed and her husband, William, 22 years old, and Willard Shell, 30 years old, of Monee, Ill., who had picked them up, were injured yesterday when Shell's car ran into a ditch in Cicero avenue at 196th street, Ridge township.

John Zuver, 34 years old, of South Bend, Ind., manager of the Mirror Press there, was killed yesterday and six persons, including his wife, Jessie, were injured in a collision of two cars at Halsted and 159th streets, Harvey.

Ernestine Thompson, 11 years old, colored, 338 West 56th street, died yesterday in the County hospital of injuries suffered on Saturday when she was struck by a car at 58th street and Michigan avenue.

Another County hospital fatality was that of an unidentified man, supposedly struck by a car in Jackson boulevard at Des Plaines street.

Killed by Taxicab.

Oscar Ritter, 69 years old, 3105 Commercial avenue South Chicago Heights, was fatally injured last night when he was struck by a taxicab in the suburb. Albert Krizan, 25 years old, 1544 Halsted street, Chicago Heights, was held for the inquest.

Jesse Jackson, colored, 28 years old, 712 East 50th street, was fatally injured early yesterday when a Greyhound bus on which he was a porter and an automobile collided in Michigan avenue, Hammond. He died last night. The occupant of the automobile, Ray Parrott, 30, of Chesterton, Ind., suffered a broken leg.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 914 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 696 were killed in Chicago, where 19,623 were injured in the same period.

[See editorial page for massacre clock.]

SIX CHILDREN KILLED

Edina, Mo., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Six boys and girls, ranging in age from 10 to 19 years, were killed at Knox City, 15 miles east of here, today when the automobile in which they were riding skidded to a halt on a grade crossing and was struck by a passenger train.

Three members of one family, James White, 10 years old; Marjorie, 12, and John, 15, children of Mr. and Mrs. James L. White, farmers, and Linion Bleecker, 17, were killed outright. The other victims were Mary Turpin, 19, daughter of Charles Turpin, residing near La Belle, Mo., and Leroy McEvoy, 15, son of Mrs. Edgar Leckbee of Knox City. They died a few minutes after they were taken to a home near the scene of the crash.

Six of Family Killed.

Adairsville, Ga., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Six members of a family were killed today when a train struck their automobile at a crossing.

The dead were Mrs. Robert Lear Sr., her daughter, Miss Elsie Lear, a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lear and their two daughters, the Misses Sandra and Patricia Lear, all of Rome, Ga. Joseph Lear, another of the family, was injured seriously.

Reports Theft of Bonds and Money from Her Home

Mrs. Beatrice Mattisoff, 1758 East 71st street, complained to police last night that burglars broke into her home and stole an investors' syndicate bond of $5,000, two smaller bonds, and $212 in cash. She is the wife of Nathanial A. Mattisoff, a district manager for an auto accessories chain.

New sign telling couples bent on marriage the conditions under which they cannot get licenses at Valparaiso, Ind.,

Paul J. Zigabarra and Dorothy Delich, both of Chicago, read the sign and then applied to Deputy Clerk James Chester at the courthouse for a license.

Following closing of the Crown Point marriage mill Porter county officials at Valparaiso, Ind., yesterday reported that more than three times the usual number of week-end marriage licenses were issued Saturday and yesterday. Late last night 125 licenses had been issued, as compared with 36, the highest number ever issued on a previous Saturday and Sunday.

SAFETY EXHIBITS ATTRACT CROWDS AT MOTOR SHOW

Manufacturers Join Fight on Highway Toll.

BY HAL FOUST.

The crowd of men, women, and children, estimated at 50,000, who attended Chicago's thirty-eighth annual automobile show yesterday and last night demonstrated an interest not only in the 1938 motor cars but also in accident prevention.

The car manufacturers are alert to this public interest. Eight years ago they frowned upon the publicity given to accidents by THE TRIBUNE'S stand for measures to cut the death toll. But with the traffic toll continuing year after year unabated, automobile producers have become leading proponents of reforms.

Brakes Are Bettered.

At the show, which will continue daily from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. through Saturday night, motorists paused to inspect cutaway brakes of better efficiency. Drums have been ribbed for rapid dissipation of heat. Linings have been designed to retard the accumulation of heat on their surfaces.

Several car displays are emphasizing the pads on the top of front seats and the recesses for instrument panel controls, innovations to lessen the chances of injury to occupants in collisions.

Such improvements are intended for protection of passengers only in minor collisions or jolts. They would be of little benefit in headon collisions at high speeds, which have been reduced considerably by such details of highway engineering as wider roadways, separated trafic lanes, and more gradual curves.

It is on the old style, narrow motor paths that most serious headon crashes occur. The impact of such collisions is terrific. It has been estimated that two cars meeting headon at sixty miles an hour exert enough energy to toss both drivers as high as the Empire State building.

Horn Buttons Improved.

Several cars this year have horns with an attachment so they can be actuated with a thumb without the hand leaving the steering wheel. There's a general trend toward easier gear shifting, automatic, semi-automatic, or with a control lever attached to the instrument panel or the steering column rather than extending from the floor.

The Chicago park district has a display advertising the lake front boulevard as the safest in the world.

The Illinois department of public works has a booth boasting of Gov. Horner's highway developments, including the construction of 200 grade separations. Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe committee is conducting driver tests.

Auto Show Notes

Visitors at the Nash exhibit are showing a great deal of interest in the car's conditioned air system for winter use. When the car is in motion fresh air comes through a ventilator on the cowl and passes to the conditioning system which is mounted directly under the cowl. The system consists of an air filter, a motor-driven fan, and a hot water heating unit. The system builds up air pressure in the car, with the result that the old air is forced out as fast as the fresh heated air enters.

Hudson's two toned upholstery in the car interiors and the many comforts, such as arm rests softly cushioned with sponge rubber, are attracting the attention of the women.

Fussing around at night trying to find the ignition lock keyhole is banished in the 1938 Chevrolets. The new cars are equipped with lights which illuminate the key holes.

Chrysler has introduced rubber mountings which cushion the steering gear from the frame. This is said to eliminate slight road shocks and vibrations which tend to fatigue the driver.

Fred S. Kimmerling, president of the AC Spark Plug company, forecasts that the replacement parts of the automobile industry may be expected to do well. He bases his opinion on the fact that 62 per cent of automobile sales have been used cars. Various devices have been introduced which are making the reconditioning of cars more efficient.

WILD ARMISTICE JOY IN TRENCHES TOLD AT SERVICE

Armistice in the trenches, when soldiers, mad with joy, lighted fires for the first time in months and shot off guns in celebration, was recalled yesterday at the Chicago Historical society. The scene, after nineteen years, was described by Col. Thomas R. Gowenlock at the annual international armistice ceremony.

Col. Carleton B. Cunningham, commander in chief of the Allied World War Veterans' council, and Charles E. Dewey also spoke, and Czechoslovakian and Italian medals were presented for the Golden Book of Cook county. The names of Cook county's 4,000 world war dead are embossed in this book. The ceremony yesterday was opened and ended with a parade of flags of allied nations.

A Safe and Sound Way for CAREFUL DRIVERS TO SAVE ON CAR INSURANCE COST

American Auto Reduces Premium Cost Up to 25%
WITHOUT REDUCING YOUR PROTECTION

● The careful driver—the motorist whose car is used largely for private and family purposes—should not have to share the cost of insuring reckless and irresponsible drivers. Neither should he accept a restricted or limited form policy in order to save on car insurance cost.

Savings in Premiums Up to 25%

American Auto, oldest and largest insurers of automobiles exclusively, has long made a practice of favoring those drivers who may be considered preferred risks. It therefore has fewer claims to pay and is able to operate with greater economy. These savings are passed on to policyholders in the form of lower premium rates. And that's the reason saving with American Auto does not mean inferior protection or service. Its policies are of the broad, improved standard form, and its claims service organization extends to all parts of the United States and Canada.

Before you buy or renew any automobile insurance, call your nearest American Auto Agent or Broker for full information about the safe and sound way to lower your car insurance cost without sacrificing protection.

Protect Your Insurance Investment by Dealing Through Accredited Agents or Brokers

Don't be misled by the suggestion that you can save in dealing direct with the kind of a company that has no local Agents. Buy only from an accredited Agent or Broker if you would invest in protection that really protects. The competent advice and personal services of your local Agent or Broker are invaluable safeguards to your best interests. He is able to prescribe insurance . . . Stock Insurance, of course . . . "tailored" to your particular needs. American Auto deals only through these accredited representatives, offering you unexcelled protection and service at fair, reasonable cost.

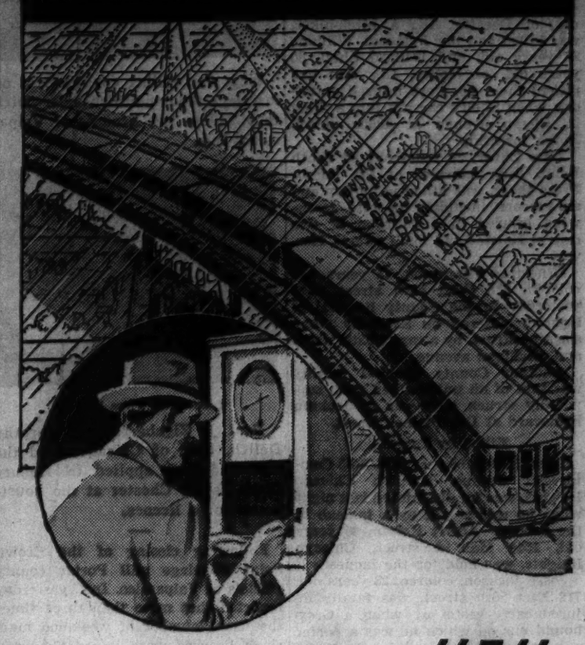
TIME CLOCKS DO NOT STOP FOR WEATHER



nor does the "L"!

Running unhindered above treacherous streets and slow-moving traffic, "L" trains get you to your work.. regardless of weather.

● Whether or not you punch a time-clock, you ARE expected to be at work on time. And, throughout Chicago, there is only one transportation system that you can depend upon to get you there speedily and without fail . . . sunshine or storm . . . winter or summer.

That one system is the Elevated Rapid Transit Lines!

Even when treacherous streets and tangled traffic force other transportation to creep along at a snail's pace, the "L" speeds on just the same. For "L" trains run on private right-of-way above the streets . . . unhindered by slow-moving traffic . . . least affected by the weather.

No wonder hundreds of thousands of people depend on the "L" for transportation to and from their work every day in the year! No wonder that the "L" is the backbone of Chicago transportation! It, alone, stands for both speed and dependability.

"L" service, admittedly, is much speedier and more comfortable than any other form of public transportation.

In fact the fastest "L" trains exceed the speed of the fastest New York subway trains! And not once in its entire history has the "L" ever been halted by a storm . . . not even when the weather has brought all other transportation to a standstill!

If you are not already making full use of this service, it will pay you to find out all that it can mean to you.

Do you know about the weekly "L" passes . . . the most economical form of transportation in the city and suburbs? Another bargain . . . payers of single ride fares get a free transfer to either street cars or motor coaches if they wish. Why not take advantage of "L" service now? Use it to your work tomorrow.

NEWS NOTE:

Last Friday, November 5, the Rapid Transit Lines operated 42 special trains, comprising 286 cars, which had been chartered by large groups to transport them to and from the C. Y. O. Rally at Loyola Field; this in addition to the 550 trains in regular service to and from Loyola Station.

Public School Art Show and Tea to Be Dec. 6

BY JUDITH CASS.

MONDAY, Dec. 6, is a date to be marked with a large red check on your engagement pad if you are one of those who like to do everything that is chichi, for on that afternoon the Chicago Public School Art society is having its annual tea party. And a very interesting party it will be, for it will open an exhibition of Children in American Folk Art, the same show that occasioned much attention and comment in New York last spring.

There the tea and private showing on the first day in the downtown gallery was for the benefit of the Little Red School House, a progressive experimental school in Bleecker street. It really wasn't a tea, either, for fish house punch was served, brewed from an official recipe used by the colony of New York in 1732. Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, president of the Chicago Public School Art society, and her board of directors have decided that tea is a better beverage for Chicagoans.

Fish House Punch Recipe from 1732.

But in case any one is interested in knowing what the fish house punch is like that was served at the New York party here is the recipe:

"Slake three-quarters of a pound of sugar in a punch bowl [this means put in enough water to melt it]. When dissolved add one quart of lemon juice, two quarts of Jamaica rum, one quart of cognac brandy, one wine glass of peach brandy and two quarts of water. Put a big lump of solid ice in the punch bowl and allow the mixture to brew for about two hours, stirring occasionally. In winter, when ice melts slowly, turn in more water."

Perhaps in New York the punch bowl rivaled the show on the opening day, but the art came in for its full share of attention during the rest of the two weeks that it was shown, for critics and laymen alike were enthusiastic about the collection. Mrs. Brewster anticipates that Chicagoans will find it equally as interesting and she hopes to raise a goodly sum for the Public School Art society during the two weeks it will be at the Quest galleries in Tower court.

Lectures Every Day Except the First.

Admission on the opening day, for which invitations will be issued immediately after Mrs. Brewster returns from a trip east on Nov. 22, will be $1.50, but on other days it will be only 50 cents. There will be lectures every day except the first one, explaining the exhibition, which provides an authentic picture of the American children's world in the late 18th and 19th centuries.

In the show are examples of the art the children did themselves, their portraits and their toys. Most of the exhibition was assembled by Mrs. Edith Gregor Halpert of New York, but some of the best things belong to private collectors, including Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., Mrs. Edsel Ford, Paul Mellon and Mr. and Mrs. Elie Nadelman. Mrs. Rockefeller owns the famous "Children and Governess" and "Baby With Doll," outstanding examples of American folk art, and Mrs. Ford has a comprehensive collection of toys.

Mr. and Mrs. Brewster, who moved just last week from their Lake Forest house into their charming Lake View avenue abode, are going to New Haven for the Yale-Princeton game Nov. 13. They will be the guests of Dean Everett Meeks of the School of Fine Arts at Yale, of which Mr. Brewster is a trustee, and then before returning to Chicago, they will go to Baltimore for a visit with their son, Edward Brewster, who is pur-

Miss Vesta Culbertson and her fiance, Robert F. Carr Jr., whose engagement to be married was announced Saturday night at Miss Culbertson's 18th birthday party, a dinner-dance at the Casino. Miss Culbertson's mother is Mrs. Wallace F. Kirk of Chicago and her father is Craig Culbertson of New York. Mr. Carr's father is Robert F. Carr of Chicago. Babby Culbertson and Bobby Carr will be married on Jan. 15 in St. Chrysostom's church with a reception following at the same club in which their engagement was announced.

Front Views and Profiles By June Provines

AN evening or so ago an enchanting looking oriental woman was dancing at the Drake. She wore two gardenias atop her sleek dark head and a little halo veil, western fashion, but her loose, knee-length coat of supple scarlet and gold brocade, which she kept on while dancing, had the long looped sleeves of a Japanese kimono, and she danced with tiny, mincing steps. . . . For a moment we observed only that she was beautiful, then remembered that, after all, this wasn't Honolulu, and that it was unusual to see an oriental lady dancing at the Drake. . . . A moment later the orchestra played "Song of the Islands," "Hawaii, isle of beauty, where skies are blue . . ." We had a lei about our neck, too, a lei of crown flowers, strand after strand, the flowers, like carved bits of jade, that had arrived that day from Honolulu on the Clipper to Alameda, by plane from Alameda to Chicago. The Chicago florist who delivered them had attached orchids to the lei. Leis are becoming a mainland fashion, he said. The custom of wearing leis instead of shoulder corsages has spread from Honolulu to Los Angeles and is traveling eastward, he said. The crown flowers were fresh and lovely after their 4,000 mile trip.

Eastern Lady—Food Notes—Bright Fellow.

AS long as this department finds itself in frequent juxtaposition to that of the cooking editor we might as well put in a few food notes, too. Try fried banana chips, cooked in deep fat exactly as you would potato chips, and serve them with cocktails. . . . If you can find coconut honey—and perhaps stores that import novelties may have it—try it on your breakfast waffles or your luncheon tea biscuits. . . . In a famous French restaurant in San Francisco they grate fresh black pepper over your salad. . . . Creamed spinach with coconut milk instead of cow's milk is delicious as prepared in the Hawaiian Islands, also a stew of chicken, taro tops and coconut milk, only I'm not sure what to suggest as a substitute for taro tops, taro probably being an exclusive Hawaiian crop. Taro bread and taro popovers are delicious. So is the meat from the tentacles of the octopus—called squid in the islands—white, tender and succulent. The favored dessert in Honolulu is, first, fresh pineapple cut into long, luscious slivers, and second, fresh coconut ice cream served from a coconut shell, with fresh grated coconut on top.

FROM the Mendota [Ill.] Record:

"Westbrook Pegler, a columnist, was in Mendota last night and stopped at the Colonial inn. He talked with Mr. Tidd, the proprietor, for half an hour and it could be seen at once that he was a really bright fellow. He had been out west and was returning home again to take up his duties."

Rachmaninoff Chalks Up New Recital Success

BY CECIL SMITH.

Before an audience of generous proportions Sergei Rachmaninoff seated himself before a piano in Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon and forthwith proceeded to add another chalk mark to his long list of successful Chicago recital appearances. Rachmaninoff holds a special sway over his audience, and yesterday's demonstrations of enthusiasm were, as always, in startling contrast to his gaunt, silent, uncommunicative figure.

All the familiar prowess that has fascinated his hearers for years was there. It would be difficult to name any pianist, except perhaps Ignaz Friedman, who derives a more beautiful tone from the piano. He can play as fast as the fastest without sacrificing for a moment this wonderfully round mellowness of tone quality.

Yet it is a curious fact that Mr. Rachmaninoff is a poor interpreter of any music except his own. I realize that this assertion will bring a horde of his loyal followers at my throat, but I must stick unflinchingly to the point.

He is more interested in playing the piano than in playing music. In Bach's "Italian Concerto," for instance, the sense of the first and last movements was buried under an avalanche of virtuoso pianism. Phrase structure, melodic lines, counterpoint, harmonic sequences all were pushed aside to make way for a keyboard style alternately crackling, fondling, roaring, whispering.

The last movement was taken at a pace so fast that it was impossible to hear any accents. The contrasting middle movement became a wayward Chopinesque reverie.

His approach to the Beethoven sonata, opus 31, No. 2, and the Chopin C-sharp minor scherzo was equally tortuous, twisting, and hiding the themes and turning their development into a pianist's field day.

It will be gratifying to welcome Mr. Rachmaninoff back with the Cincinnati orchestra on Nov. 23, when he will have a chance to show his undoubted authority in the interpretation of one of his own concertos.

ANNA KASKAS GAINS POLISH

BY EDWARD BARRY.

If Anna Kaskas can act even half as well as she can sing, she must certainly be an operatic wow. This is the Lithuanian-American girl who stepped into the national limelight a year ago last spring by winning in public audition a place with the Metropolitan Opera association. Now she is a full-fledged member of the contralto division of that organization.

Yesterday afternoon Miss Kaskas came to the Civic theater for her second Chicago recital and revealed an even more polished musicianship than before. Her performance of a Bach-Handel-Gluck group proved that a good artist can make the older classics vital without compromising their beauty.

In "O Don Fatale," from "Don Carlos" Miss Kaskas evinced a flair for the dramatic.

The assisting artist was Marion Butler, 14 year old pianist, whose fluency is still a top-of the-keys affair. Also assisting in yesterday's concert was the Chicago Lithuanian chorus under Charles Stephens' direction. Howard Kubick served as accompanist for Miss Kaskas and Symeta Zimmerman for the chorus.

The Federal Music project's exchange system brought to the Great Northern theater yesterday Marcel Salzinger, supervisor of the Cleveland division, to appear as baritone soloist with the Illinois Symphony orchestra. Robert L. Sanders directed.

An honest, original, and beautifully lyrical movement from Roger Sessions' first symphony received its first Chicago performance. A good performance, too, which is more than can be said for the excerpts from "Eugen Onegin" which closed the program.

Good Morning!

If you skip this you'll have missed a real treat!

"Dr. Syn" is one of the most suspenseful, bloodcurdling, fascinating adventure films that's been screened in a month of Sundays. George Arliss never had a vehicle like it before—and never did he draw a better.

A preacher—and a pirate—that's George! And he doeth all things well in each regard.

The Robert Louis Stevensonish story is from the pen of Russell Thorndyke, an English writer, and it's a humdinger. The time is 1780. The locale, the historic village of Dymchurch, on Romney Marsh in Essex.

Here a saintly Dr. Syn—in reality a one time famous pirate and now head of a smuggling organization, ministers faithfully to the souls of his parishioners—and smuggles—with an eye out for their material good—on the side. . . .

There comes to the village a detachment of sailors under the direction of Capt. Collyer, a hard, able man who has fought his frigate against the French and is now employed by the crown to turn up smugglers.

From the moment he and the suave clergyman meet it is a battle of wits between them. For Captain Collyer is every bit as smart as Dr. Syn, every bit as diplomatic, every bit as industrious. . . . [For the first time in my recollection, Mr. Arliss has, in his cast, a male rival for your interest. While Roy Emerton doesn't hog the limelight, he certainly keeps you quite as much intrigued as does the star.]

In Collyer's company is a horrible mulatto with a bloodhound's nose for scent. A huge creature whose ears have been cut off and whose tongue has been torn out. A fierce animal of a man who is always kept chained. . . .

His eyes and those of Dr. Syn—meet! The doctor turns pallid. The Negro struggles to break his chains. You get goose pimples. . . . From here on the horrific captive is a prominent factor in developments.

The romance of a lovely girl in whom Dr. Syn takes unusual interest, and a young English aristocrat, adds a bit of needed warmth and wholesome color to the film. . . . No more of the story here, however.

Backgrounds—of the old church, the marsh, the inn, the town and surrounding country are convincing and splendidly photographed. Direction was tops.

Mr. Arliss was never in better form. And a fine and able cast lends luster to the major performances of himself and Mr. Emerton.

This is a picture folks are going to talk about—so better see it if you want to horn in on the conversation.

See you tomorrow.

The Week's Wash

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 7.— Los Angeles' paragrapher, Erskine Johnson, reported over the week-end that Nelson Eddy had promised pals he would take a punch at me next time we met. Inasmuch as Ray Bolger introduced Eddy and me at M.-G.-M. only three days back, and we had a pleasant conversation, the credibility of this item is to be doubted, but if it is on the level there are certain stipulations. In the first place, the vaudeville "ham" in your reporter insists that the fight be staged at the Trocadero, and I'll spot Eddy the first chorus of "O, How I Miss You Tonight" and several stanzas of "Wagon Wheels." . . . Al Jolson gave us columnists a black eye, figuratively and literally, when he slugged one of the more effeminate brethren of the craft a year ago come Michaelmas, but this fellow was not qualified to represent us as he'd never won a decision. . . . As the only healthy member of a group that includes Dynamite Skolsky, One-Punch Sobol, Canvasback McIntyre, Kid Parsons, Wee Willie Wilkerson, Fido Fidler, Dapper Dan Walker, and Hell-on-Wheels Hellinger, I promise to stay in there and keep punching, let the baritones fall where they may.

Nelson Eddy.

Now they're calling it Maxwell-Goldwyn-Mayer. . . . Walter Lippman will wed Helen Byrne Armstrong, after the final papers. . . . Ernest Simpson, husband of the duchess of Windsor, raged when I predicted he'd marry Mary Kirk Raffray, but page one confirms it. . . . Sir Stork will be awfully busy in the movie colony, with visits expected at eight homes: The Bing Crosbys', the Claude Raines', the Henry Fondas', the Howard Langs', the Harpo Marxes', the Allan Jones', the Nat Goldstones', and the Eddie Davises'. . . . Henry Kornblum's widow, Lillian Andrus, will become Mrs. Barclay Johnson.

Despite all the misinformation, it's Priscilla Lane who is the object of Wayne Morris' affections. . . . Sophisticated Kay Francis has Gopher Gulch as a mailing address, no kidding. . . . Joy Hodges and Robert Wilcox will get hitched in New York during the Christmas holidays. . . . William Wyler, ex-hubby of Margaret Sullavan, wanted Henry Fonda, another ex-hubby, for "Jezebel," so the deal was set by Leland Hayward, who is hubby No. 3. . . . Jeanette MacDonald almost walked out of the first M.-G.-M. air show. Ted Healy did walk out. . . . Mary Maguire is wearing a diamond bracelet this wide from Joe [Ever-Lovin'] Schenck.

Franziska Gaal, Hungarian half-pint, gave Cecil De Mille plenty of headaches. . . . Crux of RKO studio troubles is Pandro Berman's contract, which gives him first call on any writer, director, or performer on the lot. . . . New Orleans' eyeful, Ann Evers, will wed Bill Hopper. . . . Al Hall and Lucille Ball have made up. . . . Bill Hollingsworth and Myra Bratton have reached the serious stage. . . . Simone Simon and William Wyler have turned on the heat again. . . . Martha Raye's current arra-rest is Dave Rose of N. B. C.'s Chicago office. . . . Jules Brulatour wires heated denials of the report that he was interested in any deal to buy up Universal with Frank Orsatti as front-man. Orsatti's only interest was in buying stories Universal made as silent films. . . . Agent Walter Kane and Columbia player Jane Hamilton are an item. . . . Ruth Anne Butters, Dixie Dunbar's southern protegé, hi-jacked the Helen Kane-Bill Gerard idyll.

Add coast skyline decorations: The shapely stems revealed by Dorothy Lamour in "Hurricane." . . . Hannah Williams Dempsey's sister, Dorothy, will wed Puggy Dettner, Montreal night club owner, before Jan. 1. . . . Hymie Bushel, Rudy Vallee's attorney, is in town. Incidentally, Vallee's performance at Palm Springs Friday night evoked raves. He stayed on the bandstand for four hours, though the tent in which the party was staged was so cold the pianist wore an overcoat. Paulette Goddard and Spencer Tracy won the dancing prizes. . . . The Jake Powells of the N. Y. Yanks have reconciled. . . . Mitzi Green's most persistent wooer is Harold Minsky, son of the eastern burlesque chain. . . . Ethel Leopold, Chicago girl at Warner's, will become Mrs. Jack White. . . . Erno Rapee's son, George, is making passes at Lillian Lowe of the Schenck clan.

Sam Goldwyn's hired men unveiled the $2,000,000 "Hurricane" at Carthay Circle theater over the week-end, and in the words of Tex Rickard, your correspondent "never seed anything like it." Ten thousand fans occupied grandstands erected in front of the theater; searchlights played across the sky; there was a radio broadcast; Hawaiian bands played and shivered in the chill winds. Whether even a Goldwyn can recoup a $2,000,000 expenditure, without "sock" box office names, is a question that only the box offices of the country and world can answer. Audiences will like it, and the girls will like Jon Hall.

SYNOPSIS.

When rich old Caleb Winter died his wife, Isabella, once his housekeeper, wires her daughter, Sally Lee Keyne, at school in Maryland, to come home at last. Because Caleb had demanded a housekeeper without family ties Isabella had never told him about Sally. En route Sally meets Robin Ashe, whose family live near the old Crewe mansion, Sally's new home. He falls in love with her. The Winter chauffeur, driving Sally home, gives a lift to an arrogant tramp, called Vincent. Sally orders the chauffeur to put him out. The morning after Sally's homecoming Joseph Marr, his lawyer, reads Caleb's will and her mother has a stroke. Informed of his wife's deception, Caleb left everything to his first wife's nephew, Obadiah Crewe. Mrs. Winter, if she stays on as housekeeper, to have shelter and an income. The new heir turns out to be the tramp Vincent Obadiah Crewe. Though she hates and fears him, Sally serves him as housekeeper in her mother's place. Vincent inherits Caleb's tricky West Indian valet, Manchi. Robin's mother and sister go to Crewe house on visitors' day. Manchi intimates to them that Sally is the new heir's mistress. Vincent surprises Sally when he tells her he loves her and asks her to marry him. He shocks her by harboring an evil looking tramp who is ill.

INSTALMENT XXXI.

A MOTHER'S FEARS.

"Sally, Vincent Crewe is a gentleman," said Mrs. Winter.

"In the deepest sense, perhaps he is. But he hasn't lived the sort of life I understand. He's had experiences . . . has done and been things . . . has known people . . . that make him different. Mother . . ." here she let fall her head and laid her cheek against the strong square palm. "I don't know what queer men and women would come climbing up at us out of his past. He . . . scares me, mother. There are a lot of secrets in his life. You can see them being kept out of sight, if you look into his face and eyes."

Mrs. Winter could not lift her free hand to lay it on Sally's head though she tried to do so. She said with grimness, "There were quite a lot of secrets in my life, Sally. And you were one of them."

"A queer person enough, mother?"

"A darling person. Perhaps Vincent hasn't so many dreadful secrets, Sally. Why don't you ask him?"

"But, mother, it isn't only that. I don't love him."

"You don't know him. You've only just begun to know him. Can't you give him time. You don't love any one else."

"No." A muffled syllable but to Mrs. Winter's ears it had the sound of truth.

"Don't you see how perfect it would be for all of us, Sally?"

"Mother, do you remember the story of Lady Claire? No? Wait . . . there's a Tennyson somewhere. I'm going to read it out to you." She actually went away, returned to the astonished invalid and read the poem.

"That's what he quoted to me. You see, mother, when we first met he was a 'beggar born and I was a great lady.'" She told Mrs. Winter for the first time her story of the insolent hobo whom Robin had knocked down and whom she had put out of her car. "Now, he's pleased to condescend to the nurse's child."

"O, Sally, don't be so childish!"

"It was Vincent who was childish, mother. But it was my first honest-to-God offer of marriage. The boys nowadays sort of do the thing differently."

"And you weren't touched by this boy's way?"

"I was . . . a little."

"But you aren't now, on sober second thought?"

"On sober second thought, mother darling, I think I'd rather die than marry Obadiah Vincent Crewe."

The square dark face lost its new color and in it were more apparent instantly the slight distortion and drooping of the muscles, lid and cheek and mouth. Sally looked away.

"And you are going to tell him that?"

"I must tell him that, mother."

"Then what . . ." and her mother's voice had changed and weakened, "what will become of us?"

For the first time Sally envisaged the possibility of catastrophe.

"You don't think he'll take it out on me . . . and you?"

"It might be more than he could bear . . . to have you in his house." Sally sat, staring.

"Then," she said, "I'll have to go."

Mrs. Winter pulled herself along her pillows and grabbed her daughter's arm in her well hand.

"I couldn't bear that. I didn't have you for so many years. Besides, I'm not well enough to . . . to keep the terms of Caleb's will. What would become of me?" Her voice broke suddenly to the terrible weak treble of old age. "I can't stay here by his charity. And I'm not sure I could make this house my home legally, even if he asked me to. I don't know how binding in detail a will like Caleb's is."

"O?" cried Sally. "He was the beast . . . the brute."

Mrs. Winter said, "Hush," then added in a low voice, controlled to her usual tone and moving back to her pillow, "I deserve it. I lied to him about . . . Jack Keyne . . . and about you."

"Well," she spoke in the hard sharp tone of frightened youth, "Well, mother, what are we to do? I'm not going to be one of these sacrifices on the altar of matrimony. There's a lot of things I'd rather be than that."

"I never asked you to sacrifice yourself."

"Don't worry, pet." Sally rose and smiled one of her biggest and most careless smiles. "I'll work it out somehow. I'll mitigate the tyrant's rage. I guess I can make him see sense."

"Sally, why not give him just a little . . . hope?"

Sally looking down with a certain starry coldness at her mother, and answered, "I haven't enough to spare, mother. I'll do better. I'll give him a complete despair. And I'll try out his . . . making of a gentleman."

"You frighten me!"

"I needn't. I believe I have more faith than you have in Vincent, I think he'd rather be cut up into little bits of pieces before he than not play the rôle of a Virginian cavalier. The young man has the pride of Prince Rupert. He might bow himself out of this house but he'll never have the courage to bow me out . . . and that goes for you, too, mother."

"Sally, I don't want you to be bitter and cruel. I don't want you to feel humiliated or at the mercy of any one."

"Mother, my sweet, I'd rather by a whole lot be cruel and bitter than soft and secret and slavish. And I don't believe you can be humiliated or at the mercy of any one if you just don't choose to be." She kissed her mother almost violently. "Just talking about it to you has cleared my mind. I feel as if I was made out of nice shiny limber steel. Good-by. I'm going down to talk to Mr. Crewe."

But at the door she turned her keen, quick-colored countenance. "Just one question, mother . . . did you promise Vincent 'my hand' when he asked you for permission to press his suit?"

"Of course not. I told him I'd be glad."

"And you'd still be glad to have me marry him if he were . . . just a hobo . . . and not the 'rightful heir?'"

Mrs. Winter smiled up one side of her mouth and said nothing.

"But, you do really like the boy?"

"I do, indeed. I can certainly say that."

"For what reasons . . . besides his being Lord Ronald?"

"Because he is honest . . . and humble and gentle and brave . . ."

"O my God!" cried Sally and went out, closing the door as carefully as though she had been, indeed, a Victorian maiden.

She went down to her writing room with the motions of the springy steel she had described, shut its door and leaning back, remembered how upon first entering she had liked this room, allowed its shadowed and sober seclusion to possess her. Like every other pleasant aspect of the house this sanctuary had been spoiled by its changed ownership. And there, with a great start, she saw that the owner was standing in one of the deep window niches and looking at her with no expression on his face.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: A White Lie and a Red Face

Lumps Found in Gravy Are Easy to Avoid

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Lumps in the gravy! They can ruin the loveliest meal, in the estimation of the hostess.

A spiral wire whisk will do wonders to keep lumps from gravy, and to remove them once they have formed. Most ten cent stores carry these useful kitchen utensils.

Poorly flavored and poorly colored gravy usually comes from using too much fat or from undercooking the combination.

GRAVY FROM ROAST OR BROWNED MEATS.

[No Water Used in Cooking.]

To every tablespoon of fat left in the pan [measure roughly by the eye] add one tablespoon flour. Blend the flour carefully into the hot fat and stir with a wooden spoon until flour is lightly browned. Then add liquid, a little at a time, in the proportion of one-half cup for each tablespoon of flour or fat. Water is used for brown gravy, milk for cream gravy. While adding the liquid stir vigorously with wooden spoon or with spiral wire whisk, so that no lumps may form. Low heat should be used during this process of adding liquid and stirring. After liquid all has been added, add salt and pepper to taste. Heat now may be increased slightly and gravy cooked and stirred for several minutes, until it is smooth and thickened.

GRAVY MADE FROM STEWS OR POT ROASTS.

Allow one tablespoon flour and one-half cup milk for each tablespoonful of drippings. Measure flour into small bowl, add liquid slowly, stirring until perfectly smooth. Heat drippings and stir in the paste very slowly, continuing to stir until gravy is thickened and smooth. Add more liquid if it is needed. Season to suit the taste. If the meat cooked was very fat it is best to skim off most of the fat before measuring the drippings for the gravy.

A bottled meat extract gives excellent flavor to gravies. Added to white sauce, the extract makes a rich brown gravy in no time. Canned gravies may be used in meat loaves or combined with leftover meats. Names of these products will be given upon request.

To a thrifty Pennsylvania Dutch woman goes the honor of creating "Cat and Mice." It was made without plan or design to utilize the patches in the scrap bag. The result is an offering for which all quilt makers are grateful. Either solid colors or prints in combination with plain materials may be used. This is an ideal block for the beginning quiltmaker, because the pieces are large and not too numerous, and may be easily set together. The fifteen inch blocks are set together to form an all-over design, and only twenty are required for one coverlet with a nine inch border and a one-half inch bias binding.

Patient and Gentle Teaching Best Cure for Children's Fears

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

We are all inclined, I think, to make a picture of the perfectly normal baby or small child as one who does EVERYTHING we consider wholesome, poised, good natured, fearless, and so on.

For that reason we are also inclined to think of any deviation from this ideal of perfect normality as being wrong, undesirable, not normal, and the child as being a problem.

Just physically alone, children are so differently constituted that they react differently to the world and people. Add to this their temperament and you have an INDIVIDUAL response to outside happenings.

So instead of having a child who is a problem you have a child who is simply an individual.

I could give you dozens of examples of what I mean, but the one of fear is among the best. What frightens one child doesn't frighten another. A "false face" will delight one and terrify another, the dark will be dreaded by one and not another. Even with our best, most understanding efforts to prevent fears, some children will have them.

For instance:

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: If you have any literature on a nervous youngster [just 2] being upset by loud noises [horns, whistles, and so forth] even during the daytime, I would appreciate a copy of same. Thank you."

Fear of loud noises is acknowledged to be one of the instinctive fears, yet some children are more subject to them than others.

Once a fear exists, all we can do is to be as gentle and reassuring as possible and to make explanations our child can understand, sometimes even playing games to familiarize our small one with the frightening object.

Time will help banish fear by widening our child's experience and knowledge, and by stabilizing his nervous system.

The Housewife

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

Sometimes when vegetables look better they seem actually to taste better, too. If you've tried serving green string beans as they are, and then if, at another time, you have "Frenched" them or sliced them lengthwise you know what we mean. They look much more appetizing when they are prepared this second way.

But, also, it requires more time and patience to fix them, for besides clipping off the top and bottom and stringing each bean you must slice it, as well. This is just where a neat little metal trick comes in. It's a small machine that you hold in one hand. There's an opening for the bean and when you slip one in the machine saves time and waste by stemming, stringing and slicing it for you in a jiffy.

Beans not only look better, they cook more quickly when they are cut in this manner. The thin slices require only 10 to 15 minutes of boiling.

Frances Porter Adler Weds Joseph H. Schaffner.

Mr. and Mrs. James Foster Porter announce the marriage of their sister, Frances Porter Adler, to Joseph Halle Schaffner, son of Mrs. Joseph Schaffner, on Saturday at Bedford Hills, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Porter do not know whether Mr. and Mrs. Schaffner will live here or in New York, since Mr. Schaffner's old family home is on Greenwood avenue, and he also has homes in New York and Bedford Hills. The younger Mrs. Schaffner was the widow of Dr. Herman M. Adler.

The Art institute has cards out for its fifty-ninth annual reception Thursday afternoon, Nov. 18, from 3:30 until 5 o'clock in connection with the forty-eighth annual exhibition of American paintings and sculpture.

Miss Hildreth Meiere, the distinguished mural painter, will speak on "Adventures in Mural Decoration" tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at the Arts club under the auspices of the American Institute of Decorators. While she is in Chicago Miss Meiere [she arrives today] will visit Mrs. James Ward Thorne, for whom she painted the walls of the miniature Gothic cathedral now on view at the Art institute.

Miss Meiere will tell of her experiences in painting the walls of the Nebraska state capitol in Lincoln, the new postoffice in New York, the mosaics in St. Bartholomew's church in New York, and the colored cement decorations in a Newark, N. J., church.

Junior League Holds Fall Luncheon Today.

The annual fall meeting and luncheon of the Junior league will take place at 11 o'clock today in the Tower room of the Drake hotel.

The next Christmas sale for the Eli Bates shop will be held from 10 until 6 o'clock tomorrow at Mrs. Everett Graff's new home in Fox lane, Winnetka. Mrs. Morris K. Wilson and Mrs. Donald F. McPherson are giving a luncheon for the women who will assist with sales.

They include Mrs. William B. Hale, Mrs. Hill Blackett, Mrs. Frederick H. Scott, Mrs. John Stuart, Mrs. John I. Shaw, and Mrs. Clark Lawrence. The sale held at Mrs. T. Philip Swift's in Lake Forest Tuesday was a successful one and no one had a better time at it than little Blissy King, who modeled maids' aprons.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers Follansbee, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sewell L. Avery, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Prince and Princess Galitzine, Prince and Princess Rostislav, and Prince Cantacuzene are some of those who are giving dinner parties tonight at the Yar, when Enio Bolognini, eminent cellist, starts playing there. Mr. Bolognini used to be with the Chicago Symphony orchestra and more recently was a member of the Russian trio.

Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick to Give Tea for Music Board.

Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick is giving a tea on Wednesday in her apartment in the Drake Towers for the members of the board of the Lake Shore Chamber Music society. The society is sponsoring six musicals by the Russian trio in the Fortnightly club; the first will be given Tuesday morning, Nov. 16, at 11:30 o'clock. Luncheon will be served to any one attending the musical if a reservation is made through the club more than two days in advance.

Mrs. Irwin Rew and Miss Theresa Rew are giving a buffet luncheon at home in Evanston today for Miss Marion E. Martin of Bangor, Me. Miss Martin, state senator in Maine, recently has become the head of the woman's division of the Republican national committee.

Mrs. Rew and her daughter will be assisted by Mrs. George B. Dryden, Mrs. Edwin Sherman, Mrs. George A. Paddock, Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, Mrs. James W. Goode, and Mrs. Drennan J. Slater.

The current purge of soviet leaders will be among the topics discussed by Demaree Bess, correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor in soviet Russia, in a talk, "Soviet Russia in 1937," before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations at 12:30 o'clock today in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house.

Arts Club Re-elects Twelve Directors.

At the annual meeting of the Arts club last Thursday twelve directors were reëlected for a term of three years. They are Mrs. Mary Tilt Bartlett, John Storrs, Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins, William Eisendrath Jr., Gerald Frank, Mrs. Frederic Woodward, Mrs. Erich Gerstenberg, Robert Harshe, Mrs. William H. Mitchell, John A. Holabird, Miss Alice Roullier, and Harold F. McCormick. The thirty-six directors will meet Wednesday to elect officers.

The Infant Welfare society of Chicago is holding a rummage sale today and tomorrow at 153 North Michigan avenue. The sale will be conducted from 8:30 o'clock in the morning until 8:30 in the evening.

In connection with this event the Kenwood and North Side branches of the Infant Welfare society will hold their fall rummage sale today, tomorrow, and Wednesday at the same address.

The clever little red bordered invitations decorated with a drawing of a horse that invited some of the younger set to the Streeterville Hunt ball are the work of Debutante Kay Goodman, for whom the party is being given by her grandmother, Mrs. William O. Goodman, and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey. The ball will be on Nov. 20 at the Casino. Miss Goodman's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hibbard, are giving a dinner for her before the ball.

Practical Frock for Home

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOUSE FROCK.

A few snips of the scissors, a few minutes at the sewing machine, and this practical, comfortable, and pretty house frock will be ready to wear. It's just as simple as that!

It's a one piece garment, the broadened shoulders of which provide cap sleeves. It has a belt which fastens in back or a sash which loops around and ties in a becoming bow right in the front. It's simple to put this frock on, because it opens out easily, and the sash fits the waistline to your figure.

A pocket may adorn the skirt, if you wish, and be trimmed with the same rickrack braid, which lends color and finish to the V neckline and the armholes. All the bright cottons are suitable for this garment, and gay prints are equally as attractive as plain shades.

Style No. 2036 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. The medium size requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 2¼ yards of braid.

Unsightly, Dry Rough Hands Made Soft and Lovely

There is one sure way that has never failed to make hands soft, smooth and white. The way Doctors, Dentists and Nurses do . . . and every one knows how important it is for them to keep their hands in good condition.

Hands get rough and red when essential skin elements are destroyed by harsh treatment, dishwashing and bad weather. The way, then, to make them soft and white, is to replace these essential elements. To do this, get a jar of mystic cream from any druggist or department store. Mystic cream supplies everything your skin needs to keep it from chapping and getting rough and red.

Apply it at night before retiring. It is absorbed almost instantly. Mystic cream is not the least bit sticky or greasy, and it won't stain. Results are quick and sure.

No work will be too harsh. Bad weather won't bother you. You will always have soft, smooth, lovely hands if you get the habit of using mystic cream. This simple treatment never fails.

Women Wise to Heed Men's Style Advice

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

I am afraid, girls, we are going to have to listen to them. Hear what this one has to say:

"A woman should not be resentful when her husband offers suggestions on how she should fix her hair. She should be resentful, however, when her man shows no interest in how she dresses, how her makeup looks, the effect of her coiffure, and other matters expressive of charm."

It's a man speaking, sisters, and one whose position as orchestra leader in smart night clubs should give emphasis to his opinions on womanly attractiveness and charm. Al Donohue is his name, and he continues:

"The day is past when a woman can dismiss men's opinions with a decisive 'O, what do you know about women's clothes?' It is past because clever women have more confidence in masculine taste.

"Most stylists of women's wear are men. The majority of the artists and scientists who develop different shades of lip rouge and powder are men. Although none of these items is for their own use, they are empowered, nevertheless, with the creation and development of them.

"It is no more than fair to let the husband have his way. Wives insist upon accompanying their husbands when they go shopping for suits and coats.

"The famous essayist, William James, once proved that if a man is a leader in one field he can apply his talents more quickly than the average man in the arts and any other business. I draw this analogy: If a man has good taste in his own clothes, in music and other arts, and is a leader in his own field, his opinion should be highly respected where his wife's clothes are concerned.

"Finally, consider the fact that, when he married her, he must have been pleased with her taste in clothes. If he had been displeased, the wedding bells would not have rung. But, most of all, women should realize that a man wants his wife to look lovely."

'Human Engineering' Topic of Woman's Club Speaker

Johnson O'Connor will speak on "Human Engineering" at 1:30 o'clock today at the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street. Mr. O'Connor heads the human engineering laboratory at the Stevens Institute of Technology at Hoboken, N. J., and is a specialist in analyzing the mental characteristics of an individual with the object of determining his aptitude for various vocations.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Some new cosmetics are rather important news. First of all, they're of excellent quality. They're of English origin and London smart women are crazy about them.

Purity is their special concern. They're conservatively packaged and not, as yet, well known but they're slowly and surely obtaining a following. The preparations have arrived in Chicago and we for one are glad that they've arrived.

One of the most interesting of the preparations is a "milk of roses" to be used as a powder base. It's actually milky in consistency and slides on the skin beautifully. It is absorbed rather quickly and makes just the kind of flattering, invisible film you ask in a powder base.

We're especially fond of this, and think you will be too if it's a light, easily applied foundation lotion that you find most satisfactory.

There is also a very bland skin soap and a tissue cream that's tops. It's the kind that could be used on a baby's skin. The English women are all crazy about this and when you use it you'll see why; it's especially designed for very thin, ultra sensitive skin that crinkles so quickly if it isn't consistently and properly lubricated.

These are truly fine preparations you should look into. They're not the most expensive to be found but we know for a fact that they're among the best. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Question 34 appeared on Friday. It was:

Question 34: Both sides vulnerable. Rubber bridge. You are South, second hand. East deals and bids one spade. Your holding is:

♠6 4 3 ♥7 2 ♦A K 10 7 5 ♣A 6 3

What call do you make?

Answer: You should pass. Your three honor tricks do not begin to compensate for your lack of sufficient playing tricks at the two level. You should not double one spade since you are quite unprepared for partner to bid the other major suit, hearts, and an overcall by you of two diamonds may be severely penalized. [Two points demerit for any call other than a pass.]

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 35: Both sides vulnerable. Opponents have 80 part-score. You are South, and hold:

♠K J 9 8 6 ♥Q 3 ♦K 7 5 ♣8 6 2

East [your right hand opponent] deals and bids one spade.

What call do you make?

Question 36: Both sides vulnerable. You are South. The bidding proceeds:

West	North	East	South
1 heart	Double	Pass	?

You hold:

♠K 10 9 7 5 ♥2 ♦A 10 8 6 ♣Q 9 4

What call do you make?

♣A 10

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 club	Double	1 heart	2 diamonds
2 hearts	2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

East's double was decidedly optimistic. True, he had a very fair hand but West, his partner, by bidding directly over the take-out double, had shown a poor hand and inability "to stand" even one club doubled. Also, East might have imagined that the opponents would have a good diamond suit to run off, which would embarrass him for discards. Speaking of optimism, South also did some pretty aggressive bidding.

West opened the heart ten. East cashed the ace and king, and returned the deuce. Declarer won, dummy discarding a club, and ran four diamond tricks. East immediately was in difficulty, as he had to find three discards. Correctly reading declarer for the ace-10 of clubs, East saw that he could not shorten his own club suit too much, otherwise dummy's remaining four card club suit would be established. East, therefore, let go two spades and one club. Now, with the play in dummy, declarer led the five of clubs. East split his honors. Declarer won with the ace, then led a low spade, and finessed against the queen. East won with the ace and hastily exited with his remaining spade. Declarer then led a low club toward his own ten spot, and East made a fatal error. To prevent declarer's ten from winning, as East realized it would, he went up with the queen. It was an expensive trick, since he then had to return a club from the 9-4 into dummy's tenace.

Had East graciously permitted the club ten to win declarer would have had to present West with the last two tricks, namely, the high spade and a long heart.

It sometimes is very profitable to give up a sure trick.

If You Can't Get On with People, Look for Cause in Yourself

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

No day goes by but this column is presented with a dozen or more problems reflecting the inability to get along with people. It may be the young woman reporting on the miserably lonely hours which are her lot. It may be the young man who confides that the girls do not like him. Each of these two may be reporting symptoms under other names, such as shyness, awkwardness, the miserable inferiority feeling, but their real trouble, like that of countless others, may be boiled down to the inability to get along with others.

It may be the young matron or bride, the young husband, the older married woman or the older man. At the root of a high percentage of divorce causes, undoubtedly, you would find the same human lack of friendly grace and understanding.

Before us at the moment is a communication, and one commonly committed to us, telling of the unpopularity of which the writer is a victim. "For no reason I can see myself," she reports, "other girls no better looking, no better dressed, with no better education, are invited here, there and everywhere, but I am left out every time."

In this victim's thinking it never would occur to her to look where she could find the real barrier to her success with others, her own weak self. Nor would the boy who sees fellows who, in his judgment, are complete and perfect rotters, making conquests right and left, turn the spotlight on himself mercilessly. Rather, he would, in the most cowardly manner, prefer to cast a reflection on a more successful rival's character than to face the truth that his is the fault because he has not learned to get on with people.

Shops of City Hold Special Fur Exhibits

BY RHEA SEEGER.

National Fur week is the one week in the year when even gold digging fur coat shoppers are aided and abetted in every way possible, and also officially! No one has ever seen such exciting collections of capes, fur wraps, short jackets, and daytime coats.

From the snappy brevities of every conceivable fur, known and not so well known, to the floor sweeping, breath taking luxuries that parade as evening wraps, from modest price marks to sums that constitute a king's fortune, furs take this week's buying spotlight.

Among the finds for the limited allowance are the fur coat and dress combine, the two designed to be worn as a complete costume, but a pair that can be separated painlessly and teamed with other coats or dresses. Young career girls with a limited allowance can easily manage one of these dress and fur jacket duets. Silver gray kidskin, civet cat, strikingly marked; a new rival, monkey fur; lapin, and others are priced 'way down during these next few weeks. For more money, but not any smarter in streamline or newer in detail, come the daytime fur coats in silky black Persian, in steel gray krimmer, stunning browns in Persian, nutria or beaver and stunning short capes and jackets of sable dyed Kolinsky that looks enough like expensive mink to fool the spectators at first glance.

Mink probably has the greatest glamor because of the beautiful dark markings, the new feather weight, and the many and varied styles or models from the casual shorter lengths to the long coats that wrap almost double over the front. Blue fox capes reach a new high rating for dress parade popularity.

Daytime furs—marten, civet cat, sealskin, bleached or white wolf, a black wolf, and similar pelts—are the outstanding buys of the season, and styled as distinctively as the more luxurious mink, broadtail, fine caracul, and the fluffier furs. Shop for unusual models in furs at interesting prices during fur week.

Ignat and Diot, French cyclists, both of whom answer to the name of Emile, led Chicago's 38th six day bike race on the first posting of official standings at the Chicago Stadium last night. There were 14,000 at the opening.

The Frenchmen, who were winners of the last two races here, thus interrupting the reign of Gustav Kilian and Heinz Vopel, German stars, were at the top of the first tabulation by virtue of the number of points scored in the race's first series of sprints.

Tied with Ignat and Diot for the mileage lead after those first sprints were Rodman-Wals, Kilian-Vopel, Peden-Peden, and O'Brien-Allen.

53 Stolen Laps.

After the mileage leaders the field was scattered back to a total of seven laps after two hours of jamming, in which 53 laps were stolen by the contestants. Debaets-Thomas were only one lap behind and Walthour-Crossley were two laps behind. Audy-Lepage and Georgetti-Yaccino were three laps back, Letourner-Reboll were five laps in arrears, and Uttevaere-Behringer and Baggio-Bedard six laps. Ligman-Thelin pulled up the rear, seven laps back.

The boys, all dressed up in their gaudy costumes, went to work at 9 o'clock when Barney Ross, world welterweight boxing champion, fired the starting gun. They cycled cautiously until they memorized the new color schemes effected by some of the more dangerous performers. The opening shadow boxing continued for seven minutes, after which the Letourner-Reboll team busted loose and precipitated the first jam of the race. The dueling, with all hands on the track, kept going until the first standings were announced at 9:20 o'clock. This initial informal reading showed the Peden brothers to be leading the field by a lap, with six teams in the second flight and six more two laps back.

Letourner Tumbles.

There were no spills during the first hour and 40 minutes, an unusual bit of luck for the athletes. Letourner was the first to tumble, going down at 10:40. As the field slowed up for the start of the first series of sprints, at 10 o'clock, the Peden brothers were sharing the lead with Ignat-Diot. Five teams were one lap back, five were two laps back and the Baggio-Bedard team had dropped three laps behind.

Frank Kramer, who has been referee of the last thirty 6-day races, is not here for the current grind. Pat Mulvey, widely known in cycling for three decades, is sitting in for Kramer, who was kept in the east on business pertaining to the coming meeting of the Amateur Athletic union in Boston.

Results of the 2 a. m. sprints:

1—Diot, Ligman, Yaccino, Rodman.
2—Kilian, Ignat, Wals, Reboll.
3—Vopel, Allen, Diot, Ligman.
4—W. Peden, Kilian, O'Brien, Audy.
5—D. Peden, Walthour, Diot, Vopel.
6—Kilian, Diot, Wals, W. Peden.
7—Vopel, Behringer, Yaccino, Diot.
8—Kilian, W. Peden, Wals, O'Brien.
9—Diot, Ligman, Vopel, Behringer.
10—Kilian, Crossley, Wals, Audy.

YANKEES WHIP BENGALS, 21-13; GEYER SCORES

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 7.—(AP)—The New York Yankees defeated the Cincinnati Bengals, 21 to 13, in an American league professional football game today. The victory put the Yanks in third position.

The Yankees made four field goals, Ole Nesmith and Left Tackle Ossowski each kicking two. Their lone touchdown came in the third period on a pass from Karpus to Nesmith. A safety accounted for the other two points.

Cincinnati, held scoreless until the final period, went over the goal twice in the last few minutes, Don Geyer, former Northwestern player, scoring one of the touchdowns.

GIANTS TOO BIG AND GOOD FOR PIRATES, 17 TO 0

Keep Lead in Eastern Division Race.

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Operating with their customary efficiency the New York football Giants handed the Pittsburgh Pirates a 17 to 0 defeat before 21,447 at the Polo Grounds today. The triumph kept the Giants at the top of the Eastern division of the National Professional Football league.

Passes gave the Giants their first touchdown in the second period; Ward Cuff kicked a field goal in the third and Hank Soar dashed twenty-five yards with an intercepted pass in the last period to score the final touchdown.

A flat pass from Ed Danowski to Dale Burnett gave the winners their first touchdown after they had marched seventy-two yards, with Danowski's passing figuring in the advance. Burnett took the ball alone on the goal line.

Cuff's kick furnished the third period scoring. He attempted another later in the period from the 49 yard line, but it went under the crossbar. Johnny Gildea, the Pirates' best back, tried a pass midway through the final period and Soar turned it into a score. He grabbed the ball on the 25 and dashed through the scattered Pirates unmolested. LIONS BEAT RAMS, 27-7

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Capitalizing on their opponents' errors, the Detroit Lions swamped the Cleveland Rams, 27 to 7, in a National Professional Football league game played before 15,000 today. After a scoreless first period, Cleveland scored two minutes after the second quarter opened when Bob Snyder went over from the 2 yard line to end a 74 yard march.

The Lions tied the score a few minutes later when Bill Shepherd tossed a short pass to Lloyd Cardwell, who raced 40 yards to score. The Lions went in front 10 seconds before the half ended when Harry Ebding, end, picked up a Ram fumble and ran 23 yards to score.

Another Ram fumble gave the Lions their third touchdown early in the third period, Jack Johnson, tackle, picking up the ball and running 60 yards for the touchdown. The Lions got their remaining points on field goals from placement by Shepherd in the last period. The first kick was seven yard and the second thirty-seven. Lineups:

VISITORS TAKE 17 POINT LEAD IN FIRST HALF

Chicago Threatens in Third Quarter.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Professional football reached its zenith as an attraction and an entertainment at Wrigley field yesterday, where the Green Bay Packers, defending champions of the National league, whipped the Chicago Bears, present favorites for the title, 24 to 14, before an overflow crowd of 44,977.

Ropes stretched in the outfield held back the throng that eclipsed by 10,447 the all-time mark for professional attendance in Chicago, set two weeks ago when the Bears whipped the Detroit Lions.

Attracted by the importance of the game in the western division pennant race and the contestants' reputation for spectacular performance, the record throng sat through a first half that, because of delays, bickerings and wholesale substitutions, was a poor advertisment for professional football. It remained to be whipped up and down the gamut by a second half that fulfilled every tradition of the seventeen year rivalry between the two contestants.

Bears' First Defeat.

It was the Bears' first defeat in seven games and the Packers' sixth victory in eight starts. The Bears, seeking to make their championship chances all but a mathematical certainty, remained in the lead, despite the defeat. They have only one defeat against two for the Packers.

Passing figured in all five touchdowns. The Packers, striving desperately to overcome the handicap of lickings in their first two games of the year, took a seven point lead in the second quarter after an uneventful first period, on a 78 yard forward pass play in which the celebrated combination of Arnie Herber to Don Hutson, carefully set up the Bears' defense and expertly executed the kill.

Another Packer Pass Clicks.

Their lead was increased to ten points a few minutes later when another Herber to Hutson pass set up a field goal for Ernie Smith, the Packers' giant tackle. Smith made good the attempt from the 34 yard line. Three plays later the game took on the appearances of a rout, when the distressed Bears began passing and Ed Jankowski, a member of THE TRIBUNE'S All-Star team last summer, intercepted one of Ray Buivid's tosses and returned twenty-three yards for a touchdown.

In contrast to the dallying of the first half was the play in the third quarter when both teams settled down to the fierce, thrilling football the 44,977 expected from them. The Bears reduced the Packers' lead on the 13th play of the period on Jack Manders' fifty-four yard return of an intercepted pass for a touchdown and his kick for the extra point.

Bears Come Back.

Immediately after regaining possession of the ball again, they hoisted themselves right back into the game with a touchdown on a sixty-four yard pass, Bernie Masterson to Eggs Manske. Manders again kicked the extra point, bringing the score to 17 to 14. Here it remained until the fourth quarter when Bobby Monnett passed four yards to Clark Hinkle and Tiny Engergretsen added the extra point.

Green Bay, publicized as the hottest thing in football since it recovered from its early season reverses, was all advance notices claimed. Only the haggling and recesses of the first half prevented it from running up a larger score against the Bears in the second quarter when reserves were stagger-

A Bear Half Back Gives a Record Crowd a Thrill

Beattie Feathers of the Chicago Bears starts on an end run during yesterday's game with the Green Bay Packers at Wrigley field. The free scoring battle thrilled a crowd of 44,977 spectators—a record gathering for professional football in Chicago. The Packers took a 17 to 0 lead in the first half, but the Bears came back in the third quarter to score twice and tighten up the game again. The Packers eventually won, 24 to 14. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

IF Minnesota gets by this week's football assignment it undoubtedly will win a claim to the Big Ten championship. . . . The last three teams that have beaten the Gophers began with "N"—Notre Dame, Northwestern, and Nebraska. . . . Now comes that pesky Northwestern again. Vern Huffman, who as quarter back at Indiana last season won THE TRIBUNE'S Most Valuable Player award, and his coach, Bo McMillin, have come to a parting of the ways. . . . They are indorsing different breakfast cereals. . . . Huffman, incidentally, will return to Indiana after the Detroit Lions finish their campaign to resume his law studies. . . . Bob Wilke, former Notre Dame half back, holds two coaching jobs. . . . He handles the Hamilton, O., High school team in the afternoon and drives twenty miles to help Clem Crowe at Xavier college in Cincinnati. . . . Tom Stidham, head coach at Oklahoma university, writes this department that Pete Smith, his left end, is one of the finest all around men at that position he ever has seen. . . . Walter Hagen and Joe Kirkwood have left England for a combined exhibition and hunting tour in South Africa, India, Burma, and East Indian countries. . . . They will return to the United States in the spring. . . . John Goldak, sophomore guard on Lynn Waldorf's Northwestern squad, won the St. Louis light heavyweight Golden Gloves championship in 1935. . . . Maxie Rosenbloom is using his $1,000 advance from Promoter Jack Kearns for his bout with Jimmy Adamick in Detroit, Nov. 19, to equip his cocktail lounge in Hollywood, Cal. . . .

When a Fordham player asked Coach Jimmy Crowley during practice for the Pittsburgh game who was going to kick the points after touchdown Crowley answered, "Goldberg!" . . . Pitt's brilliant half back didn't get a chance, however, for the score was 0 to 0. . . . It took an extra charge of the celebrated Marshall eloquence to persuade Clark Griffith to buy a tarpaulin for the Washington gridiron, but the Redskins have one now. . . . Ward Cuff, former Marquette full back, whose forty-two yard field goal enabled the Giants to tie the Bears, is considering Paramount's offer for a screen test.

Pitt Rolls On as Others Run Into Disaster

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Notre Dame was beaten Saturday when Frank Souchak place kicked the point after Frank Patrick's first touchdown in the fourth quarter. The placement gave the Panthers a 7 to 6 lead. There was a presentiment in the press box that the Irish couldn't score again.

But the play which shattered Notre Dame's defense was a perfectly executed reverse from Marshall Goldberg to Harold Stebbins by which the Pitt right half ran twenty-six yards for the Panthers' second touchdown of the rally.

This was the same play by which Pitt scored on Fordham, only to have the touchdown called back when Tony Matisi was caught holding. However, the play at Fordham was a reverse from Stebbins to Goldberg and the latter swung wide around Fordham's left end. Saturday Stebbins went around Chuck Sweeney, Irish right end.

Goldberg Gets Away More Quickly.

"Goldberg gets away quicker on this play than Stebbins," Patrick said in a discussion of the game Saturday night. "But Stebbins wasn't exactly tied down."

This reverse can be called a trick play because of the delayed charging assignments. When Goldberg took the pass from center only the right side of the Pitt line charged. From the press box it appeared that the Panthers had become confused in their signals. Then as Goldberg handed the ball to Stebbins the other Pitt linemen swept into action, and the Irish line, tightly drawn because of Pitt's success in smashing over the guards and tackles, was caught flat footed. Before Notre Dame's right end and right tackle knew what had happened Stebbins was out of reach.

The wave of white shirted Panthers crushed the Notre Dame secondary and Stebbins cut back behind his protectors and crossed the goal line.

Pitt the Better Team.

Pittsburgh Saturday was a better team than Notre Dame. The Irish played inspired football defensively for three periods. They deserve highest praise for their touchdown pass, for it was brilliantly executed. But the Panthers could not be stopped in the last quarter. In that time the Irish had the ball only for 11 plays from scrimmage.

In physical comparisons Pitt had an advantage, particularly in the back field. Notre Dame's collapse also may be attributed to the effects of its battle at Minnesota. But Pitt Saturday paraded one of its greatest elevens which, at least on this afternoon, could match power, speed, and passes with any team in the nation.

Patrick, serving as Pitt's captain, turned in an exceptional game at full back. He blocked, plunged, passed,

Rangers Whip Detroit, 3 to 0, Before 13,000

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 7.—(AP)—New York's Rangers, Stanley cup finalists last season, whipped the champion Detroit Red Wings, 3 to 0, tonight in the Wings' first home game of the National Hocky league season before 13,000.

Butch Keeling's short drive past Goalie Norm Smith 54 seconds before the first period ended would have been enough for victory, as the Rangers outskated and outpassed the Red Wings all the way. But the Rangers banged two more goals into the nets in the third period as Detroit made a final offensive effort.

Cecil Dillon made the second Ranger goal, a 25 foot drive from left wing on Phil Watson's pass at 7:18 of the final period, and Alex Shibicky made the other score at 12:16.

PITT ROLLS ON AS DISASTER HITS OTHER FAVORITES

Attack at Peak in Defeat of Notre Dame.

and punted. No matter what he does later this year, Saturday he climaxed his three years' play for Pittsburgh.

It's a Day of Surprises.

Throughout the gridiron world Saturday there was a series of surprise results which had no parallel in this season's play. Northwestern lost its last chance to share in the conference title and Ohio State probably cannot win because of its loss to Indiana. Harvard was upset by Army, Baylor was beaten by the lowly Texas Longhorns.

Alabama needed a field goal in the last two minutes to whip Tulane, 9 to 6. Carnegie Tech defeated Duquesne. Kansas tied Nebraska, Florida upset Georgia, and Auburn trounced Tennessee. Washington held California to a scoreless tie, giving the Golden Bears their first demerit mark in the Pacific coast campaign.

Northwestern's defeat by Illinois, 6 to 0, was not an upset in view of Indiana's defeat of Ohio State. The Illini had been pre-judged by their defeat by Indiana and Northwestern's one touchdown licking by Ohio State. This cycle now is logical. The Wildcats didn't capitalize on scoring chances, and while they checked Illinois at the goal line in the second period, they were whipped by Illinois' fifty-two yard drive in the final minutes of the game.

Illini Hammer Through.

Jay Wardley's pass to Castelo put the ball on Northwestern's 23 yard line, but from this point the Illini hammered through for a touchdown.

Ohio State started with a rush against Indiana, but failed to score. From then on, with George Miller's field goal as a lever, the Hoosiers kept the upper hand and eventually added a touchdown which made certain their conquest, 10 to 0, and vindicated their followers, who have insisted Indiana was superior to Minnesota and Nebraska, although beaten by both.

The Buckeyes now meet Illinois and finish the season against Michigan. By winning these games—the Illinois battle should be even—Ohio State can share the conference championship, provided Northwestern whips Minnesota this week.

The Gophers Still Lead.

Minnesota may not be consistently powerful or have adequate direction, at least the Gophers couldn't whip Nebraska or Notre Dame, but Minnesota still leads the conference. Saturday Iowa ran up 10 points, but Iowa has no such defense as Nebraska or Notre Dame, so by half time the Minnesota machine was in front, 14 to 10, and went on to a 35 to 10 victory. Any one of those five placements for points after Gopher touchdowns, four by Bell and one by Spadaccini, would have tied Notre Dame a week ago.

Concerning these points after touchdowns, when Andy Pupils failed on his kick after touchdown against Pitt it was the first failure for the Irish this season. And when Dan Smick place kicked for the point after Michigan's first touchdown against Chicago, it eventually proved all important, for the Wolverines won, 13 to 12.

Michigan now has won three conference games and all have been taken by 1 point. Iowa and Illinois were each beaten, 7 to 6.

Maroons Lose in Last Minutes.

Michigan's rally for two touchdowns in the last four minutes of the Chicago game at Ann Arbor kept the Maroons from their first victory of the season. Stark Ritchie scored on a forty-one yard end run to start the spurt. He finished the rally by a six yard smash off tackle for a second touchdown after a Chicago fumble had given the ball to Michigan on the Maroons' 21 yard line.

Despite Nebraska's victories over two Big Ten teams, Minnesota and Indiana, the Cornhuskers have played ties with Oklahoma and Kansas in the Big Six. Kansas surprised Nebraska Saturday, not only by tying, 13 to 13, but by setting the pace and twice leading the Nebraskans.

Texas Defeats Baylor.

Baylor's defeat by Texas, 9 to 6, is an example of equality of football competititon in sectional play, but no more so than Washington's scoreless tie with California. Stanford whipped Southern California, 7 to 6.

Sophomore Sandy Sanford's place kick gave Alabama its 9 to 6 victory over Tulane. The Crimson tide still is undefeated and a contender for the Rose Bowl nomination. Pitt, defending Rose Bowl champion, has a clear record except for its scoreless tie with Fordham. The Rams have the same record and Saturday defeated Purdue, 21 to 3.

DARLING URGES SPORTSMEN FORM A SINGLE GROUP

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Jay N. Darling, former chief of the U. S. biological survey, called upon American sportsmen today to join forces to conserve wildlife resources.

In a radio address arranged by the American Wildlife institute, Darling said the 11,000,000 American sportsmen and 36,000 conservation organizations had made little headway because they had not formed one strong organization.

ARMY OFFICER TAKES, 1ST, 2D IN HORSE SHOW JUMP

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Lieut. Scott M. Sanford, youngest member of the United States army show team of Fort Riley, Kas., made national horse show history tonight when he won first and second places in the $1,000 international military jumper stake.

The 28 year old officer, riding as a member of Uncle Sam's team for the first time, gave two perfect performances with Masquerader and Ugly to give the American officers their first triumph in the eight day show, which started last Wednesday.

Third place went to Capt. Frederick Aherne of the Irish Free State on Duhallon, fourth to Commandant De Menten of Belgium with Whisky, fifth to Lieut. Franklin S. Wing, riding Joe Aleshire of the United States team, and sixth to the young Canadian officer, Lieut. Douglas Cleland, who was up on Flying Poet.

Football Income at Yale Up Over Three Year Period

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—In the first summary of income and expenses given by the treasurer of the Yale University Athletic association in three years, it was announced today that the receipts from football increased from $360,053 in 1934 to $405,464 in 1935, but dropped in 1936 to $400,130. Football expenditures during those years were, respectively, $78,073, $82,312, and $76,183.

Receipts from other sports differed in that last year the largest total of any of the three years was recorded. In 1934-'35 the income was $42,568. There was a drop the next year to $38,324 and last year a rise to $49,330.

How far these sports are from being self-supporting, taken as a whole, is indicated by their total expenditures in 1934-'35 of $174,423, $164,526 in 1935-'36, and $169,545 in the last fiscal year. The net losses for sports were: 1934-'35, $62,222; 1935-'36, $2,829, and 1936-'37, $12,066.

GREENLEAF STILL LEADS CUE STARS DESPITE DEFEAT

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Although toppled from the undefeated class by Jimmy Caras of Wilmington, Del., Ralph Greenleaf of New York remained today at the front of the field as the world's pocket billiard championship tournament entered its third and final week.

Greenleaf's 125-55 defeat last night by Caras, the first major upset of the tournament, cut the pace setting New Yorker's record to five victories and one loss.

Wasser Meets Carpenter on Marigold Card

Russ Wasser, potential heavyweight contender from Minneapolis, and Ralph Carpenter, veteran campaigner of California, will meet in an eight round bout tonight at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

An eight round co-feature involves Everett Simington, lightweight, and Ray Sharkey of Ohio.

Tommy Howell, Danville junior welterweight, who has been out of action for several months, will resume activities under a new manager, Benny Ray, in a four round event against Battling Raymond. Lou Campbell, south side heavyweight, will oppose Emil Campagna of the west side in four rounds. Campbell was obtained when Jack Fargo of Winnetka refused the assignment.

Jimmy La Marr, Cleveland middleweight, who appeared in good form when he vanquished Sherman Edwards at the Park Casino recently, will fight a newcomer in Glen Jones of Canton, O., also in four rounds. A wrestling bout will round out the card.

Frankie Talaber, undefeated north side light heavyweight, is paired with Frankie Hart in part of a double windup on the wrestling program tonight at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. The other bout features Pat Kelly and Dorv Roche. Each match is booked for one fall with a one hour time limit. Talaber also is matched to meet Charley [Gorilla] Grubmyer at Rainbo Fronton Wednesday. Hart will wrestle on the same card against Jack Conley.

These boys compete under the direction of Fred Kohler, who is booking agent in this section for the group of wrestlers headed by Everett Marshall. Marshall has been given heavyweight championship recognition by the Illinois athletic commission. He will defend his title in a return engagement with Bobby Bruns at the Coliseum one week from tonight, the show supplanting the weekly card at White City.

Meanwhile, Tony Stecher and Pinkie George, members of the circuit topped by Bronko Nagurski, Chicago Bears' football player, who also claims the heavyweight crown, have closed a deal whereby they will promote weekly shows at Marigold Gardens for one year starting Nov. 26.

Tony and Mike Sopko, fighting brothers, will appear in two amateur contests tonight at Northwest arena, 3968 Milwaukee avenue, the former against Willie McGee, welterweight, and Mike against Terry Griffen, featherweight. . . . Dr. J. P. O'Connell, Barney Ross' physician, has announced that Barney's old hand injury will preclude the possibility of the welterweight champion's appearance at Chicago Stadium Dec. 10. . . . Freddy Steele, middleweight title holder, is signed to box in the Christmas fund show at Cleveland next month. The card, which also features Henry Armstrong, may be postponed from Dec. 6 to Dec. 13 to give Steele's injured ribs more time to heal.

Jimmy Christy, Catholic Youth organization 130 pound star, and Charley Lavine, wrestling referee licensed by the state athletic body, have been released from the hospital, after being treated for streptococcus infection.

GOING HUNTING FOR PHEASANTS? READ THE RULES

Season for Rabbits, Quail Opens Wednesday Also.

BY BOB BECKER.

This is pheasant and rabbit hunting week in Illinois. Starting Wednesday morning, Nov. 10, it will be legal to hunt pheasants, rabbits, and also quail in the state. The season on the ringnecks continues through Nov. 15, thus giving upland game hunters six days to match their wits and their shooting against the smart pheasants.

Here are points about the shooting seasons which hunters should keep in mind:

1. The bag limit on pheasants is two cocks per day. It is unlawful to have in one's possession more than six pheasants after the third day of the opening. In other words, three days' bag limit is the possession limit.

Limit on Shells.

2. It is unlawful to hunt pheasants or other game in the state with a shotgun holding more than three shells. This means that pump guns and automatics must be plugged so that they will take no more than three shells at one loading.

3. The bag limit on rabbits is now ten per day and the possession limit is twenty. The rabbit season which opens Nov. 10 closes on Dec. 31.

4. The Illinois quail season extends through Dec. 9. The bag limit on this game bird is twelve per day. It is unlawful to have more than twenty-four in possession.

Duck Stamps Not Needed.

5. Pheasant hunters do not need duck stamps when hunting. Somehow or other the rumor that upland game hunters have to carry duck stamps is going the rounds. We have had a number of inquiries about this question. No hunter needs a duck stamp for pheasant shooting. The federal duck stamp is required only when hunting ducks and geese.

6. Hunters should not forget that it is against the law [as specified in the new game code] to shoot on or across a highway. This new regulation is being enforced by the wardens.

Grange Speaks at Junior Association of Commerce

BEARS LOSE TO PACKERS, 24-14; 44,977 ATTEND

Green Bay Gets 17 Point Lead in First Half.

ing under the irrepressible charge of an inspired Packer line.

Although stopped by the Bears' determined spurt in the third period, this line yielded only seventy-four yards to the Chicagoans' vaunted power attack. It kept Bronko Nagurski bottled up throughout the game, stopped Jack Manders' plunges, and kept Ray Nolting from running the flanks for any appreciable distance. An alert secondary, which was fooled only once, and then for sixty-four yards and Manske's touchdown, limited the Bears' pass completions to three in sixteen attempts and intercepted two. Even with the sixty-four yard scoring pass the Bears were able to advance only seventy-nine yards on passes, making a net total of 153 yards gained.

Packers Gain 240 Yards.

Against these figures the Packers, league leaders in offense, rolled up total gains of 240 yards, 144 of which accrued on six completed passes in thirteen attempts and ninety-six from rushing. Hutson was on the receiving end of five of the six completions.

Although the statistics do not indicate a contest of unusual proportions, after the second half the huge throng, approximately 7,000 of which were Green Bay rooters, left Wrigley field at dark last night satisfied that the game measured up to the epic circumstances of the occasion.

Neither team penetrated beyond midfield in the first quarter. After a touchback in the second quarter the Packers took the ball on their 20 yard line.

Hinkle made two yards on a line buck, then Herber and Hutson, who had not come into the game until the last minute of the first period, combined on an expert bit of deception. Hutson ran straight out along the line of scrimmage from his left end position to take Herber's pass. Manders, the defending half back, rushed in to cover. Hutson fumbled the pass.

Packer Pass Clicks.

On the next play he again started out to his left, and as Manders rushed in, he cut up the field. He passed Gene Ronzani, the Bears' safety man. Before Ronzani could recover Hutson was in the clear. Herber, meanwhile, faded back and unleashed a tremendous pass. As Hutson reached the Bears' 39 yard line, thirty-nine yards from the line of scrimmage, he looked over his shoulder and there was the ball. He took it in stride and continued on to the goal. Herber's pass had covered more than fifty yards on the fly; the play gained 78 yards. Hinkle kicked the extra point.

A few minutes later the Packers gained possession of the ball on their 31 yard line. They marched to the Bears' 21 yard line. Smith dropped back to the 34 yard line and place kicked a field goal.

Three plays later Jankowski took Buivid's pass as it bounced off Nolting's fingers and raced down the sidelines for a touchdown. Smith kicked the extra point.

The Bears' first touchdown followed their failure to make much headway after Smith had kicked off out of bounds to start the third period. Nolting's punt went only twelve yards, going out of bounds on Green Bay's 36 yard line. Hinkle made two yards and Joe Laws broke inside the Bears' right tackle for eleven. After Hinkle had failed and Laws had added another four, Monnett passed to Hinkle in the flat. Manders rushed up and intercepted the ball on a dead run, continuing on fifty-four yards to the goal. Lou Gordon, Packer right tackle, had Manders trapped at the 30 yard line, but lunged too soon and Manders sidestepped him. Manders added the extra point.

Manske Wins Race.

This break fired the Bears and they forced the Packers to punt immediately after receiving the kickoff. Manders made one yard, then eleven on quick opening plays over guard and Nagurski added another yard making it second down on the Bears' 36 yard line. Here Masterson faded back and threw a twenty-nine yard pass to Manske. Monnett, the Packer safety man, had been pulled over to the left on the play and only Bud Svendsen, the All-Star center from Minnesota, was near Manske as he took the ball. Manske beat Svendsen in a thirty-five yard race to the goal line. Manders added the extra point.

This inspired the Bears to new heights and they immediately set about manhandling the Packers. The enthusiasm was whoaed up short a minute later, however, when Monnett returned Nolting's punt forty-seven yards to the Bears' 43 yard line in the finest run of the game. He traveled from side line to side line in advancing the distance and missed breaking into the clear when Masterson's lunge forced him out of bounds.

The Packers' last touchdown, made early in the fourth period, involved another bit of sly finesse. After Hinkle's punt and Molesworth's six yard toss had forced the Bears back to their own 8 yard line Francis was called upon to punt out. His kick went straight up and was killed on the Bears' 23 yard line. Laws ran off the weak side for six yards. Monnett passed twelve yards to Hutson, putting the ball on the 5 yard line. On first down Hinkle bucked for a gain. Then Monnett passed to Hutson directly over the center of the line. Molesworth knocked it down.

Packers Score Again.

On third down Hutson again ran to his left, calling for the ball, and Monnett aired it to him while Hinkle scooted out to the side. The Bears completely fooled Hutson and Hinkle took Monnett's toss for the touchdown. Tiny Engebretsen added the extra point with a place kick.

LEO WINS SOUTH SECTION TITLE IN CATHOLIC LEAGUE

Select Sites

SITES of the semi-final round games in the Chicago Public High School league football race will be selected today at a meeting in the offices of A. H. Pritzlaff, director of physical education. The games will bring together Austin and Fenger and Tilden Tech and Senn.

Leo High school's football team defeated De La Salle, 22 to 6, yesterday at Shewbridge field before an overflow crowd of 13,000 to win its fourth straight south section title in the Catholic league. It was Leo's fifth league triumph.

Fenwick of Oak Park, the defending champion, went into a tie with St. George, which was idle yesterday, for the north section lead by beating Weber, 19 to 14, at Mills stadium. Fenwick will meet St. George next Sunday for the north division championship and the right to oppose Leo in the Catholic final.

Loyola Routs De Paul.

In another north section contest yesterday Loyola routed De Paul, 31 to 6, on the latter's field. It was Loyola's third victory in five starts and De Paul's fifth loss. Loyola scored in every quarter but the first, Gordon, De Leonardis, Kelly, Hoskin, and Mennes accounting for the touchdowns. Gavin went over for the losers in the third quarter.

In other south section battles Catholic High of Joliet whipped St. Philip, 20 to 7, and St. Rita triumphed over St. Ignatius, 14 to 7. Left Half Back Heinz starred in the St. Rita victory, its third in five games, by scoring both touchdowns, one on an eighty-five yard run. The defeat was St. Ignatius' fifth in six starts.

Game Turned Into Rout.

De La Salle recovered a Leo fumble in the first quarter and drove thirty yards for the first touchdown of the game, Wanago going over with a lateral. Leo then tied it up at 6 to 6 midway through the second period when Johnny Galvin, the league's leading scorer, sprinted across on an eight yard end run. In the final half Leo turned the game into a rout with touchdowns by Galvin and McLaughlin, two points after touchdown, and a safety.

Fenwick trailed, 14 to 12, at the half in its battle with Weber, but pushed over a touchdown in the third period and protected the advantage the rest of the way to stay in the running for the north section title. Kruger, Barrett, and Rank scored Fenwick's touchdowns and Furmanek and Prusznsky counted for Weber.

San Francisco Is Beaten by St. Mary's, 3-0

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 7.—(AP)—St. Mary's Gaels called out their kicking specialist today to defeat the University of San Francisco, 3 to 0, in their annual football game.

Lou Ferry, veteran quarter back, was rushed in shortly after the start of the game after the Gaels had smashed down to San Francisco's 28 yard line. From a sharp angle on the 34 yard line, Ferry kicked the goal. Last year against Fordham, Ferry kicked the longest field goal on record for 1936—fifty-four yards.

ST. BONAVENTURE WINS.

Olean, N. Y., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Half Back Walter Carew scored three touchdowns in one quarter today as St. Bonaventure's football team defeated Mount St. Mary's from Emmitsburg, Md., 22 to 0. Carew made his 18 points in the second period.

ST. VINCENT WINS, 19-13.

Latrobe, Pa., Nov. 7.—(AP)—An alert guard took advantage of a blocked punt today and scored the winning touchdown as St. Vincent beat St. Anselm, 19 to 13. The break came late in the fourth period, when the two teams were tied at 13 all. Deep in his own territory, McLean of St. Anselm tried to kick out and the ball was blocked. It bounded goalward and the guard, Mataruski, took it on the 2 yard line and ran over for a touchdown.

Aronson and Roop Lead Roller Derby at 1,037 Miles

Wes Aronson and Hazel Roop were leading the roller Derby as the fourteen teams and one solo passed the 1,037 mile mark last night at the Coliseum. The leaders had a total of 59 points, one more than Kitty Nehls and Muscles Stampley, who are in second place.

Here's the List of Nation's Best Football Teams

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Here's the status of college football leaders as a result of the latest returns:

Far west—California, unbeaten, but tied, in lead for Pacific Coast conference title and Rose Bowl nomination; Santa Clara, Sugar Bowl aspirant, unbeaten and untied; Colorado, Rocky Mountain leader, and Montana, both unbeaten and untied.

East—Six teams unbeaten, but tied, including Pittsburgh, Fordham, Yale, Dartmouth, Villanova, and Holy Cross; Lafayette, neither beaten nor tied.

Middle west—Minnesota in Big Ten lead; Nebraska, unbeaten, but tied twice in Big Six race.

South—Alabama, unbeaten and untied, in lead for Southeastern championship; Duke, unbeaten, but tied once, at top in Southern conference; Rice in Southwest conference lead, following first defeat for Baylor.

C. Y. O. Boxers Face 5 Nights of Fighting

Preliminary bouts of the seventh annual Catholic Youth Organization Christmas Fund boxing tournament will be concluded this week with five consecutive nights of boxing. Starting tonight and continuing to Friday night, hundreds of boys from two sections, suburban and north, will trade punches.

Tonight and tomorrow night the suburban championship bouts will be staged at Catholic High school gymnasium, Joliet, Ill. The following three nights, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, the north side entrants will clash at the Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

Suburban winners will advance to the semi-final matches, while north section victors will qualify for the quarter-final bouts, which will take place on Nov. 17 at the Marigold Gardens.

The semi-finals will be staged on Nov. 22 and 23 at the C. Y. O. center, 31 East Congress street. Boys winning the semi-final contests will be the finalists of the tournament on the night of Dec. 1 at the Chicago Stadium.

Tranavitch Adds to His Lead in Eastern Scoring

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Bill Tranavitch, Rutgers' sophomore half back, added a touchdown to his previous total over the week-end to stretch his lead in the race for eastern football scoring honors.

He scored Rutgers' only touchdown yesterday against Lafayette on an eighty-six yard run and boosted his season total to eighty-four points on a dozen touchdowns and twelve extra points.

His nearest rival, Sid White of Brooklyn college, was held scoreless to remain at sixty-eight points.

The lead in kicking extra points was taken from Tranavitch, however, when Bill Bragg of Marshall booted four against Centre to boost his total for the season to fourteen, two more than the Rutgers ace.

plunged the Philadelphia Eagles to a 14 to 10 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers today in a National Professional league game that marked the professional debut of Clarence [Ace] Parker, Duke's star back of last year, with the Dodgers.

A crowd of 10,000 at Ebbets field watched the former Temple star lead a 76 yard offensive that wound up with Smukler hurtling through the line early in the last period for the winning touchdown.

Though Parker played a fine game for the Dodgers, it was Joe Maniaci, former Fordham star, who was the real Brooklyn scoring threat.

The Eagles scored their first touchdown early in the second period in seven plays, with Smukler passing to Bill Hewitt in the end zone for the touchdown. Passes by Smukler to Joe Carter and Hewitt brought the ball to the 15. Then Smukler drove his way to the 9 and finally connected with a pass to Hewitt.

The second Eagle touchdown march started from their own 24. Smukler threw a pass to Keen to his own 34; threw another to Hewitt, who lateraled to Baze on the Brooklyn 37. Three more passes by Smukler brought the ball to the Brooklyn 6 inch line, from where Smukler went over.

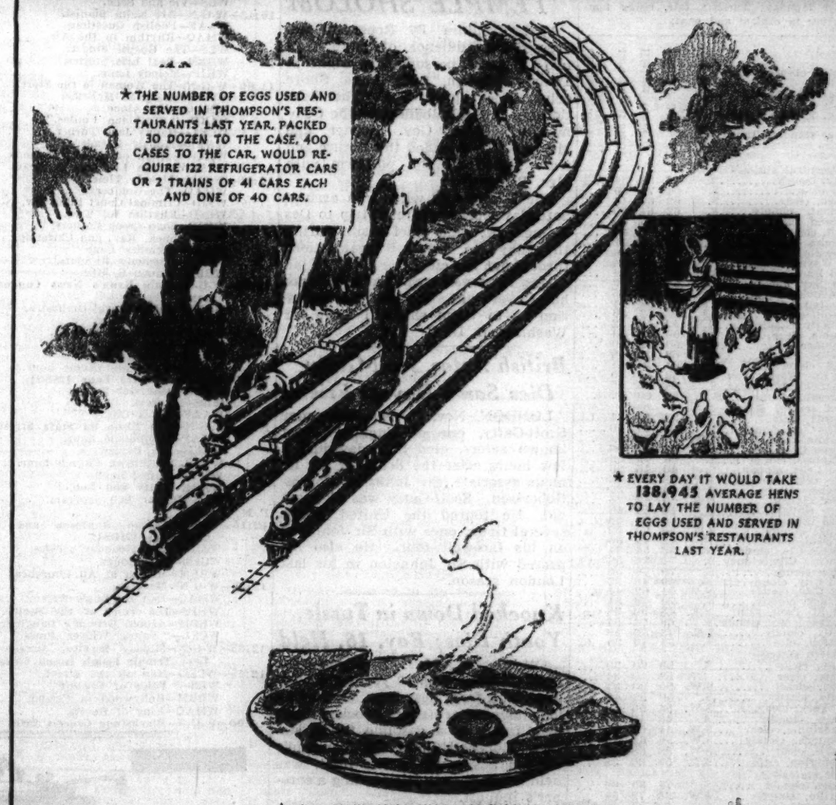
it's a fact



★ THE NUMBER OF EGGS USED AND SERVED IN THOMPSON'S RESTAURANTS LAST YEAR, PACKED 30 DOZEN TO THE CASE, 400 CASES TO THE CAR, WOULD REQUIRE 122 REFRIGERATOR CARS OR 2 TRAINS OF 41 CARS EACH AND ONE OF 40 CARS.

★ EVERY DAY IT WOULD TAKE 138,945 AVERAGE HENS TO LAY THE NUMBER OF EGGS USED AND SERVED IN THOMPSON'S RESTAURANTS LAST YEAR.

★ FOR BREAKFAST OR THAT LATE EVENING APPETITE, TWO FRIED, FRESH COUNTRY EGGS, WITH 4 STRIPS OF CRISP BACON AND BUTTERED TOAST—30¢

★ In 1936, Thompson's 114 Restaurants in 37 cities used and served 17,650,190 finest quality eggs, an average of 337,568 per week or 48,224 per day—each one candled to assure its perfect goodness. While egg production varies seasonally, at the yearly average of 37.4 eggs per 100 chickens per day, 138,945 hens would be required for this vast quantity. Thompson's must be a good place to eat.

JAS. THOMAS, 94, DIES; NATIONAL LEADER IN G. A. R.

Veteran a Chicagoan for 65 Years.

James C. Thomas, 94 years old, Illinois department adjutant general and past national inspector general of the G. A. R., died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Edna Potts, 3981 Drexel boulevard. He had lived in Chicago sixty-five years and prior to his retirement ten years ago was in the text book publishing business.

James C. Thomas.

Mr. Thomas was born in Florence county, Ohio. He served two and one-half years as regimental commissary sergeant of the 111th Ohio infantry, fighting at Huff's Ferry, the siege of Knoxville, Buzzard's Gap, and Nashville.

In 1873 he came to Chicago and entered the publishing business. He was a member of George H. Thomas post, No. 5, and one of its past commanders. Mr. Thomas was able to attend the October meeting of the post.

Mrs. Potts is his only survivor. His wife died seven years ago.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 tomorrow in the chapel at 4227 Cottage Grove avenue. The fourteen remaining members of George H. Thomas post will be present to conduct the G. A. R. ritual. Burial will be private.

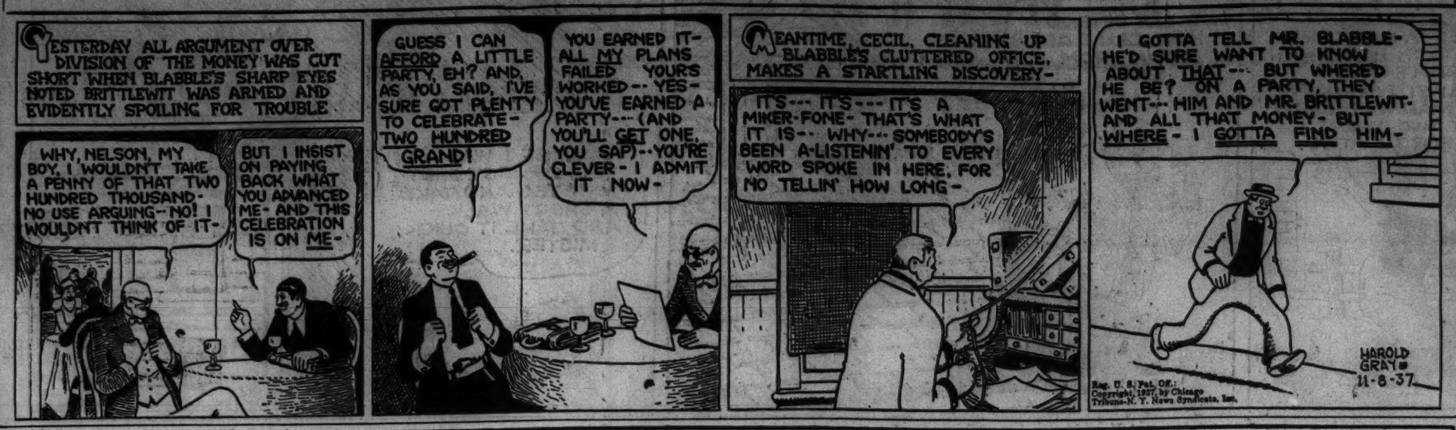
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: It's a Long Road



L. R. WILDER, 49, INDUSTRIALIST, IS DEAD IN SOUTH

Lawrence R. Wilder, prominent engineer, shipbuilder, and former Chicagoan, died suddenly late Saturday night at Pascagoula, Miss., where he recently made his home and engaged in shipbuilding. He was a former son-in-law of the late James A. Patten, Evanston wheat king.

Mr. Wilder was born in Oak Park forty-nine years ago, a son of John E. Wilder, wealthy tanner. He was educated at Lewis institute and Princeton and Purdue universities. He was at times head of many important companies, including the Fansteel corporation, North Chicago; the shipbuilding division of the American Brown-Boveri Electric corporation, and Gulf Industries. In 1935 the senate munitions committee summoned him as a witness.

On Christmas day, 1911, Mr. Wilder married Miss Agnes Patten. He divorced her in 1923 on charges of desertion. She has remarried and lives in California. In May, 1936, Mr. Wilder married Miss Judith Kitchen, his former secretary, who survives. Other survivors are a brother, Emory of Barrington, and two sisters, Mrs. Lois Landreth of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Antoinette W. Ball of Winnetka.

F. P. GARVAN DIES; EX-CUSTODIAN OF ALIEN PROPERTY

New York, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Francis Patrick Garvan, 62, president of the Chemical Foundation and United States alien property custodian during the post-war period, died today at his home after three days' illness of pneumonia.

A former assistant United States attorney general, Garvan became alien property custodian March 4, 1919, after serving for two years as custodian of alien property in the New York area.

The handing over of 6,400 German patents and processes seized during the war to the Chemical Foundation resulted in demands being made on Garvan for their return after his successor, Thomas W. Miller, became alien property custodian in 1921.

Garvan defended his action in giving the foundation control of the patents, and in a letter to President Harding charged that German agents representing the international dye trust instigated the demands.

MRS. ROOSEVELT TALKS TO 2,000 IN TEMPLE SHOLOM

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt addressed an audience of more than two thousand persons last night at Temple Sholom, 3480 Lake Shore drive. Her subject was "The Relationship of the Individual to the Community." Both Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly attended the lecture and were seated on the platform with Mrs. Roosevelt.

The President's wife, who arrived Saturday morning after a trip to Des Moines, Ia., paid brief visits during the day to youth organizations throughout the city.

Mrs. Roosevelt stayed at the Drake hotel overnight. She gave no indication as to when she will leave for Washington, D. C.

British Actor Scott-Gatty Dies Same Day as Friend

LONDON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Alexander Scott-Gatty, one of England's best known actors, died Saturday just a few hours after the death of his famous associate, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson. Scott-Gatty was 61 years old. He toured the United States several times, once with Sir Johnston on his farewell tour. He also appeared with Sir Johnston in his last London season.

Knocked Down in Tussle, Youth Dies; Boy, 16, Held

Ottawa, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Dale Charbonneau, 19 years old, who lived on a farm near here, died today four hours after he was knocked down in a tussle at a gasoline filling station. Robert Hill, 16, Charbonneau's alleged adversary in the fight, was held in the county jail pending a coroner's inquest.

Funeral Services Today for Mrs. A. J. Moon, 96

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Funeral services for Mrs. A. J. Moon, 96, a descendant of one of the earliest pioneer families of McLean county, will be held tomorrow at Grace Methodist church. Mrs. Moon died Saturday.

NEWS OF FINANCIAL AND GRAIN MARKETS

DROP IN WHEAT REFLECTS LOSS OF CONFIDENCE

Prices Are Lowest for 16 Months.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The ebb of confidence that has sent the prices of commodities and securities tumbling has been sharply mirrored in the Chicago wheat market, where prices last week sank to the lowest level in sixteen months. Traders had to look beyond the immediate price making influences that normally underlie market fluctuations to account for last week's abrupt slump in prices.

In the supply and demand situation, which provides the immediate market background on which traders either buy or sell, there were no developments of a character that could explain the sharp decline in values.

Buyers Lose Confidence.

Buyers shied from wheat and other grains for the same reasons that buyers in all markets hesitated to make commitments. The loss of confidence of buyers in the grain market was as unmistakable as it was in the securities markets and in the other commodity markets. Market analysts were hard put to it to put a finger on specific reasons for the ebb in confidence, but the fact that prices had tumbled could not be controverted.

The mercurial temperament of the speculator fluctuated with prices, and when the week closed with wheat quoted 10 cents a bushel lower, it meant that the traders felt just that much more pessimistic than when they began the week.

Rise in Gold Is Factor.

Paradoxically, it was the antics of the London gold market that unnerved traders the most. As the gold price rose in London on buying that was said to come from European hoarders, the wheat trader in Chicago felt less like laying any market bets. The average trader is accustomed to speculate on swings in prices, but when the possibility of a revision in the money yardstick appears he loses his nerve. That is what happened when the rise in gold started fresh rumors that a new dollar devaluation was in the offing.

The range of grain future prices in Chicago last week follows:

WHEAT.

Stocks Lower During Week; Volume Drops

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Virtually uninterrupted weakness characterized trading on the New York Stock exchange last week. The decline in the five days of trading—the exchange was closed on Tuesday because of the New York municipal elections—was the widest since the week ended on July 22, 1933.

With the exception of gold mining shares, all varieties of equities participated in the decline. Heavy industrial shares were the chief victims, though other sections of the list suffered sizeable losses.

Sharp Declines Reported.

Declines in actives ranged from 1 to more than 10 points. United States Steel fell 10½ points on the second biggest volume of the week.

Each full session of the market saw more than a million shares change hands, but the thinness of the market was again singled out for comment. Total sales for the week amounted to 6,251,230 shares, a sharp contraction from the preceding week, when sales amounted to 11,190,900 shares.

As measured by the Dow-Jones averages, 30 representative industrial stocks dropped 13.03 points, 20 railroads lost 2.96 and 20 utility issues declined 1.62 points. The market lost all of the ground gained in the preceding week's strong recovery. Sixty issues touched new lows for the year.

Discuss Business Outlook.

The stimulus provided by the revision of margin requirement wore off quickly. On Monday financial circles were again thinking of how far the recession in business might last and how far it might go. Stocks worked lower and broke sharply on Wednesday, when trading was resumed after Tuesday's holiday. Thursday the list sagged further.

Only on Friday did the market show any evidence of strength. A good recovery took place in early trading, but the drive toward higher ground stalled and the list closed only slightly higher. Saturday's short session witnessed a renewal of selling, with the declines running from 1 to 6 points.

MEMBER BANKS HAVE LOAN GAIN OF $450,000,000

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—Expansion in commercial loans at reporting member banks from the beginnin gof August to the middle of October was as rapid as at any time since the resumption of the increase in these loans early in 1936, says the Federal Reserve Bulletin for November, made public today. The gain amounted to about $450,000,000.

The growth in commercial loans during June and July, which averaged nearly $20,000,000 a week, was contrary to the usual seasonal tendency, it stated. While the bulletin said a seasonal increase in these loans usually takes place between the first of August and the middle of October, this year's expansion was "much larger than usual."

Half of the increase of about $450,000,000 was recorded at banks in New York City, said the bulletin. Increases were shown for each district, the largest being in the agricultural districts of Minneapolis, St. Louis, Dallas, Cleveland, and in the districts of New York outside of New York City.

Caterpillar Tractor.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information in regard to the Caterpillar Tractor company.—M. W. F.

Answer: Leading manufacturer of the track type of tractor, this company has strengthened its position in the last few years by the development of Diesel engines to supply the power for its tractors. Gasoline engines still are available in Caterpillar tractors, but Diesels are preferred by a wide margin where available.

The company also sells Diesels for stationary power units, pumping stations, air compressors, dredges, earth moving machinery, and other types of construction and industrial machinery.

Products are used mainly for road building and maintenance, earth moving, heavy construction, logging, snow removal, oil field work, mining and quarrying, freighting, and agriculture.

Coöperation in marketing has been obtained from manufacturers of machines or equipment designed to be pulled, pushed, or powered by Caterpillar products.

Sales have been at record levels in the last two years, surpassing the previous high of $51,812,000 in 1929. Although held down to some extent by increased wages, material costs and taxes, earnings this year have been running about even with the 1929 record of $11,600,000 or $6.16 a share.

September business was less than a year ago, but sales were $54,406,000 and net income was $9,136,000 or $4.73 per common share in the first nine months of this year, compared with sales of $42,125,000 and net of $7,032,000 or $3.74 a share in the first nine months of 1936. The record, since 1932, only year in the red, follows:

	Sales.	Net income.	Inc. per com. shr.
1936	$54,118,000	$9,850,000	$5.23
1935	36,447,000	5,949,000	3.16
1934	23,760,000	3,651,000	1.94
1933	14,408,000	303,000	0.16
1932	13,259,000	*1,617,000	*0.86

*Loss.

Dividends have been paid in each year since formation of the company in 1925. Payments amounted to $1.25 in 1934, $2 in 1935, and $5.50 in 1936, including $3.50 in new 5 per cent $100 par preferred stock. Including 50 cents cash payable Nov. 25 and $3 in preferred stock payable Dec. 15, both to stockholders of record Nov. 15, 1937 payments total $5.

There are now 1,882,240 shares of no par common and 60,147 shares of preferred, not including the stock to be issued as a dividend in December.

The common deserves a good rating. The preferred is high grade.

Oil Institute Meeting to Be Opened Today

More than 2,000 petroleum executives and engineers will meet today at the Stevens hotel at the opening session of the 18th annual convention of the American Petroleum institute. The convention will continue through Friday.

Discussion will center on the contributions of industrial research to economic welfare, and the technical phases of petroleum production and refining. Possibilities of broadening the petroleum industry from a supplyer of motor fuels and lubricants to a more inclusive chemical industry will be discussed.

W. E. Disney to Speak.

Prominent speakers will include Congressman Wesley E. Disney of Oklahoma, who has long been close to the petroleum industry, and Dr. H. E. Howe of Washington, D. C., editor of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, who will speak on "The Significance of Petroleum Research—Its Value to the Public, Its Necessity to the Industry." Both will speak at the second general session Thursday afternoon.

Methods for finding oil in advance of drilling will be reported by a committee which has studied under the sponsorship of the institute more than 30,000 samples of rock and sediment from every state and several thousand samples from other countries.

New Use for Gasoline.

Another report, based on 10 years of research, will describe ordinary motor fuel as having potential value of $50 a gallon if used as raw material for the production of recently discovered petroleum hydrocarbons with widespread commercial application.

Dr. Gustav Egloff, J. C. Morrell, and E. F. Nelson, all of the Universal Oil Products company, Chicago, will give a report on "Motor Fuels from Polymerization."

Today and tomorrow will be devoted entirely to committee meetings. At the first general session, Wednesday afternoon, Axtell J. Byles of New York, president of the institute, will deliver the annual president's address. George A. Hill Jr. of the Houston Oil company, Houston, Tex., will also speak at this session.

STEEL OUTPUT SAGS FURTHER TO 47 PCT. RATE

Steel ingot production last week was estimated yesterday by the magazine Steel at 47 per cent of ingot capacity, compared with an estimate of 51 per cent for the preceding week. Last Monday the American Iron and Steel institute's report indicated operations would be at 48.6 per cent of capacity, but losses were larger than expected in several steel producing centers.

The rate in the Chicago district declined 2 points to 42 per cent; Wheeling dropped 8 points to 54; Cleveland, 5 points to 54; Youngstown, 3 points to 51, and eastern Pennsylvania, 5 points to 38 per cent. The Pittsburgh rate held steady at 41 per cent, but operations were cut sharply in several of the smaller producing districts.

Despite the further decline in steel operations, last week produced several cheering items of news to steel makers. An order by Ford Motor company for steel pilings was said to be the largest ever placed for that class of material, according to Steel.

Railroad equipment and rail buying received an impetus from the Southern Pacific's large rail inquiry, comprising about 75 per cent as much as had been ordered during the entire first ten months of this year.

Freight car awards in October numbered 1,355, bringing the total for this year to date to 51,061 cars. This is the best record since 1929, and the ten months' total exceeds the total for most years since that date.

Underwriters—1.

Investment bankers who underwrite security issues are important middle men in corporate financing. In effect, they write insurance for corporations undertaking an offering of securities.

A corporation seldom chooses to handle its own financing without the service of an investment banker because it is not experienced in the security business. If the financing operation is a large one, more than one investment banker will be called in and an underwriting syndicate will be formed to handle it.

The underwriters and the corporation first decide the type of securities to be offered and the price at which they will be attractive to the public. If the securities are bonds or preferred stock the rate of interest or dividends is an important factor. The rate will depend to a considerable extent on the credit standing of the corporation and, in turn, will be a determining factor in the price at which the securities will be offered.

Another question to be settled is the underwriter's margin of profit. If the credit standing of the corporation undertaking the financing is high, the market favorable, and the price appears to be satisfactory, the underwriters probably will ask only a small margin of profit. If the corporation is small and little known the underwriter probably will demand a stiff percentage of the gross price because of the risk he is taking of being unable to resell the securities. He may insist, for example, on paying the corporation not more than $5 a share for stock expected to be offered to the public at $7.

CHICAGO TRADE IS RETARDED BY UNCERTAINTIES

Business in Chicago last week was retarded by general uncertainties in the current economic outlook, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday. Retail trade followed a "colorless course," according to the association, but buying was fairly good at the mid-season furniture shows.

Resentment over the surplus tax and further curtailments in the steel output are having their bad effects in manufacturing circles, it was said, and several companies have postponed plans for rehabilitation or plant expansion programs.

BANKERS ASSAIL BILL TO EXTEND POWERS OF SEC

Seen as Hindrance to Investor Aid.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Nov. 7.—[Special.]—The Investment Bankers' association today wound up its 26th annual convention with an attack on the Lea bill, now pending in congress, which would confer upon the Securities and Exchange commission the power to supervise the activities of protective committees, in cases of financial reorganization.

A resolution adopted by the convention described the bill—sponsored by officials of the Securities and Exchange commission—as a hindrance to the efficient carrying out of plans for the protection of investors on the part of underwriters and other non-government groups.

The resolution coincided with an address by Charles M. Johnson, state treasurer of North Carolina, who criticized especially the provision in the bill which would empower the federal government to take charge of the refinancing of defaulted state and city bonds.

Calls Bill Unnecessary.

"The main objection I have to the Lea bill," said Johnson, "is that it appears to be unnecessary and might be the entering wedge for ultimate control of state and municipal financing by a bureau of the federal government. All major defaults have been cured, and there remains only a comparatively small number of defaulted municipalities, consisting of some school districts, counties, cities and towns, having a small defaulted debt, which is being satisfactorily, economically and expeditiously rehabilitated.

"The abuses, if any, of the past, cannot be of sufficient importance to warant the passage of this bill in order to cure any present or threatening abuses."

Johnson said that of approximately 20 billion dollars worth of state and municipal bonds outstanding an estimated 2 billions had been in default at some time during the last few years. Of this 2 billions, he said, considerably more than half has already been refunded without any loss of principal or interest to investors. Most of the rest, he added, has been refunded, with only slight concessions in interest on the part of the bondholders.

New Type of Regulation.

The resolution attacking the Lea bill described it as a completely new departure in federal securities regulation.

"From a study of the so-called Lea bill," it stated, "it is evident that the accepted principle of 'full disclosure' on which the securities act is based is disregarded and a new theory adopted which might well be termed 'regulation, supervision and approval by the commission, with complete disclaim of any responsibility for results."

Francis E. Frothingham, vice president of Coffin & Burr, Inc., Boston, today was elected president of the association for the ensuing year. Alden H. Little of Chicago was elected executive vice president. Other Chicagoans elected included T. Weller Kimball of Glore, Forgan & Co., as vice president; D. T. Richardson of Kelley, Richardson & Co., treasurer, and Edward B. Hall of Hall, Harris & Co., and P. A. Walters of Stone & Webster & Blodgett, Inc., as members of the board of governors.

SALESPEOPLE
Expansion Program

A large eastern manufacturing concern, in fact, the largest manufacturer of electrical units in the world, has sent a representative to Chicago for the express purpose of developing the South Side of Chicago and southeren suburbs.

Four new offices will be opened, 1 in Blue Island, 1 in Chicago Heigths, 1 in Beverly and 1 in the Hyde Park district. We can use talent in the following classes: Sales managers, crew managers, trainers and salesmen, inexperienced men will be given training and adequate help to get started.

Salary, overwriting, commissions, and bonus will be discussed at interview. All men will be given a general conception of our business at a joint session Monday afternoon, November 8, at 1:30 sharp. Private interviews will be given men who attend after the regular session. Come prepared to spend at least 2 hours. Room 400, 841 E. 63d-st.

WHAT KIND OF JOB ARE YOU LOOKING FOR?

Isn't a permanent position with good income and opportunity for advancement with a large company what you want? If you are a serious minded young man interested in your future and if you are 21 to 35 years of age and of neat appearance, Commonwealth Edison Company will consider you for a position in the Appliance Sales Department. If you meet with the above qualifications and have the right attitude, some previous experience is unnecessary. The electrical business is a growing business and men in it receive good percentage plus bonus and in addition drawing account is available for those who qualify. Apply Monday, Room 1230, 140 South Dearborn-street, 9 a. m. to 11 a. m. only.

—10—MEN—10—

The greatest specialty in 50 years is being introduced — catches the eye and holds the interest — presents employes making big percentage incomes. You can do it, too, in this leading electric unit business. We'll prove it. You must be a married man, furnish references, and be between 30 and 45 years. Call to see Mr. O'Kelly, Nov. 8, Monday, between 9:30 and 10 a. m., at 2345 W. Devon-avenue, Chicago.

— — PERMANENT POSITION — — Three North or Northwest side men between 25 and 45 years of age, looking for an opportunity to make real money over a period of time, and who can get along on $94 per week commission and bonus to start, who are willing to work and learn our business, will find a permanent connection selling our new electrical device, and be backed by strong corporation. We finance your business. No investment or cost, but references required. Apply to Mr. Hogan, Room 810, 4839 Lincoln-av., on Nov. 8, Monday, from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m. only.

NORTH SIDE MAN.

I want a man to build into a successful business in North or Northwest side. We manufacture and merchandise our own electrical units completely; opportunity for future is unusual. Married man, 25 to 40 preferred, who is ambitious to fill a responsible position at good pay. Good percentages paid. Apply to Mr. Casten, Nov. 8, Monday, between 9:30 and 10 a. m., at 5207 Diversey-boulevard, Chicago.

The Merger of Wilfred Academy and the Chicago Hairdressing Academy — under the Wilfred banner and under John Mueller's guidance — has brought forth innumerable letters which welcome and praise the world renowned Wilfred System of beauty culture training.

Read what Chicago's most outstanding beauty experts say about Wilfred Academy and John Mueller.

MARC GARTMAN of the exclusive Marc Gartman Salon writes: "I am familiar with the Wilfred System and am certainly glad that Wilfred trained operators can now be secured more easily. Under the leadership of John Mueller, I know you will continue to stand out as America's leading beauty culture school."

STONE & FISCHTL, famous North State-street hairdressers, writes: "It was good news to hear that Wilfred Academy was opening another one of its famous schools. Chicago really needs Wilfred Academy. Best wishes for your continued success under the leadership of John Mueller, whom we all know and respect."

Visit Wilfred Academy today! See why Marc Gartman, Stone & Fischtl, Condos, Emil Rohde, and others recommend Wilfred training for success in beauty culture.

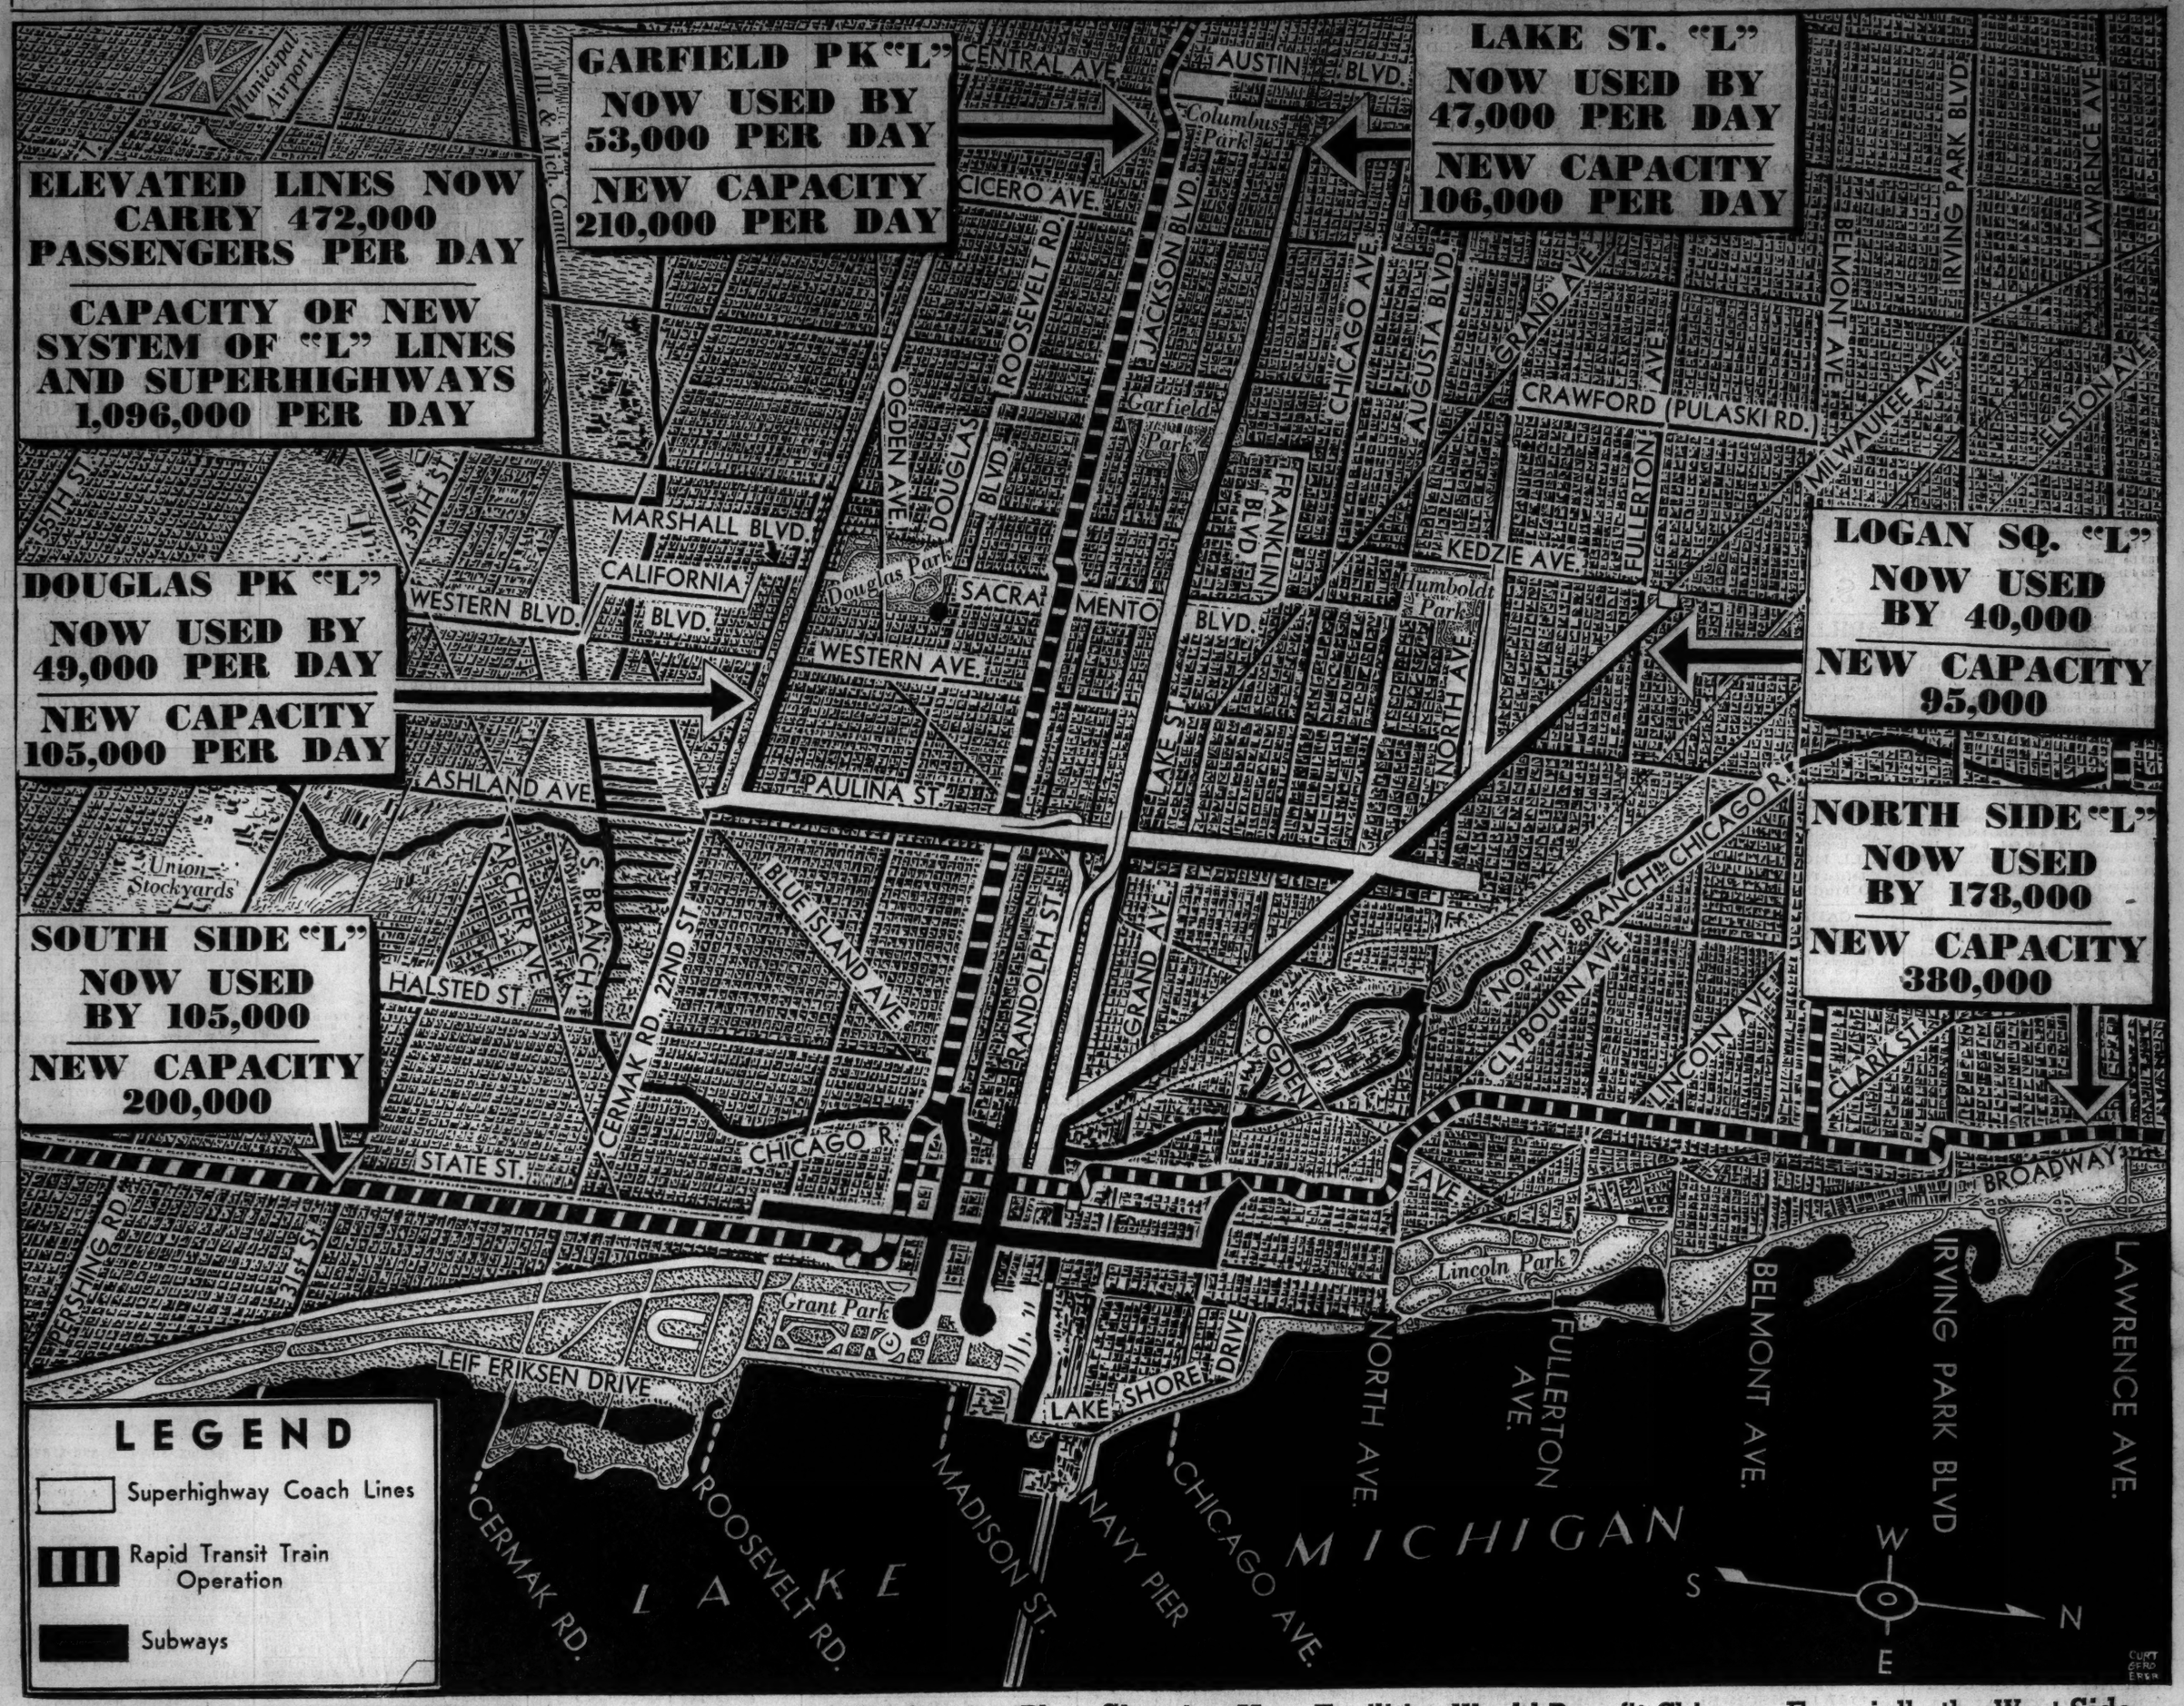
Map Tells at a Glance How Mayor's Program Would Double Rapid Transportation for Present "L" Riders



Principal Features of 157 Million Dollar Improvement and Unification Plan, Showing How Facilities Would Benefit Chicago, Especially the West Side.

Under Mayor Kelly's proposal at least 1,096,000 persons could be carried daily on elevated rail lines and twenty miles of elevated superhighways, as compared with about 472,000 who now ride the "L" system. Note on map where three present "L" lines would be replaced by superhighways. These highways on the west side, according to experts, would provide a much needed service. The whole plan anticipates a great increase in riders without further extensions
